Kennedy May Use Taft-Hartley Act To End Long Ship Strike

Berlin May Trigger New War Threat

Cuba, Laos Are Overshadowed By Explosive Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. foreign policy makers from President Kennedy down were more deeply concerned Saturday about the potentially explosive Berlin crisis than any other cold war problem that has been faced by the new administration.

The Berlin threat overshadowed Kennedy's two other major foreign policy tests so far—Cuba and Laos—where U.S. strategists still saw room for maneuver and less immediate menace to U.S. security.

The failure of the Cuban invasion hit a sensitive nerve here because of the closeness of Latin America.

In Laos, a faraway Asian land whose freedom is deemed important but not absolutely vital to America's security, U.S. diplomats still hope to salvage something from the Red advances.

But free and symbolic West Berlin lies close to the heart of the Western Alliance which is the mainstay of the U.S. global defense system—and there is little room for the West to yield on this Red-encircled city withoug giving it all to the Communists.

The military situation, furthermore, is such that any small fight over Berlin could quickly become a big one. Germany is in the center of modern Europe, no locale for a brush-fire war, and forces on both sides have quick access to atomic weapons.

Kennedy reported after his June 3-4 Vienna meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev that their talks on Berlin were the most somber of all. Kennedy said the talks at least should have lessened chances of a dangerous misjudgment by Khrushchev on the West's determination to hold on to its Berlin rights.

Even this slight optimism suffered a blow last Wednesday when Khrushchev donned a military uniform to address a Kremlin rally. Committing himself more firmly than before, Khrushchev declared he would sign a peace treaty with East Germany at the end of this year.

To the Western powers this signified a Soviet push to oust them from Berlin. For under Khrushchev's scheme, he would turn over access to West Berlin to the

Fear Unity May Elude Congolese

Plans Proceed For Organizing New Government

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Eleventh hour events conspired Saturday to encourage fear that unity may still elude the Congolese, despite plans to reconvene Parliament for designation of a new government.

Three ministers of the rebel Stanleyville regime arrived in Leopoldville by plane without public announcement as to if and when their Communist-backed leader, Antoine Gizenga, would show up.

U.N. troops armed with submachine guns ringed the airport. The Gizenga followers were whisked by motor cars to guarded quarters in the U.N. Leopoldville headquarters building.

Gizenga had notified U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in New York that he would send men to Parliament as soon as the United Nations could guarantee them complete safety.

President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga Province, freed after two months imprisonment, returned by plane to Elisabethville, his capital. Before taking off here he again pledged cooperation with central government officials, but many diplomats were skeptical that the independent-minded executive has buried the hatchet.

President Joseph Kasavubu signed the formal decrees for Parliament to meet Sunday at Lovanium University, on heights 12 miles from Leopoldville, but it is almost certain to be postponed several days for security reasons.

Several hundred Lovanium students demonstrated against the takeover of their campus. They stoned U.N. vehicles and, in a march before Premier Joseph Ileo's residence and U.N. headquarters in Leopoldville, waved banners demanding:

"Hold Parliament on the moon."

"Give us peace for our exams."

With Tshombe went 11 officers of Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu's staff, to draw up plans for integration of the Katanga armed forces with the national army.

Meanwhile, U.N. crews ringed Lovanium University with thick barbed wire five feet high. The U.N. also imported 12 police dogs

Castro POWs Arrive In U. S.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A committee of 10 prisoners from the anti-Castro invasion of Cuba arrived here Saturday from Havana.

Their mission, assigned by Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, was to explain his position in the tractors for prisoners affair to the American public.

The prisoners lined the upper deck of the small Costa Rican freighter Arenal and waved to a crowd of about 200 as the ship tied up.

The crowd was on a neighboring pier, have been barred from the U. S. Coast Guard station where the ship docked.

Many in the crowd were relatives of captured invaders.

They shouted to the prisoners: "Did you bring mail?"

The prisoners shouted back [illegible] Friday night.

One in the crowd shouted "how are you" to the 10 men, who were dressed in sports clothes, rather than in the invasion camouflage uniforms they wore when they arrived the first time.

The men replied they were well. "we are fatter than some of you."

The prisoners disembarked at 6 p.m., some of them carrying packages, as the crowd cheered wildly.

The ship was escorted by a Coast Guard vessel and several small craft as it docked.

In sending the prisoners to the United States, Castro had ignored the disbanding of the Tractors for Freedom Committee, which said his rejection of its latest offer

Richland Man Victim Of Hit-And-Run

Body Discovered Near Delhi; Police Conducting Probe

The body of a 39-year-old Delhi man was found beside a highway south of Dunn Saturday afternoon, apparently a hit-and-run victim, according to officials.

James H. Smith Sr., whose brother is Everett Smith of Monroe, was found lying in a ditch of water at 6 p.m. yesterday and Richland Parish Coroner Dr. J. C. Ellington said he apparently died [illegible] Friday night.

He is also the father of five Monroyans.

FOUND BODY

A passerby found the badly crushed body which had been knocked and dragged between 100 and 150 feet on the highway just one mile south of Dunn.

Funeral arrangements for the victim were incomplete last night but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Rayville.

Richland Parish sheriff's deputies said last night that the death was definitely believed to have been caused by a hit and run driver traveling at a high rate of speed on the rural road.

They stated last night that Smith's clothing will be sent to Baton Rouge for analysis to determine if there were any paint particles from the car mixed into the clothing that would determine the color of the death vehicle.

Officers said that broken glass was found approximately 100 to 150 feet from where Smith's body was found.

He is survived by three sons, Simon, Glen and James Smith Jr., all of Monroe; two daughters, Patsy and Willie Jean Smith, also of Monroe; his parents, Mr. and

Bonds Believed Worthless Give Nice Dividend

CHICAGO (UPI) — The "worthless" bonds for which Leonard Stark paid $1 each "because they were so beautiful" Saturday were worth $5,628.

Stark, 39, a professional coin collector, bought the 285 bonds, printed in orange and green ink in parchments a foot and a half in length, because he hoped to sell them to another collector.

They had a face value of $285,000 but the Rockford, Rock Island & St. Louis Railroad Company, which issued them in 1868, went bankrup in 1876.

Last year, Stark discovered a court had ordered the bankrupt railroad's assets impounded to pay any unchased bonds. That money had been transferred to the U. S. Treasury in 1925.

Friday, Stark and the government divided the money after advertisements failed to produce any other bondholders. Stark got $5,528. The government, which held a $500 bond, got $9.85.

JFK Asks Agencies To Decide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy cleared the way today for a federal back - to - work order in the crippling maritime strike by asking government agencies to decide if the Taft-Hartley Act should be invoked on Monday.

Indications were that the law would be used. It would mean that a court order would be sought to halt the walkout of 75,000 seamen for 80 days, during which time a permanent settlement would be sought.

Federal mediators in New York will continue seeking an end to the strike, but Kennedy obviously felt the deadlock was so hopeless that no quick solution is in sight. Both management and labor were deeply divided over one of the main issues—whether American-owned ships flying foreign "flags of convenience" should be unionized.

Kennedy's decision, reached during talks with Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, ordered a government-wide study over the weekend to see if use of the Taft-Hartley act is justified in halting the nine-day strike. If the act is used, it may be another week before the stoppage is halted, even temporarily.

Government agencies including the Pentagon, the Commerce, Labor and Interior Departments and strike is imperiling the nation's health and safety.

Goldberg has said the strike is damaging the U. S. balance of trade and balance of payments positions in world markets. He also has said that shortages of essential industrial and consumer goods would develop if the strike went on much longer.

NAACP Hits New Welfare Regulations

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP) — Local and state NAACP officials Saturday attacked Newburgh's new welfare regulations. The city manager said he doubted that their viewpoint represents "the feelings of the majority of the decent law-abiding Negroes in the city."

The president of the Newburgh chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People scheduled an emergency meeting for Sunday.

Said the president, Ellsworth Potter: "The national, state and local divisions of the NAACP are alarmed and disturbed over City Manager Joseph Mitchell's continual references to nonwhites and unwed mothers. This injected a racial question into the issue."

The president of the New York State NAACP sent a telegram to Mitchell, opposing the city's new welfare rules. The new regulations, which go into effect July 15, are an effort to lower welfare costs for this city of 31,000. They provide for cutting relief payments to unwed mothers if they have any more children out of wedlock.

In his statement denying that the NAACP viewpoint represented the feelings of most of Newburgh's 5,000 Negroes, Mitchell commented: "The fact is that much of our program is aimed at preserving the respectability of the fine Negro citizens who form the basis of the historic Negro community in this city.

Mrs. F. S. Fisher, the newly-installed president of Ouachita Parish Classroom Teachers Association is representing that group. Mrs. Irene Smith, is representing Fifth District and Ouachita Parish.

Mrs. Mary Lou Humphries has been in the Teps Conference in Philadelphia as a delegate from Ouachita Parish and is returning after the convention.

TO AVOID WAR

Nixon Says U.S. 'Must Risk War'

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday the U. S. "must risk war to avoid war" with Communism.

Nixon told a news conference that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been "more aggressive" in recent weeks due to U. S. actions in Laos and Cuba.

"Khrushchev has the impression that the Kennedy Administration will talk bigger than it will act," he said.

"The only way to deter the course that Khrushchev is following that will lead to war—Berlin, for example—is for the Kennedy Administration to take decisive action in any number of fields. The U. S. cannot afford to back down on any major area or any major issue," he said.

Laos Plan Said Ok'd By Phouma

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Cambodian mediators said Saturday neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma has accepted their majority-rule blueprint for the three-nation truce commission in Laos. But the two other principals in the Zurich Laotian conference are cool to the idea.

Souvanna Phouma has split with Prince Souphanouvong, his pro-Communist half-brother about this veto-free proposal, a Cambodian spokesman said. Prince Boun Oum, pro-Western premier of the royal Laotian government, is sticking to a French plan that would give the commission much broader powers.

The Cambodians said it would be difficult to sell their proposals to Boun Oum and "nearly impossible" to win over Souphanouvong.

The blueprint was drawn up by Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. He submitted it separately to the three rival

Northeast Professor Succumbs

L. LeMar Stephan, 49, associate professor of geography at Northeast Louisiana State College, died yesterday morning in a local hospital following an illness of several weeks. His body was sent last night to Cape Girardeau, Mo., where graveside services will be held Monday afternoon. Arrangements here were under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

A memorial service will be held today at 5:30 p.m. at the Memorial Methodist Church, with the Rev. Spencer Wren, pastor, in charge. The family has requested that no flowers be sent.

Mr. Stephan came to Northeast in September 1959 from Troy State College, Troy, Ala., where he was head of the Geography Department.

He was the author of several pamphlets and articles for professional publications. He wrote a 30,000 word manuscript on regional geography of the world to form a major part of the junior high school textbook to be used in Pakistan and which was translated into the official language of that country. Stephan was co-author of a publication "Georgia: It's Geography and Resources," and the author of other pamphlets, including "Geographic Role of the Everglades in the Early History of Florida" and "Peanut Production in Southeastern United States."

Support For Dixie Meet Still Gains

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said Saturday a few more telegrams from Southern cities trickled in endorsing a proposal to organize a Southern conference of mayors and municipal officials.

Meridian, Miss. joined the growing list of Southern cities supporting the Monroe City Council's plan for a conference of Dixie officials.

"I expect the move to continue to grow through next week," Howard commented.

At Baton Rouge on Thursday, the Louisiana Municipal Association executive board will review a plan by the City Council for a Southern conference.

NONE AGAINST

So far Howard and the City Council have received telegrams from all 11 Southern states, plus five congressmen — none speaking out against the idea.

"I also have been in touch with Mayor Allen Thompson of Jackson, Miss. and he says the idea is receiving good support in his area," Howard explained.

Howard, Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez and Commissioner of Finance outlined a plan Friday for the conference. Their plan is broad, but in effect calls for a conference where Southern officials can discuss the various problems of the South.

Senator Soaper Says

The happy times, we suppose, were when being well-informed on international affairs only involved knowing the name of the King of England.

Who says television isn't educational? We've seen enough blackmailers operate on the TV tube to know that Castro would keep increasing his demands.

It must have been difficult, being a mother back in the days when children didn't have allergies to talk about.

Everything gets devalued. The 600-mile-an-hour airliner is commonplace, and now baseball has introduced the routine home run.

Little Weather Change Slated

The weatherman is back in his rut with the forecast being the same again. The outlook for today and Monday remains the same as the past two days.

Partly cloudy skies and scattered afternoon thundershowers are called for.

The high today is expected to be generally in the 80's.

Yesterday's top reading at Selman Field was 82 degrees with a low recorded at 69.

A federal warrant issued in Baton Rouge charged him with unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

PINNED UNDER DEBRIS

Mine Shaft Yields One Body, 2 Left

PETROS, Tenn. (AP)—Rescue workers late Saturday dragged the body of Charlie Kennedy, 28, from a collapsed mine shaft where he and two other men were trapped Friday afternoon.

The other two men, presumed dead, still were pinned behind the massive heap of debris and rock.

Gentry D. Hunt, a miner who found Kennedy, said his crushed body was doubled up, on his knees, as if he were praying.

Hunt crawled through a 22-inch high opening to reach Kennedy's body. He dug him out from beneath tons of earth and rock with small hand tools.

The other men trapped in the collapse of the mine shaft high in the Cumberland Mountains of eastern Tennessee are Charles Seiver, 23, and Herley Carroll, 18. The cave in Friday came an hour before the miners were to start a two-week vacation.

Five miners escaped the cave-in. One of them had his arm amputated by a doctor with a hacksaw. Another suffered a fractured pelvis. Three were not injured.

One of the trapped men, Herley Carroll, 18, started work at the mine only a week ago and was to have been married this summer.

"Get me out," he pleaded. "Help me. Help me. I'm hurt bad."

This was Friday night.

He has not been heard since.

The other two men were Charles Seiver, 23, and Charlie Kennedy, 28. Federal mine inspectator Steve Bukovitz said

KHRUSHCHEV LIKES IT

Horsemeat Is Good, Soviet People Told

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev called Saturday for use of horse meat and American-type hybrid corn to ease food shortages troubling the Soviet Union. He said he had eaten horse meat and liked it.

The premier spoke in a nationwide radio address from Alma Ata, capital of Kazakhstan. That Virgin Lands Republic is celebrating its 40th anniversary.

Khrushchev promised that plans for a swift, tempestuous boom in the Soviet economy would be unveiled soon. He declared the Soviet Union was beginning to step on the heels of the United States in per capita production.

The premier devoted most of his speech to domestic matters. He did find time to reiterate that he intends to sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany in the near future.

Then he told an applauding crowd in Alma Ata's opera house, "Now I would like to talk about the breeding of horses for meat, because the meat is very tasty.

"Yesterday I was entertained by Kazakhs (Turko-Mongolians who make up 57 per cent of Kazakhstan's six million people) and they gave me this meat.

"This meat is very fat. Perhaps because of my age and constitution, I like this fat. The meat is very nourishing and has many calories and is very cheap.

"That is why we have to develop production of this meat. We have many people who are accustomed to using this meat and we have some people who do

Laos Plan Said Ok'd By Phouma

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Cambodian mediators said Saturday neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma has accepted their majority-rule blueprint for the three-nation truce commission in Laos. But the two other principals in the Zurich Laotian conference are cool to the idea.

Souvanna Phouma has split with Prince Souphanouvong, his pro-Communist half-brother about this veto-free proposal, a Cambodian spokesman said. Prince Boun Oum, pro-Western premier of the royal Laotian government, is sticking to a French plan that would give the commission much broader powers.

The Cambodians said it would be difficult to sell their proposals to Boun Oum and "nearly impossible" to win over Souphanouvong.

The blueprint was drawn up by Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. He submitted it separately to the three rival

Northeast Professor Succumbs

L. LeMar Stephan, 49, associate professor of geography at Northeast Louisiana State College, died yesterday morning in a local hospital following an illness of several weeks. His body was sent last night to Cape Girardeau, Mo., where graveside services will be held Monday afternoon. Arrangements here were under direction of Kilpatrick Funeral Home of West Monroe.

A memorial service will be held today at 5:30 p.m. at the Memorial Methodist Church, with the Rev. Spencer Wren, pastor, in charge. The family has requested that no flowers be sent.

Mr. Stephan came to Northeast in September 1959 from Troy State College, Troy, Ala., where he was head of the Geography Department.

He was the author of several pamphlets and articles for professional publications. He wrote a 30,000 word manuscript on regional geography of the world to form a major part of the junior high school textbook to be used in Pakistan and which was translated into the official language of that country. Stephan was co-author of a publication "Georgia: It's Geography and Resources," and the author of other pamphlets, including "Geographic Role of the Everglades in the Early History of Florida" and "Peanut Production in Southeastern United States."

NAACP Hits New Welfare Regulations

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP) — Local and state NAACP officials Saturday attacked Newburgh's new welfare regulations. The city manager said he doubted that their viewpoint represents "the feelings of the majority of the decent law-abiding Negroes in the city."

The president of the Newburgh chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People scheduled an emergency meeting for Sunday.

Said the president, Ellsworth Potter: "The national, state and local divisions of the NAACP are alarmed and disturbed over City Manager Joseph Mitchell's continual references to nonwhites and unwed mothers. This injected a racial question into the issue."

The president of the New York State NAACP sent a telegram to Mitchell, opposing the city's new welfare rules. The new regulations, which go into effect July 15, are an effort to lower welfare costs for this city of 31,000. They provide for cutting relief payments to unwed mothers if they have any more children out of wedlock.

In his statement denying that the NAACP viewpoint represented the feelings of most of Newburgh's 5,000 Negroes, Mitchell commented: "The fact is that much of our program is aimed at preserving the respectability of the fine Negro citizens who form the basis of the historic Negro community in this city.

Mrs. F. S. Fisher, the newly-installed president of Ouachita Parish Classroom Teachers Association is representing that group. Mrs. Irene Smith, is representing Fifth District and Ouachita Parish.

Mrs. Mary Lou Humphries has been in the Teps Conference in Philadelphia as a delegate from Ouachita Parish and is returning after the convention.

Support For Dixie Meet Still Gains

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said Saturday a few more telegrams from Southern cities trickled in endorsing a proposal to organize a Southern conference of mayors and municipal officials.

Meridian, Miss. joined the growing list of Southern cities supporting the Monroe City Council's plan for a conference of Dixie officials.

"I expect the move to continue to grow through next week," Howard commented.

At Baton Rouge on Thursday, the Louisiana Municipal Association executive board will review a plan by the City Council for a Southern conference.

NONE AGAINST

So far Howard and the City Council have received telegrams from all 11 Southern states, plus five congressmen — none speaking out against the idea.

"I also have been in touch with Mayor Allen Thompson of Jackson, Miss. and he says the idea is receiving good support in his area," Howard explained.

Howard, Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez and Commissioner of Finance outlined a plan Friday for the conference. Their plan is broad, but in effect calls for a conference where Southern officials can discuss the various problems of the South.

"I think our two greatest needs

Senator Soaper Says

The happy times, we suppose, were when being well-informed on international affairs only involved knowing the name of the King of England.

Who says television isn't e du ca ti on al? We've seen enough blackmailers operate on the TV tube to know that Castro would keep increasing his demands.

It must have been difficult, being a mother back in the days when children didn't have allergies to talk about.

Everything gets devalued. The 600-mile-an-hour airliner is commonplace, and now baseball has introduced the routine home run.

Little Weather Change Slated

The weatherman is back in his rut with the forecast being the same again. The outlook for today and Monday remains the same as the past two days.

Partly cloudy skies and scattered afternoon thundershowers are called for.

The high today is expected to be generally in the 80's.

Yesterday's top reading at Selman Field was 82 degrees with a low recorded at 69.

PINNED UNDER DEBRIS

Mine Shaft Yields One Body, 2 Left

PETROS, Tenn. (AP)—Rescue workers late Saturday dragged the body of Charlie Kennedy, 28, from a collapsed mine shaft where he and two other men were trapped Friday afternoon.

The other two men, presumed dead, still were pinned behind the massive heap of debris and rock.

Gentry D. Hunt, a miner who found Kennedy, said his crushed body was doubled up, on his knees, as if he were praying.

Hunt crawled through a 22-inch high opening to reach Kennedy's body. He dug him out from beneath tons of earth and rock with small hand tools.

The other men trapped in the collapse of the mine shaft high in the Cumberland Mountains of eastern Tennessee are Charles Seiver, 23, and Herley Carroll, 18. The cave in Friday came an hour before the miners were to start a two-week vacation.

Five miners escaped the cave-in. One of them had his arm amputated by a doctor with a hacksaw. Another suffered a fractured pelvis. Three were not injured.

One of the trapped men, Herley Carroll, 18, started work at the mine only a week ago and was to have been married this summer.

"Get me out," he pleaded. "Help me. Help me. I'm hurt bad."

This was Friday night.

He has not been heard since.

The other two men were Charles Seiver, 23, and Charlie Kennedy, 28. Federal mine inspectator Steve Bukovitz said

Angola Convict Taken By FBI

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The FBI Saturday announced the arrest of James Albert Weeks, 39-year-old escaped Louisiana convict, in Hot Springs, Ark., where he had been living the last two years under the name of James Watson.

A federal warrant issued in Baton Rouge charged him with unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

KHRUSHCHEV LIKES IT

Horsemeat Is Good, Soviet People Told

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev called Saturday for use of horse meat and American-type hybrid corn to ease food shortages troubling the Soviet Union. He said he had eaten horse meat and liked it.

The premier spoke in a nationwide radio address from Alma Ata, capital of Kazakhstan. That Virgin Lands Republic is celebrating its 40th anniversary.

Khrushchev promised that plans for a swift, tempestuous boom in the Soviet economy would be unveiled soon. He declared the Soviet Union was beginning to step on the heels of the United States in per capita production.

The premier devoted most of his speech to domestic matters. He did find time to reiterate that he intends to sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany in the near future.

Then he told an applauding crowd in Alma Ata's opera house, "Now I would like to talk about the breeding of horses for meat, because the meat is very tasty.

"Yesterday I was entertained by Kazakhs (Turko-Mongolians who make up 57 per cent of Kazakhstan's six million people) and they gave me this meat.

"This meat is very fat. Perhaps because of my age and constitution, I like this fat. The meat is very nourishing and has many calories and is very cheap.

"That is why we have to develop production of this meat. We have many people who are accustomed to using this meat and we have some people who do

Peace Corps Opens Training

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A group of young Americans, inspired by President Kennedy's proposal to shore up the nation's international relations with the personal approach, begin training for the task Monday.

One of the students may have something to add to the instruction.

"They accept you if you sit down and eat with them," says Harris P. Bresee Jr. The group that will train here will be sent to Tanganyika, in eastern Africa.

Bresee, 30, of Orange, Va., spent some time in Tanganyika on a hitchhiking tour.

While the 38 or so recruits train here for African duty, a similar group begins studies at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., for service in Columbia.

Volunteers at the two training sites are the initial Peace Corps men.

The aim of the corps, proposed by the President shortly after he took office, is to place Americans alongside natives working on projects designed to improve the economy of many nations.

One object of the program is to allow natives to determine for themselves what Americans are, thus counteracting Communist propaganda.

The training here will be at Texas Western College, a branch of the University of Texas.

Texas Western was selected because it has an excellent engineering school. Tanganyika asked for geologists, civil engineers and surveyors.

It also teachers Swahili, the native language, and the country at Texas' far western tip is somewhat similar to that of Tanganyika's uplands.

Britain, assisted by the Belgians, captured Tanganyika from German in World War I and has held it as a trust territory since. It has almost achieve independence, effective Dec. 28, under a step-by-step program.

Ernest Hoberecht, UPI vice president and general manager for Asia, said, "All we can say is the visa is still in Smith's passport."

FOR TRACTORS FOR FREEDOM

DETROIT (AP)—The U.S. post office here is awaiting word from Tractors for Freedom, Inc., before disposing of some 20 bags of thus-far unclaimed mail containing contributions for the now dead tractors for prisoners exchange.

Emile Asa, assistant to Postmater Edward L. Baker, said Tractors for Freedom mail has continued to pour into the post office, although at a diminishing rate.

During this last week, he said, an average of 150 letters arrived each day. He estimated the present number of letters at between 65,000 and 70,000.

In its month of existence, the committee did not once claim its mail from P.O. Box Freedom, Detroit.

The committee led by Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower and Walter P. Reuther announced Friday night it would disband.

The announcement came after the proposed exchange of 800 tractors for 1,200 Cuban rebel prisoners fell apart. The committee charged Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro had reneged on his offer.

In announcing its break-up, the committee said all contributions would be returned.

Asa said he was awaiting word from the committee before putting into operation standard post office procedure for unclaimed mail.

Letters with no return address, he said, would be handled as dead letters and will be opened by the post office to see if the sender can be traced through the contents. If not and the letter contains money or other valuables, the contents will be turned over to the U.S. Treasury.

Rule Judge Can Assume Office

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana State Supreme Court Saturday turned down an attempt to prevent Democratic nominee John R. Rarick from taking office as judge of the 20th judicial district.

The high court refused supervisory writs in a law suit by former East Feliciana Parish Sheriff T. H. Martin. Martin attempted to bar Rarick as the legal nominee.

The rare Saturday session was called after the First Circuit Court of Appeal also refused to grant the writs.

Martin, in the suit, claimed Rarick had not practiced the required five years in Louisiana.

Rarick, a St. Francisville lawyer, won the judgeship nomination June 10. He is unopposed in the general election.

The suit was dismissed last Wednesday by district Judge Fred S. Ellis of Covington who had been appointed by the high court to hear the case.

Two Burglaries Investigated By Local Policemen

Two burglaries are being probed by Monroe police in which a total of approximately $50 was taken.

Officers said yesterday that Hill's Bar-B-Q at 1301 Texas Ave. was burglarized and approximately $35 taken from the juke box and pinball machine.

Entrance to the buiding was gained by taking a plywood panel out of the front door, reaching through an unlocking the door. The incident occurred between 3 and 6:30 a.m. Saturday.

About $15 was taken from the soft drink machine at Ritter's Wrecking Yard on DeSiard Street, police said.

Officers are still investigating the method by which the party or parties gained entrance to the building.

Rule Judge Can Assume Office

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana State Supreme Court Saturday turned down an attempt to prevent Democratic nominee John R. Rarick from taking office as judge of the 20th judicial district.

The high court refused supervisory writs in a law suit by former East Feliciana Parish Sheriff T. H. Martin. Martin attempted to bar Rarick as the legal nominee.

The rare Saturday session was called after the First Circuit Court of Appeal also refused to grant the writs.

Martin, in the suit, claimed Rarick had not practiced the required five years in Louisiana.

Rarick, a St. Francisville lawyer, won the judgeship nomination June 10. He is unopposed in the general election.

The suit was dismissed last Wednesday by district Judge Fred S. Ellis of Covington who had been appointed by the high court to hear the case.

Two Burglaries Investigated By Local Policemen

Two burglaries are being probed by Monroe police in which a total of approximately $50 was taken.

Officers said yesterday that Hill's Bar-B-Q at 1301 Texas Ave. was burglarized and approximately $35 taken from the juke box and pinball machine.

Entrance to the buiding was gained by taking a plywood panel out of the front door, reaching through an unlocking the door. The incident occurred between 3 and 6:30 a.m. Saturday.

About $15 was taken from the soft drink machine at Ritter's Wrecking Yard on DeSiard Street, police said.

DETROIT (AP)—The U.S. post office here is awaiting word from Tractors for Freedom, Inc., before disposing of some 20 bags of thus-far unclaimed mail containing contributions for the now dead tractors for prisoners exchange.

Emile Asa, assistant to Postmater Edward L. Baker, said Tractors for Freedom mail has continued to pour into the post office, although at a diminishing rate.

During this last week, he said, an average of 150 letters arrived each day. He estimated the present number of letters at between 65,000 and 70,000.

In its month of existence, the committee did not once claim its mail from P.O. Box Freedom, Detroit.

The committee led by Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower and Walter P. Reuther announced Friday night it would disband.

The announcement came after the proposed exchange of 500 tractors for 1,200 Cuban rebel prisoners fell apart. The committee charged Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro had reneged on his offer.

In announcing its break-up, the committee said all contributions would be returned.

Asa said he was awaiting word from the committee before putting into operation standard post office procedure for unclaimed mail.

Letters with no return address, he said, would be handled as dead letters and will be opened by the post office to see if the sender can be traced through the contents. If not and the letter contains money or other valuables, the contents will be turned over to the U.S. Treasury.

SINKING HIGHWAY

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP) — A prehistoric peat bog that went undetected during the building of Interstate 75 has caused about 300 feet of the super highway to sink about a foot in the past year.

RADIO CARS

CINCINNATI (AP) — The principal's office at Woodward High School is in constant contact via shortwave radio with the school's driver education cars.

The experimental radio units were built and installed by students in electrical and electronics classes and by members of the radio club for a total cost of $100 each.

PATIENTS RELAX in the lounge of the new intensive treatment unit of Central Louisiana State Hospital at Pineville. The hospital will be the subject of discussion at a mental health meeting Tuesday.

PINEVILLE INSTITUTION

Mental Hospital Is Topic At Society Meet Tuesday

More than 100 persons from Ouachita and 150 more from the seven surrounding parishes are admitted each year to Central Louisiana State Hospital, yet surprisingly few people in this area are acquainted with the hospital or it program, according to Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita Parish coroner.

The hospital, where patients are treated for nervous breakdowns, emotional and mental illness, will be the subject of a talk here Tuesday at 8 p.m., when Dr. Arthur L. Seale, hospital superintendent, addresses the Northeast Louisiana Society for Mental Health at a meeting to be held in the Ouachita Parish Library. The public is invited to attend.

Central Louisiana State Hospital was established in Pineville in 1904 to take care of the mentally ill in the area roughly defined as that part of the state west of the Mississippi River and including 38 parishes.

There are now some 3,000 patients on its rolls, including some 500 from the Monroe area.

PIONEER IN SOUTH

One of the pioneers in the South in the new concept of an "open hospital", Central is vastly different today from what it was even 12 or 15 years ago. It has moved dramatically into the role of a custodial institution.

Its concept has become that of providing a "therapeutic community", in which every phase of the hospital program is considered a part of the treatment of patients.

The psychiatrist heads the "treatment team" on which are included psychologists, psychiatric social workers, psychiatric nurses, chaplains, and therapists in music, art, gardening and other activities. An in-service training program enables attendants to step up to psychiatric aides at various levels. Adult education and vocational training programs are offered.

A unique part of the hospital's program is carried on by two treatment centers, one in Lafayette and the other, the Forest Glen Treatment Center, in Pineville on gounds adjoining the hospital. Their role is to give treatment on an out-patient basis to those individuals who can be helped most effectively in this type setting and to provide follow-up treatment and counselling for patients who have been placed on convalescent leave or discharged from the hospital.

Central is rated as one of the South's most outstanding mental hospitals and Dr. Seale is widely recognized for his contributions to the field of mental hospitals and mental health.

FROM QUEEN ELIZABETH

Graham Denies He Asked For Present

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham emphatically denied Saturday that he had sent a personal letter to Queen Elizabeth II asking her for a gift that might be auctioned in America for charity.

He said he had signed a form letter sent to prominent persons all over the world asking support for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation of the United States.

Surrounded by many newsmen, Graham said he did not know such a letter was going to Queen Elizabeth, with whom he had tea in Buckingham Palace last Thursday. The letter to the palace asked the queen for some object "close to her heart."

A report the letter had been sent was published widely by the British press. Several newspapers printed a copy of a signature purportedly Graham's. The signature, he said was not his.

Graham explained: "Some months ago I signed a fund-raising form letter for the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation of which Mrs. Kennedy (wife of the U.S. president) is chairman. It is a most worthy cause. But well-meaning promoters have gone too far and, to say the least, have acted in terribly bad taste. I had no idea the letter was going to the Queen.

"The foundation has embarrassed me with their misguided good intentions."

In London, Stanley Slotkin, American Chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis Foundation, confirmed Graham did not personally send the letter to the queen. The letter was written by an office girl in America, he said.

"The office girl had an authentic signature of Dr. Billy Graham and then copied it on the letter. Slotkin said.

Residents Vote Themselves Into New Dilemma

OAKLAND, Md. (AP) — Residents of Maryland's Garrett County, annually split over whether to adopt Daylight Saving Time, have voted themselves into another dilemma.

Four of the 16 election districts in the state's westernmost county decided this week to allow the sale of liquor by the drink in Maryland's only dry county.

Oakland, the county seat of about 1,950 persons, is split right down the middle, with 3rd Street the buffer zone between the "drys" and "wets."

The West Oakland Election District decided by a slender 510-508 vote to retain the ban which allows beer sales only. But East Oakland went for the change by a 318-260 margin. So did the districts of Finzel, Avilton and Grantsville.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN

LONDON (UPI)—Two East African political leaders said Thursday that prospects were good for the creation of an independent East African federation of 23 million persons within a year.

Julius Nyerere, prime minister of Tanganyika, and Ronald Ngala, African political leader in the Kenya government, told United Press International that the federation, made up of Tanganyika, Uganda and possibly Zanzibar, would become a member of the British Commonwealth.

WAY YOU LOOK AT IT

Stock Market Fell Or Rose

NEW YORK (AP) — Depending upon what average you use, the stock market either rose or fell slightly last week. The best that can be said for last week's market is that it stemmed the previous week's sharp decline.

Volume dipped to 16,076,560 shares from 16,320,338 the week before. For the second week running, it was the lightest volume since the week ended last Nov. 26 when turnover was 12,709,925 shares.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.16 to 688.66 — a mere trifle compared with its fall of 15.40 in the previous week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .30 to 244.40.

The AP average seemed to be a fairer interpretation this week of the over-all market trend inas much as, of 1,453 issues traded, 782 declined and only 494 advanced.

The low volume and the inconclusive market action seemed to indicate that the investor wanted more tangible evidence of an advance before laying is money on the line.

The main question was, will there be a summer rally?

"Probably," said the statistical record.

"Show me," said the investor.

In the prior week the market had taken its worst wekly loss in 15 months and there were plenty of bruised optimists in Wall Street. Last week, prices broke very sharply on Monday but before the session ended support was reached at around 675 in the Dow Jones industrial average and recovery was starting.

The comeback continued Tuesday with the result that Monday's losses in the AP average were completely erased.

Trading continued to fall off in every subsequent session.

The economic recovery was moving along quite well, according to important indicators. It was a continued paradox, however, that price cuts were being made by manufacturers on a widening range of products.

These apparent contradictions in the economy confused investors. The tense international situation caused further uncertainty.

The midsummer-like lull that settled over the bond markets last week failed to stem the five-week retreat of prices.

A handful of U.S. government issues fell to 1961 lows. Many others were approaching that level —some a sfar as three points below three-year highs established in mid-May.

The Associated Press average of 60 corporates showed all components lower except industrials. That section was artificially inflated by a five-point rise of one convertible included in the average.

Heavy new financing expected next month by the U.S. Treasury and various private corporations was responsible for the continued pressure on prices, analysts said.

Corporate volume on the New York Stock Exchange dipped to $25,158,200 par value, the lowest nonholiday week of the year, compared with $26,590,000 last week.

Off a full point among governments were the 3¼s of 1985 at 89 20-32 bid, a 1961 low. The 3½s of 1990 fell 28-32 at 92 20-32 and the 3s of 1995 dropped 20-32 to 84 24-32, also the 1961 low.

Criticism Of FDR Hit By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo, Saturday accused the Republican National Committee of distorting facts in charging the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt sold out free peoples to the Communists in his 1943 conferences at Tehran and Cairo.

McGee said in a statement that the committee's four-statement attack was written by "lifting statements out of context, omitting portions of quotes, distorting facts, and losing historical perspective."

The committee's statements were issued last weekend in commenting on the State Department release of official papers on the World War II conferences.

The Republicans said President Kennedy is dealing with the Soviet Union as Roosevelt did, and that Roosevelt sold out free peoples. They said Roosevelt used "one-man diplomacy" in dealing with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin and "tacitly agreed that the hitherto independent Baltic states of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania should be absorbed by the Soviet Union."

McGee, a former history professor, said any freshman student who dared interpret history as the Republicans did would flunk the course.

"Their deliberate attempts to give the impression that President Roosevelt negotiated defeats for the United States at the wartime conferences, by focusing on but a few of 900 pages of documents, by selecting a handful of phrases from half a million words, represents questionable editorial integrity and outright distortion of history," the senator said.

McGee hit also at the committee's charge that Roosevelt "gave away" Poland and made a secret deal with Chiang Kai-shek over Formosa, and said such phrases 18 years after the conferences "can cause resentment in such friendly countries as England, France, Germany and India."

"Had the Soviet government undertaken to perform this hatchet job on our ties with our allies we could at least consider the source," McGee declared. "But for it to come from one of our political parties is an action of the gravest sort, and I am confident responsible Republican leaders will be equally concerned with this shoddy effort."

Whatever Became Of 'Long Sam?'

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Whatever became of Dorothy Brown?

Perhaps you remember her better as "Long Sam," the nickname Dorothy acquired four summers ago when pictures of the long-legged beauty were in newspapers across the country. There was coverage in national magazines. She made an appearance on a national television program.

Overnight a girl who was only 16 with an eighth-grade education, but with natural beauty and a desire to be somebody, became a celebrity in a Cinderella fantasy.

She was a girl taken out of school by her parents when she was just 14 so that she could supplement the family income by baby sitting. A girl who lived in a shack without running water, with her parents and six of her eight brothers. Two older sisters were married.

One August day in 1957 her fairy tale began.

A newspaperman from the Mooresville Tribune and a photographer saw Dorothy. Stories and pictures were published.

She became the 5-foot 9-inch diamond in the rough.

What has happened since then.

The girl who quit school at 14 is now a student here at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. She is majoring in elementary education and expects to graduate in 1963.

When Dorothy told newspapermen four years ago that more than anything else she wanted an education, contributions were put in a trust fund at a Charlotte bank.

Tom McKnight, the Mooresville newspaperman who wrote the first story about Dorothy, was appointed her guardian. She has lived with the McKnights and their 8-year-old daughter in Troutman since the early days of the "Long Sam" legend.

Dorothy enrolled at Wingate Junior College, where she completed a four-year course in two years and was elected president of her class.

"All those things Mr. McKnight and Mr. Gary (Kays Gary of the Charlotte Observer) wrote about me were true—the things about my home and schooling — although there were a lot of skeptics then and I suppose there are now," Dorothy said. "We did live in destitute circumstances."

Dorothy is not pronte to talk about her parents. She seldom sees them and says she has written to them in the past but "they stopped writing."

She was asked about a quotation attributed to her in 1957: "Mostly I want to be somebody."

She replied, "That's right. I knew then that some day I would leave home. I was planning to join the Marines or Navy so that I could finish my high school in service.

"And now I'm a college student. I do all right with my studies. The first year was hard because I had chemistry and biology. I suppose I'm too much of a perfectionist. I want to get all A's."

"I date, but my schoolwork has to come first. I don't blind date. And I have been able to stop the boys who wanted to date me just so they could say they dated 'Long Sam.' No, I don't usually mind being called that. Sometimes I do, but then it's the tone of voice—not the nickname.

"People seem surprised when they meet me for the first time. They look as though they expected me to be wearing a tiger skin and swinging across the room, screaming like Tarzan. They appear amazed when they find out I speak English, walk erect, and know how to stand up and sit down.

"I've made friends here at school. The girls couldn't have treated me nicer."

Stock Market Hearings Will Open Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House investigation chairman announced today an array of blue chip witnesses for the opening of hearings Tuesday into operations of the nation's stock markets.

Rep. Peter F. Mack, D-Ill., who heads the investigating subcommittee, said the group was concerned over what he called "widespread evidence of speculation and apparent manipulations."

"I'm beginning to wonder whether stock prices are not definitely out of line with the dividends being paid," he said.

Mack said that G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, is the first scheduled witness.

Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Stock Exchange; William H. Claflin, chairman of the board of the National Association of Securities Dealers; and Chairman William L. Cary of the Securities & Exchange Commission are scheduled to follow.

The subcommittee is an arm of the House Committee. Its main aim is to collect evidence to justify a $750,000 SEC study of the stock exchanges and over-the-counter operations. If approved by Congress, this would be the first over-all study of the selling of stocks and bonds since the SEC was established 26 years ago.

Russel, representing United Paper Makers, stated late last night that the 10-day contract termination notice has been issued and that the present contract expires June 30 unless a settlement can be reached by that date.

He said that no further statement concerning the actions or demands of the Union's representatives were available at this time.

Negotiations by company and union delegates began May 7. Other delegates from Bastrop are Bobby Reppond, John Defee, Sidney Laing, Murry Franklin, Johnny Fair, Willard Pierce, Grover H. Barr, Howard Yates and Orville Cooper.

New Telephone Service Added In Ruston Area

RUSTON (Special) — Direct non-toll telephone service between Ruston and Dubach was cut over by Southern Bell Telephone Company at midnight Friday night, reveals Dudley Cowan, Ruston manager.

Cowan noted that telephone rates in Dubach were raised by 50 cents per month for residential telephone service and businesses were raised various prices, depending on the class of service.

The addition of Dubach to the local calling area of Ruston was accomplished at a cost of over $140,000 dollars, Cowan revealed.

Ruston residents wishing to call Dubach will use the "SP 7" prefix, while Dubach residents will use the "AL 5" prefix.

Dubach residents will be able to call Ruston direct, but will not be able to dial Choudrant, Simsboro and Grambling.

WELFARE CUTBACKS

Gibbs Says State Profits On Misery

Ouachita Parish Rep. Lawrence Gibbs fired another blast at the state welfare department Saturday and said that the "old folks are being cut more than the $2 estimated" by the state and accused the state of making a "profit at the expense of their misery."

Gibbs said that, contrary to claims made by the state during the recent fiscal session of the legislature, old age assistance checks are being cut "well over $2."

He said he has reports from Ouachita Parish pensioners that they are being cut from $7 to $17.

Gibbs led a fight against the Davis administration during the session when welfare cuts were authorized in order to include a medical assistance program shared with the federal government.

Gibbs contends that the cutbacks are not necessary to meet federal requirements. Welfare department officials maintained during their successful fight before the House that the government required the cuts according to federal law.

Gibbs said Saturday, "In the recent session of the legislature I offered and sponsored a resolution stopping the cut of the checks to the people receiving them in addition to providing them the present medical aid program.

"My resolution provided that the State of Louisiana would put up $3 million and in so doing all of the recipients of our old age welfare program would have suffered no cuts in their checks. This resolution further provided that all old people covered under the welfare program would have the same medical care and benefits that they presently have. The Commissioner of Welfare, Mrs. Parker, strongly opposed my resolution stating that there would only be a $2 cut in the checks to our old people.

"I questioned the commissioner's sincerity when she so strongly opposed my resolution. She stated that I was all wrong, but quite to the contrary, her recommendations are far from what I was led to believe. In recent days I have had numerous letters, telephone calls and have personally talked to many of our fine old people who are covered under the welfare program. All of these communications and contacts with these citizens reveal that they have not been cut $2, but $7, $11 and $17 per month. Under the present plan that our Department of Welfare is operating, and according to the governor's budget measure, the state of Louuisiana will profit better than $2 million which will go to the general fund of the state.

"Is it fair for the State of Louisiana to profit and make a revenue measure out of the funds which have been taken from our senior citizens at the expense of their misery?

"My plan would have retained all of the benefits of our citizens plus the medical care program.

"I am now calling on the commissioner to reconsider and restore to all of these fine people the cuts that they have sustained.

"Again I want to state my position. That I will be happy to work with Commissioner Parker, her board, her staff and the governor of Louisiana to restore these benefits which the old people so badly need."

Medical Care For Aged Bill Near Showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ten Republican senators planned Saturday to press for a showdown next week on the controversial issue of federally subsidized medical benefits for the aged.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N. Y., announced he will join with nine other Republicans in offering a medical care amendment to a House-passed Social Security bill which the Senate takes up Monday.

Javits said in a prepared statement that the administration has shown "a disposition to put off legislative action on medical care for the aged until next year." He added that a test vote on the GOP plan "may give us the only opportunity to consider this measure at this session."

The Democratic leadership is anxious to avoid a dispute now over the issue of providing paid-up hospitalization and other benefits for the nation's estimated 14.2 million elder citizens.

President Kennedy's plan to finance benefits for persons 65 and over through the Social Security system has been tucked away in a Congressional pigeonhole since it was introduced last February.

In by-passing committees and bringing the issue direct to the floor through the amendment process, the Republicans hope to force an open test on the issue.

"It looks as though they might have beaten us to the punch," Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., said.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N. M., Senate sponsor of the administration plan, has indicated he would defer to the wishes of Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways & Means Committee and not press for senate action.

WAY YOU LOOK AT IT

Stock Market Fell Or Rose

NEW YORK (AP) — Depending upon what average you use, the stock market either rose or fell slightly last week. The best that can be said for last week's market is that it stemmed the previous week's sharp decline.

Volume dipped to 16,076,560 shares from 16,320,338 the week before. For the second week running, it was the lightest volume since the week ended last Nov. 26 when turnover was 12,709,925 shares.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.16 to 688.66 — a mere trifle compared with its fall of 15.40 in the previous week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .80 to 244.40.

The AP average seemed to be a fairer interpretation this week of the over-all market trend inas much as, of 1,453 issues traded. 782 declined and only 494 advanced.

The low volume and the inconclusive market action seemed to indicate that the investor wanted more tangible evidence of an advance before laying is money on the line.

The main question was, will there be a summer rally?

"Probably," said the statistical record.

"Show me," said the investor.

In the prior week the market had taken its worst wekly loss in 15 months and there were plenty of bruised optimists in Wall Street. Last week, prices broke very sharply on Monday but before the session ended support was reached at around 675 in the Dow Jones industrial average and recovery was starting.

The comeback continued Tuesday with the result that Monday's losses in the AP average were completely erased.

Trading continued to fall off in every subsequent session.

The economic recovery was moving along quite well, according to important indicators. It was a continued paradox, however, that price cuts were being made by manufacturers on a widening range of products.

These apparent contradictions in the economy confused investors. The tense international situation caused further uncertainty.

The midsummer-like lull that settled over the bond markets last week failed to stem the five-week retreat of prices.

A handful of U.S. government issues fell to 1961 lows. Many others were approaching that level —some a sfar as three points below three-year highs established in mid-May.

The Associated Press average of 60 corporates showed all components lower except industrials. That section was artificially inflated by a five-point rise of one convertible included in the average.

Heavy new financing expected next month by the U.S. Treasury and various private corporations was responsible for the continued pressure on prices, analysts said.

Corporate volume on the New York Stock Exchange dipped to $25,158,200 par value, the lowest nonholiday week of the year, compared with $26,590,000 last week.

Off a full point among governments were the 3¼s of 1985 at 89 20-32 bid, a 1961 low. The 3½s of 1990 fell 28-32 at 92 20-32 and the 3s of 1995 dropped 20-32 to 84 24-32, also the 1961 low.

Criticism Of FDR Hit By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo, Saturday accused the Republican National Committee of distorting facts in charging the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt sold out free peoples to the Communists in his 1943 conferences at Tehran and Cairo.

McGee said in a statement that the committee's four-statement attack was written by "lifting statements out of context, omitting portions of quotes, distorting facts, and losing historical perspective."

The committee's statements were issued last weekend in commenting on the State Department release of official papers on the World War II conferences.

The Republicans said President Kennedy is dealing with the Soviet Union as Roosevelt did, and that Roosevelt sold out free peoples. They said Roosevelt used "one-man diplomacy" in dealing with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin and "tacitly agreed that the hitherto independent Baltic states of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania should be absorbed by the Soviet Union."

McGee, a former history professor, said any freshman student who dared interpret history as the Republicans did would flunk the course.

"Their deliberate attempts to give the impression that President Roosevelt negotiated defeats for the United States at the wartime conferences, by focusing on but a few of 900 pages of documents, by selecting a handful of phrases from half a million words, represents questionable editorial integrity and outright distortion of history," the senator said.

McGee hit also at the committee's charge that Roosevelt "gave away" Poland and made a secret deal with Chiang Kai-shek over Formosa, and said such phrases 18 years after the conferences "can cause resentment in such friendly countries as England, France, Germany and India."

"Had the Soviet government undertaken to perform this hatchet job on our ties with our allies we could at least consider the source," McGee declared. "But for it to come from one of our political parties is an action of the gravest sort, and I am confident responsible Republican leaders will be equally concerned with this shoddy effort."

Whatever Became Of 'Long Sam?'

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Whatever became of Dorothy Brown?

Perhaps you remember her better as "Long Sam," the nickname Dorothy acquired four summers ago when pictures of the long-legged beauty were in newspapers across the country. There was coverage in national magazines. She made an appearance on a national television program.

Overnight a girl who was only 16 with an eighth-grade education, but with natural beauty and a desire to be somebody, became a celebrity in a Cinderella fantasy.

She was a girl taken out of school by her parents when she was just 14 so that she could supplement the family income by baby sitting. A girl who lived in a shack without running water, with her parents and six of her eight brothers. Two older sisters were married.

One August day in 1957 her fairy tale began.

A newspaperman from the Mooresville Tribune and a photographer saw Dorothy. Stories and pictures were published.

She became the 5-foot 9-inch diamond in the rough.

What has happened since then.

The girl who quit school at 14 is now a student here at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. She is majoring in elementary education and expects to graduate in 1963.

Cowan noted that telephone rates in Dubach were raised by 50 cents per month for residential telephone service and businesses were raised various prices, depending on the class of service.

The addition of Dubach to the local calling area of Ruston was accomplished at a cost of over $140,000 dollars, Cowan revealed.

Castro POWs Arrive In U. S.

"has made impossible a realization of our humanitarian goals."

Castro Friday turned down the committee's offer of 500 tractors, mostly small farm machines, for 1,200 prisoners captured in the abortive April 17 Cuban invasion.

He said he stood by his origianl demand of 500 bulldozers. He said he would send the 10 prisoners to the United States to explain his position.

Against this background, there was a report of a telephone conversation by a relative of one of the prisoners in Miami with another relative in Cuba, in which Castro was quoted as having said that his greatest desire was to bring the negotiations to a fruitful conclusion.

There was doubt as to whether the prisoners would be permitted to fulfill their Castro-assigned mission.

Berlin May Trigger New War Threat

East German Communist regime. The East Germans, whom the Western powers do not recognize, say the city should be theirs.

The Western powers — the United States, Britain and France — say they are in Berlin through World War II occupation rights which cannot be wiped out by one-sided Soviet action.

The United States is now consulting with its allies on a reply to a Berlin memorandum Khrushchev gave Kennedy at Vienna. The answer is expected to be ready for Moscow in about a week.

Basically, U.S. officials said, the Western response is going to be along the line of previous Allied declarations on Berlin—we are standing firm.

U. S. diplomats say they have found a high degree of agreement among the British, French and West Germans on the reply which Washington is drawing up.

This is one of sources of optimism noticeable here on the Berlin situation.

The other main hope is based on recollection that Khrushchev once before set a six-month deadline for an East German treaty without going through with it.

U. S. strategists are hampered by not knowing why Khrushchev is now pushing the Germany-Berlin issue. Several lines of speculation are advanced, including:

1. Khrushchev believes the balance of power is now tipped in his favor and he wants to make the most of it.

2. The Red Chinese are prodding him to be more aggressive and he feels he must score a victory to show he still leads the Communist camp.

3. The East Germans are applying heavy pressure for a takeover of West Berlin, which has been an increasingly painful thorn to the Reds. The flood of refugees to West Berlin, for instance, draining East Germany of its most productive citizens, is decreasing the country's population amid population gains everywhere else.

Khrushchev, in his Vienna memo, spelled out his position that, "The occupation rights (of West Berlin) of course would discontinue with the conclusion of a German peace treaty."

factions and announced he would formally present it at the 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos early next week.

Sihanouk failed in an effort to get the three princes to sit down together Saturday to discuss his proposals for the future International Control Commission to safeguard the kingdom's neutrality.

They have not met since last Thursday, when they signed a vague agreement on general principles.

In an effort to salvage something from the conference, Sihanouk has since been meeting with the princes separately.

He has succeeded in persuading Boun Oum to end his boycott of the Geneva Conference on Laos and to send a delegation composed of political leaders who support him.

Soviet proposals at Geneva would require the commission—made up of India, Canada and Poland—to follow the "principle of unanimity" in all its operations.

The West claims this Communist veto plan would cripple the commission and backs French proposals which, like the Cambodian compromise, would have commission affairs run by majority vote.

Therefore, he said, the resolution would pledge on the part of this nation "all the resources of its government, and its citizens, to defend our freedoms and institutions against the international Communist conspiracy, and to the defeat and destruction of the Communist parties of the world."

The resolution declares: "The actual enemy of peace in the world is the international Communist conspiracy which, by its relentless war, is confronting the free world with the desperate alternatives of either an unconditional surrender or thermo-nuclear war."

Congressman Passman said that "immediate and concerted action, as a last hope for survival and peace for all this world, is called for on the part of all people who cherish freedom, all who aspire to freedom, all who value religion and morality, all who would defend their faiths, all who oppose state control over labor and the fruits of labor, all who believe in a free expression of their ideals and aspirations, and all who would resist conquest and exploitation against the Communist power system — not only in the United States but all over the world."

The plug for American hybrid corn was presented thus: "I had a talk recently with the United States of America's secretary of state, Mr. Rusk. He told me that American agronomists have created a variety of corn which reaches maturity in a period of 60 days.

"If the American agronomists have really achieved such a success we can only congratulate them on this. If it is profitable for the United States of America, it is certainly profitable for us to have such a variety in our country.

"Our agronimists must work to develop such a variety."

(In Des Moines, Iowa, a corn specialist commented that 60-day corn is still in the experimental stage and is considered impractical.

(The specialist, Raymond Baker, director of corn breeding research for Pioneer Hi-Break Co., added that corn might be practical in such areas as Canada which have short growing season. The Soviet Union also has a short growing season.)

Of the promised boom, Khrushchev said, "A tempestuous growth of all branches of the national economy is envisaged" in drafts of a new program and new rules of the Soviet Communist party to be published soon.

"The light (consumer) and food industries will develop rapidly side by side with heavy industry," the premier said. He added that horse meat and American corn might figure in the new food-production plans.

Khrushchev emphasized that he believes rapid economic development is the Soviet Union's most formidable weapon for winning capitalist nations over to communism.

Nixon, in Minneapolis for the National Young Republican Convention, pleaded for unity within the GOP. He also clashed with the Young Republican Platform plank adopted at the suggestion of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

The platform called for dropping financial support of the United Nations if Red China is admitted to the world body. It also urged "serious consideration" of U. S. withdrawal from the U. N. if Red China is admitted.

Nixon said "The United States has the responsibility to fight in the councils of the United Nations for our point of view. If the world should see us lose in the U. N. and then pick up our marbles and go home we would be contributing to the chaotic situation which could lead to destruction of civilization."

In a speech to the convention, Nixon warned that "cannibalism" could cost the GOP a chance for major gains in the 1962 elections.

The mine shaft is located 2,300 feet up on the face of Fork Mountain. The trapped men are 400 back in the shaft, which narrows to a width of four feet. Only three or four rescue workers could get in the shaft at one time.

There was no official explanation of the cause of the collapse. The miners were taking out support pillars preparatory to cleaning up the shaft, which had been closed several years.

Robert Woods, 19, pinned between fallen rock and a coal car, was rescued by a doctor who amputated his arm. He was in serious condition at a hospital. His father, Claude Woods, 47, suffered a fractured pelvis.

Clusters of relatives and friends gathered about the mine entrance. Mrs. Ben Seiver, mother of Charles, kept an all-night vigil by a small fire and stayed there.

Castro POWs Arrive In U. S.

"has made impossible a realization of our humanitarian goals."

Castro Friday turned down the committee's offer of 500 tractors, mostly small farm machines, for 1,200 prisoners captured in the abortive April 17 Cuban invasion.

He said he stood by his origianl demand of 500 bulldozers. He said he would send the 10 prisoners to the United States to explain his position.

Against this background, there was a report of a telephone conversation by a relative of one of the prisoners in Miami with another relative in Cuba, in which Castro was quoted as having said that his greatest desire was to bring the negotiations to a fruitful conclusion.

There was doubt as to whether the prisoners would be permitted to fulfill their Castro-assigned mission.

Berlin May Trigger New War Threat

East German Communist regime. The East Germans, whom the Western powers do not recognize, say the city should be theirs.

The Western powers — the United States, Britain and France — say they are in Berlin through World War II occupation rights which cannot be wiped out by one-sided Soviet action.

The United States is now consulting with its allies on a reply to a Berlin memorandum Khrushchev gave Kennedy at Vienna. The answer is expected to be ready for Moscow in about a week.

Basically, U.S. officials said, the Western response is going to be along the line of previous Allied declarations on Berlin—we are standing firm.

U. S. diplomats say they have found a high degree of agreement among the British, French and West Germans on the reply which Washington is drawing up.

This is one of sources of optimism noticeable here on the Berlin situation.

The other main hope is based on recollection that Khrushchev once before set a six-month deadline for an East German treaty without going through with it.

U. S. strategists are hampered by not knowing why Khrushchev is now pushing the Germany-Berlin issue. Several lines of speculation are advanced, including:

1. Khrushchev believes the balance of power is now tipped in his favor and he wants to make the most of it.

2. The Red Chinese are prodding him to be more aggressive and he feels he must score a victory to show he still leads the Communist camp.

3. The East Germans are applying heavy pressure for a takeover of West Berlin, which has been an increasingly painful thorn to the Reds. The flood of refugees to West Berlin, for instance, draining East Germany of its most productive citizens, is decreasing the country's population amid population gains everywhere else.

Khrushchev, in his Vienna memo, spelled out his position that, "The occupation rights (of West Berlin) of course would discontinue with the conclusion of a German peace treaty."

HOT ISSUE

Northern Roads To Integration Termed 'Bumpy'

NEW YORK (AP)—Segregation has been chipped away in New York City and suburban schools without violence. But the northern roads to integration are at times bumpy.

There are few schools in the New York area that do not have some Negro students.

Legally, in the city and in all surrounding areas, public schools are open to all regardless of race or color.

Yet school integration is a hot issue in many sections of the huge metropolitan district. It grows out of the fact that privately owned housing creates patterns of segregation, and the neighborhood school follows those patterns in the complexion of its school population.

Four communities are involved in the neighborhood-school problem.

At Englewood, N.J., where the latest push is being made for integration, the school in question has 545 pupils, and only 10 of them are white.

The crux of a dispute in a New Rochelle, N.Y. school, appropriately named Lincoln Elementary School, is that there are 500 students, but only about 30 of them white. Other schools in the wealthy suburban city are virtually all white.

At Hempstead, N.Y., the proportion of Negroes in elementary schools is said to range from one to 85 per cent.

New York City itself has had, until recently, the same pattern of schools: nearly all white, or all Negro and Puerto Rican.

Two factors spurred the city to move toward true integration. One was a movement among some Harlem parents to boycott schools they considered segregated and inferior.

Another was a Board of Education decision that the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling against school segregation should apply to New York as well as to Mississippi.

After a lengthy educational program, the integration program was begun. In September 1959 hundreds of Negro children from Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, one of the city's worst slums, were transferred to schools in Brooklyn and Queens.

Some Queens residents painted "blacks go home" on the sidewalk.

White children boycotted one school by the hundreds the first day. On the second day attendance was almost normal.

Since then New York's open-enrollment plan has been expanding steadily, and with no greater trouble than an occasional heated PTA discussion.

In the fall of 1960, a larger experiment was made with students from 22 junior high schools and third-to-fifth graders from 16 elementary schools.

Board officials were disappointed because few Negro parents elected to send their children out of their districts. But last March the board announced the plan would be extended to affect thousands instead of hundreds of children.

A study of a group of Negro and Puerto Rican children transferred through open enrollment found that "the children are happy, behavior is better and there is more interest in school work."

Defending its neighborhood-school policy the New Rochelle school board refused to permit Negro students at Lincoln school to attend any other schools.

Court action was begun.

Early this year Federal District Court Judge Irving Kaufman ruled in favor of the Negro parents. He ordered the school board to set up a program for sending some Lincoln pupils to other schools next September. An appeal by the board is still pending.

At Hempstead, too, integration was not winning easy victories.

A citizens committee for education asked the school board in May to break up segregation caused by racial housing patterns.

Although the school population for the whole district is 46 per cent Negro, the committee said, five of the six elementary schools are predominantly white or predominantly Negro.

On June 16 the committee got its answer from the board — "No."

A largely white audience of 800 cheered as the decision was announced. Board President Emil J. Bejsovec said that the proposed integration "would cause serious disagreement between the Negro and white groups of the community."

The integration committee left the meeting promising that "the issue is not dead."

In Englewood, N.J., the superintendent of schools points to the fact that all but one school in the district have Negro pupils, and that this fall all schools will have Negro teachers.

But he concedes that the school in question is almost entirely Negro.

"Something has got to be done about this situation" superintendent Harry Stearns said the other day, "and I am willing to sit down with level-headed people on this matter at any time."

ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

Ad Club Campaign Urges Flag Flying

"Show your colors! Fly flag on the Fourth of July!".

Hundreds of posters bearing that suggestion will be distributed throughout the Twin Cities, beginning Tuesday, as a public service of the Advertising Club of Monroe and West Monroe.

Posters will be provided business firms and public offices with the request that they be placed in prominent places.

"The Advertising Club is adopting this project so that we can aid the Chamber of Commerce and other groups which have been doing such a good job of reminding us it's time to return to the basic principles of patriotism," said Paul Goldman, Advertising club president.

The Advertising Club is urging public display of the flag at all times, but especially on Independence Day. The organization also has asked home owners and business firms to obtain suitable flags for public display if they do not have a flag or do not have one of the new 50-star flags.

New 50-star flags are available at several local stores.

Monroe Business To Be Normal During July 3

A survey conducted Saturday revealed that a major portion of Monroe businesses would remain open July 3rd but will close on the 4th.

Businesses in West Monroe had indicated they would close on July 3 — Monday — in order to have a long holiday weekend.

However, all businesses polled in Monroe said that they would not close their establishments on Monday.

All the larger Monroe businesses were included in the survey.

IN HONOLULU

Governors Meet Today

HONOLULU (AP) — Governors converged in this Pacific-scrubbed island Saturday to discuss school financing, mental health and a new anti-Communist program—with a dash of politics—in their 53rd annual conference.

Topping the agenda of a four-day meeting is a proposal by the conference chairman, Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols of Colorado, for a program aimed at putting 5,000 U.S. teachers in Latin-American schools in exchange for an equal number of teachers from those countries.

McNichols said in an interview he has President Kennedy's backing for a move aimed at countering Communist propaganda efforts fanned out from Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Kennedy, who canceled a scheduled appearance, sent greetings in a message saying that it was appropriate for the state executives to meet in Hawaii, "One of the nations' newest frontiers, amid vigorous economic development and genuine human understanding."

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, substituting for Kennedy as the speaker for the annual dress-up state dinner Tuesday night, was expected to stress the need for American aid to Southeast Asian nations.

Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda also will attend the state dinner, as guest of the governors. He will arrive in Honolulu that afternoon on the way home from Canada.

Ikeda is expected to respond briefly to a toast to U.S.-Japanese friendship to be offered by Johnson.

Republican Gov. William Quinn of Hawaii welcomed his visiting colleagues with the observation that the first conference session held off the mainland provides a "dramatic demonstration of the warm and ready acceptance we have received by our sisters in the family of states."

McNichols said he hoped to win formal conference approval of the teacher exchange proposal. As tentatively drafted it would call for federal-state sharing of the costs of sending U.S. teachers to Latin-American nations and bringing their teachers to the United States.

The Colorado governor said Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff had assured him the federal government would assume transportation expenses. He said states would have to take care of salary adjustments for teachers and guarantee their tenure. He added that the exchange period for each probably would be 18 months.

"I think a program of this kind will go a long way toward counteracting Communist propaganda in Latin America," he said. "Not only the teachers but their students will get to know the people and problems of our sister republics."

Long Associates Band Together For '64 Election

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — Political allies of the late Governor Earl K. Long formed an organization here Saturday and took dead aim for the governor's mansion for 1964.

The Democratic Association of Louisiana, its membership listed at 225 by the end of the meeting, outlined its prime purpose as electing public officials on all levels who follow the political philosophy of Earl Long and his brother Huey.

Edgar Coco of Marksville, a director of registration under Earl Long, was named president of the group. Former State Sen. A. A. Fredericks of Natchitoches was elected honorary president and Earnest Hessler of New Orleans was named executive vice president.

Area vice presidents are: Willard Kilpatrick, Jonesboro, for North Louisiana; R. C. Tuminello of Alexandria for Central Louisiana; Thomas M. Lockwood, of Baton Rouge for Southeast Louisiana; and Harold Richard of Lake Charles for Southwest Louisiana.

Among the speakers were former Lieutenant Gov. Bill Dodd and Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen of Monroe.

Dodd, McKeithen and Public Service Commissioner Earnest Clements warned the group that it must remain united to accomplish its purposes.

No candidates or potential candidates were mentioned at the meeting and Coco emphatically denied the organization was formed to promote the candidacy of any one man.

Among the top political figures listed as members of the group were: Custodian of Voting Machines Douglas Fowler, Congressman James H. Morrison, Baton Rouge, Former Gov. James A. Noe, Monroe, City Judge Edmond Reggie of Crowley, now a special envoy to the Middle East, former House Speaker Robert Angelle, former Senate President Pro Tem W. J. Cleveland and a host of other past and present legislators associated with Long administrations.

Remove Benches In Jackson Park To Halt NAACP

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) —Mayor Allen Thompson said Saturday park benches at the City Zoo were removed to stop the National Association for Advancement of Colored People from stirring up trouble.

The action came after nine Negroes have been charged with breach of the peace during the last three weeks for using the benches reserved for whites.

Six others were arrested, but released after they said the attempt was prompted by Thompson's statement on National Television that Negroes were allowed free use of the Zoo.

Shortly after the six were arrested and released, seven Negro students sat on benches for about two hours without incident. The policeman on duty went to another area of the park.

Thompson said the zoo is a place for people to go look at the animals. "But not the NAACP," he said. "They don't go to look at the animals. They only want to cause trouble.

"They told everybody they were going there to sit on the benches. We arrested them for breach of th e peace, not sitting on the benches."

Even in the face of agitation, the mayor said, "We think so much of having wonderful facilities there is a bond issue coming up to build a new swimming pool, library, tennis court and softball fields for the Negroes."

Thompson said the NAACP participants in the zoo sit-ins were immature and they were not interested in helping the colored people.

There were no Jackson NAACP officials immediately available for comment.

HOT ISSUE

Northern Roads To Integration Termed 'Bumpy'

NEW YORK (AP)—Segregation has been chipped away in New York City and suburban schools without violence. But the northern roads to integration are at times bumpy.

There are few schools in the New York area that do not have some Negro students.

Legally, in the city and in all surrounding areas, public schools are open to all regardless of race or color.

Yet school integration is a hot issue in many sections of the huge metropolitan district. It grows out of the fact that privately owned housing creates patterns of segregation, and the neighborhood school follows those patterns in the complexion of its school population.

Four communities are involved in the neighborhood-school problem.

At Englewood, N.J., where the latest push is being made for integration, the school in question has 545 pupils, and only 10 of them are white.

The crux of a dispute in a New Rochelle, N.Y. school, appropriately named Lincoln Elementary School, is that there are 500 students, but only about 30 of them white. Other schools in the wealthy suburban city are virtually all white.

At Hempstead, N.Y., the proportion of Negroes in elementary schools is said to range from one to 85 per cent.

New York City itself has had, until recently, the same pattern of schools: nearly all white, or all Negro and Puerto Rican.

Two factors spurred the city to move toward true integration. One was a movement among some Harlem parents to boycott schools they considered segregated and inferior.

Another was a Board of Education decision that the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling against school segregation should apply to New York as well as to Mississippi.

After a lengthy educational program, the integration program was begun. In September 1959 hundreds of Negro children from Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, one of the city's worst slums, were transferred to schools in Brooklyn and Queens.

Some Queens residents painted "blacks go home" on the sidewalk.

White children boycotted one school by the hundreds the first day. On the second day attendance was almost normal.

Since then New York's open-enrollment plan has been expanding steadily, and with no greater trouble than an occasional heated PTA discussion.

In the fall of 1960, a larger experiment was made with students from 22 junior high schools and third-to-fifth graders from 16 elementary schools.

Board officials were disappointed because few Negro parents elected to send their children out of their districts. But last March the board announced the plan would be extended to affect thousands instead of hundreds of children.

A study of a group of Negro and Puerto Rican children transferred through open enrollment found that "the children are happy, behavior is better and there is more interest in school work."

Defending its neighborhood-school policy the New Rochelle school board refused to permit Negro students at Lincoln school to attend any other schools.

Court action was begun.

Early this year Federal District Court Judge Irving Kaufman ruled in favor of the Negro parents. He ordered the school board to set up a program for sending some Lincoln pupils to other schools next September. An appeal by the board is still pending.

At Hempstead, too, integration was not winning easy victories.

A citizens committee for education asked the school board in May to break up segregation caused by racial housing patterns.

Although the school population for the whole district is 45 per cent Negro, the committee said, five of the six elementary schools are predominantly white or predominantly Negro.

On June 16 the committee got its answer from the board — "No."

A largely white audience of 800 cheered as the decision was announced. Board President Emil J. Bejsovec said that the proposed integration "would cause serious disagreement between the Negro and white groups of the community."

The integration committee left the meeting promising that "the issue is not dead."

In Englewood, N.J., the superintendent of schools points to the fact that all but one school in the district have Negro pupils, and that this fall all schools will have Negro teachers.

But he concedes that the school in question is almost entirely Negro.

"Something has got to be done about this situation" superintendent Harry Stearns said the other day, "and I am willing to sit down with level-headed people on this matter at any time."

ON INDEPENDENCE DAY

Ad Club Campaign Urges Flag Flying

"Show your colors! Fly flag on the Fourth of July!".

Hundreds of posters bearing that suggestion will be distributed throughout the Twin Cities, beginning Tuesday, as a public service of the Advertising Club of Monroe and West Monroe.

Posters will be provided business firms and public offices with the request that they be placed in prominent places.

"The Advertising Club is adopting this project so that we can aid the Chamber of Commerce and other groups which have been doing such a good job of reminding us it's time to return to the basic principles of patriotism," said Paul Goldman, Advertising club president.

The Advertising Club is urging public display of the flag at all times, but especially on Independence Day. The organization also has asked home owners and business firms to obtain suitable flags for public display if they do not have a flag or do not have one of the new 50-star flags.

New 50-star flags are available at several local stores.

Monroe Business To Be Normal During July 3

A survey conducted Saturday revealed that a major portion of Monroe businesses would remain open July 3rd but will close on the 4th.

Businesses in West Monroe had indicated they would close on July 3 — Monday — in order to have a long holiday weekend.

However, all businesses polled in Monroe said that they would not close their establishments on Monday.

All the larger Monroe businesses were included in the survey.

IN HONOLULU

Governors Meet Today

HONOLULU (AP) — Governors converged in this Pacific-scrubbed island Saturday to discuss school financing, mental health and a new anti-Communist program—with a dash of politics—in their 53rd annual conference.

Topping the agenda of a four-day meeting is a proposal by the conference chairman, Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols of Colorado, for a program aimed at putting 5,000 U.S. teachers in Latin-American schools in exchange for an equal number of teachers from those countries.

McNichols said in an interview he has President Kennedy's backing for a move aimed at countering Communist propaganda efforts fanned out from Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Kennedy, who canceled a scheduled appearance, sent greetings in a message saying that it was appropriate for the state executives to meet in Hawaii, "One of the nations' newest frontiers, amid vigorous economic development and genuine human understanding."

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, substituting for Kennedy as the speaker tor the annual dress-up state dinner Tuesday night, was expected to stress the need for American aid to Southeast Asian nations.

Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda also will attend the state dinner, as guest of the governors. He will arrive in Honolulu that afternoon on the way home from Canada.

Ikeda is expected to respond briefly to a toast to U.S.-Japanese friendship to be offered by Johnson.

Republican Gov. William Quinn of Hawaii welcomed his visiting colleagues with the observation that the first conference session held off the mainland provides a "dramatic demonstration of the warm and ready acceptance we have received by our sisters in the family of states."

McNichols said he hoped to win formal conference approval of the teacher exchange proposal. As tentatively drafted it would call for federal-state sharing of the costs of sending U.S. teachers to Latin-American nations and bringing their teachers to the United States.

U.S. SPACE PROGRAM

Johnson Faces Unity Problem In Assignment

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday gave Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson the job of unifying the nation's communications satellite program.

Kennedy struck a note of urgency in a letter to Johnson giving him the job. Kennedy asked the vice president to report back promptly. And, in the meantime, Kennedy said, research and development should be speeded.

The Federal Communications Commission has been pondering various proposals put forth by commercial firms in the communications satellite field. The varying plans have sounded a competitive tone.

A General Electric Co. subsidiary, for one, has asked for permission to launch its own satellites and establish the first private communications system of the space age.

Two other companies—American Telephone & Telegraph and General Telephone & Electronics—have said the first telephone and telegraph system using satellites should be a joint undertaking.

Kennedy told Johnson, who is chairman of the government's Space Council, to look into the diverse ownership proposals and also into proposed objectives. The aim, Kennedy said, should be "optimum use at the earliest practicable time" of communications satellites.

Kennedy also told Johnson not to overlook other countries' communications systems. He said close cooperation must be assured.

A step in that direction was taken last April. Britain, France and the United States set up a joint program to test communications satellites in the next few years.

Kennedy said both public and private resources should be utilized. He also advised Johnson that "continuing coordination of the governmental agencies responsible for regulatory, space, military and other aspects of this field is essential."

Solons Balk At Shelving Of New B-70

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Congressional ATOMIC Energy Committee has balked at President Kennedy's decision to shelve plans for a nuclear powered plane, official records disclosed today.

Kennedy announced on March 28 that work on two different nuclear plane engines would be abandoned. The Atomic Energy Commission then proposed that Congress void its authorization for a $55 million facility at its Idaho Falls station for testing one of the engines.

In the annual authorization bill for fiscal year 1962, reported to the Senate and the House this week, the committee recommended other cutbacks proposed by the commission, but not for the nuclear plane facility. In its report on the bill, the committee sharply criticized the cancellation.

The report commented that about $1 billion has been spent over 14 years on a project "plagued by many changes in objectives and vacillations in support." Nevertheless, "a considerable amount of progress has been made," it added. "Based upon classified information obtained from the Atomic Energy Commission in executive session, the joint committee believes that technical progress in the past two years was exceptionally gratifying."

If Congress follows the committee's lead and fails to make the requested deletion, authority will remain on the books for the test facility whenever Congress votes the money and the administration is willing to spend it.

Interior Minister Fired By Czech Leader

VIENNA (UPI) — President Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia has fired Rudolf Barak as Interior Minister and reshuffled the government of that Communist Country, Radio Prague said Saturday.

Barak, who also was a deputy premier, was replaced by Lubomir Strougal to head the country's police and other internal security forces. Western diplomats in Vienna believed the move was taken to strengthen already strict state control over the country.

The radio did not say whether Barak was ousted from his post as deputy premier.

A communique broadcast by Radio Prague said Brabec was named chairman of the government Control Office for Material Reserves.

Communist Czechoslovakia in recent months repeatedly has admitted shortcomings in the country's economy. Both radio and press reports said the economy did not live up to scheduled target figures of the present five year economic plan.

Barak had been minister of the interior since the "de-Stalinization" campaign started in the Communist countries in 1963 and was one of the youngest members of the Czech government, rising to prominence after World War II.

It was Barak who advocated the re-examination of some political trials carried out during the harsh rule of Josef Stalin and who granted amnesties to certain victims of Stalinism. Western experts believed Strougal would return to some of the earlier toughness.

Patterson Meets Discrimination Protest On Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. John Patterson of Alabama strode past pickets protesting racial discrimination as he boarded a plane for Honolulu Saturday. He was on the way to the National Governors Conference.

The pickets, who also appeared Friday night at the Jack Tar Hotel where Patterson stayed, represented the Committee on Racial Equality.

Another Southern governor, Ross Barnett of Mississippi, told reporters, "As long as they (the Freedom Riders) violate our state's laws they'll be prosecuted.

38 Injured When Buses, Cars Pile Up

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Thirty-eight persons were injured Saturday when two buses and two cars were involved in a collision over the Passaic River on the New Jersey Turnpike.

The wreck occurred about three miles north of Newark Airport, backing up traffic for three miles on the busy highway.

State Trooper Robert Santelli said an unidentified motorist's car was stalled in the right-hand northbound lane. A car driven by John Maass, 43, of Philadelphia stopped behind the stalled car. His car was hit in the rear by a car driven by Charles Forkas, 43, of Bath, Pa.

At that point, a fourth driver swerved into the middle land from the right, directly in front of a chartered bus driven by Gerald Ravelin, 29, of New Brunswick.

Ravelin slowed up and was struck from behind by a Trailways bus driven by Samuel W. Wilson, 24, of Woodbridge.

"I never saw the other bus come from behind," Ravelin said later. "All I know is that I suddenly found myself lying in the stairwell." The impact knocked Ravelin out of his seat.

Wilson was pinned in the wreck for 40 minutes and was taken to North Hudson Hospital in Weehawken, where his condition was listed as fair.

Ravelin's bus was chartered by 41 women of the St. Mary's Cathedral Rosary and Altar Society of Trenton. They were on their way to New York to see the musical "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Of the 38 brought to hospitals, 9 were admitted. Of the nine, only, Francis J. Stewart, 55, of Belmont, Calif., was listed in serious condition. He was admitted to St. James Hospital.

East Germany Fails To Stop Surprise Alert

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communist government tried Saturday and failed—to protest to the United States against the surprise combat alert staged Thursday by the 5,000-man U.S. Army garrison to test its ability to defend the city.

East German Deputy Foreign Minister Otto Winzer sent a note to Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, Berlin's American Commandant, containing the protest. Watson refused to receive it since the West does not recognize East Germany and pays no attention to such protests.

The protest, made public by the Communist East German news agency, said American soldiers "illegally" occupied Communist railway installations in West Berlin, heated up the cold war in Berlin and increased international tension. It demanded such "encroachments" stop.

Winzer said American occupation authorities in Berlin would have to bear the complete responsibility for any serious results that arose from endangering railway security.

The Army maneuver Thursday sent the American garrison out of their suburban barracks at 5 a.m. to Tempelhof Airfield, American headquarters, communications center and other key points in the American sector.

Johnson Faces Unity Problem In Assignment

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Saturday gave Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson the job of unifying the nation's communications satellite program.

Kennedy struck a note of urgency in a letter to Johnson giving him the job. Kennedy asked the vice president to report back promptly. And, in the meantime, Kennedy said, research and development should be speeded.

The Federal Communications Commission has been pondering various proposals put forth by commercial firms in the communications satellite field. The varying plans have sounded a competitive tone.

A General Electric Co. subsidiary, for one, has asked for permission to launch its own satellites and establish the first private communications system of the space age.

Two other companies—American Telephone & Telegraph and General Telephone & Electronics—have said the first telephone and telegraph system using satellites should be a joint undertaking.

Kennedy told Johnson, who is chairman of the government's Space Council, to look into the diverse ownership proposals and also into proposed objectives. The aim, Kennedy said, should be "optimum use at the earliest practicable time" of communications satellites.

Kennedy also told Johnson not to overlook other countries' communications systems. He said close cooperation must be assured.

A step in that direction was taken last April. Britain, France and the United States set up a joint program to test communications satellites in the next few years.

Kennedy said both public and private resources should be utilized. He also advised Johnson that "continuing coordination of the governmental agencies responsible for regulatory, space, military and other aspects of this field is essential."

progress in the past two years was exceptionally gratifying."

If Congress follows the committee's lead and fails to make the requested deletion, authority will remain on the books for the test facility whenever Congress votes the money and the administration is willing to spend it.

Interior Minister Fired By Czech Leader

VIENNA (UPI) — President Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia has fired Rudolf Barak as Interior Minister and reshuffled the government of that Communist Country, Radio Prague said Saturday.

Barak, who also was a deputy premier, was replaced by Lubomir Strougal to head the country's police and other internal security forces. Western diplomats in Vienna believed the move was taken to strengthen already strict state control over the country.

The radio did not say whether Barak was ousted from his post as deputy premier.

A communique broadcast by Radio Prague said Brabec was named chairman of the government Control Office for Material Reserves.

Communist Czechoslovakia in recent months repeatedly has admitted shortcomings in the country's economy. Both radio and press reports said the economy did not live up to scheduled target figures of the present five year economic plan.

Barak had been minister of the interior since the "de-Stalinization" campaign started in the Communist countries in 1953 and was one of the youngest members of the Czech government, rising to prominence after World War II.

It was Barak who advocated the re-examination of some political trials carried out during the harsh rule of Josef Stalin and who granted amnesties to certain victims of Stalinism. Western experts believed Strougal would return to some of the earlier toughness.

Patterson Meets Discrimination Protest On Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gov. John Patterson of Alabama strode past pickets protesting racial discrimination as he boarded a plane for Honolulu Saturday. He was on the way to the National Governors Conference.

The pickets, who also appeared Friday night at the Jack Tar Hotel where Patterson stayed, represented the Committee on Racial Equality.

Another Southern governor, Ross Balnett of Mississippi, told reporters, "As long as they (the Freedom Riders) violate our state's laws they'll be prosecuted.

Solons Balk At Shelving Of New B-70

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Congressional ATOMIC Energy Committee has balked at President Kennedy's decision to shelve plans for a nuclear powered plane, official records disclosed today.

Kennedy announced on March 28 that work on two different nuclear plane engines would be abandoned. The Atomic Energy Commission then proposed that Congress void its authorization for a $55 million facility at its Idaho Falls station for testing one of the engines.

In the annual authorization bill for fiscal year 1962, reported to the Senate and the House this week, the committee recommended other cutbacks proposed by the commission, but not for the nuclear plane facility. In its report on the bill, the committee sharply criticized the cancellation.

The report commented that about $1 billion has been spent over 14 years on a project "plagued by many changes in objectives and vacillations in support." Nevertheless, "a considerable amount of progress has been made," it added. "Based upon classified information obtained from the Atomic Energy Commission in executive session, the joint committee believes that technical

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Thirty-eight persons were injured Saturday when two buses and two cars were involved in a collision over the Passaic River on the New Jersey Turnpike.

The wreck occurred about three miles north of Newark Airport, backing up traffic for three miles on the busy highway.

State Trooper Robert Santelli said an unidentified motorist's car was stalled in the right-hand northbound lane. A car driven by John Maass, 43, of Philadelphia stopped behind the stalled car. His car was hit in the rear by a car driven by Charles Forkas, 43, of Bath, Pa.

At that point, a fourth driver swerved into the middle land from the right, directly in front of a chartered bus driven by Gerald Ravelin, 29, of New Brunswick.

Ravelin slowed up and was struck from behind by a Trailways bus driven by Samuel W. Wilson, 24, of Woodbridge.

"I never saw the other bus come from behind," Ravelin said later. "All I know is that I suddenly found myself lying in the stairwell." The impact knocked Ravelin out of his seat.

Wilson was pinned in the wreck for 40 minutes and was taken to North Hudson Hospital in Weehawken, where his condition was listed as fair.

Ravelin's bus was chartered by 41 women of the St. Mary's Cathedral Rosary and Altar Society of Trenton. They were on their way to New York to see the musical "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Of the 38 brought to hospitals, 9 were admitted. Of the nine, only, Francis J. Stewart, 55, of Belmont, Calif., was listed in serious condition. He was admitted to St. James Hospital.

East Germany Fails To Stop Surprise Alert

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communist government tried Saturday and failed—to protest to the United States against the surprise combat alert staged Thursday by the 5,000-man U.S. Army garrison to test its ability to defend the city.

East German Deputy Foreign Minister Otto Winzer sent a note to Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, Berlin's American Commandant, containing the protest. Watson refused to receive it since the West does not recognize East Germany and pays no attention to such protests.

The protest, made public by the Communist East German news agency, said American soldiers "illegally" occupied Communist railway installations in West Berlin, heated up the cold war in Berlin and increased international tension. It demanded such "encroachments" stop.

Winzer said American occupation authorities in Berlin would have to bear the complete responsibility for any serious results that arose from endangering railway security.

The Army maneuver Thursday sent the American garrison out of their suburban barracks at 5 a.m. to Tempelhof Airfield, American headquarters, communications center and other key points in the American sector.

Nixon Urges Republican Unity

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Richard M. Nixon, former vice president, Saturday night told the national Young Republican convention that "it is time to quit fighting among ourselves and to start fighting our opponents."

Nixon, in a prepared speech, made a plea for unity in a convention that has been marked by delegates splitting up in support of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Nixon for president in 1964.

"Republican prospects for victory in 1962 are the best since any off-year election since 1950," Nixon said. "If we fail to make substantial gains in the contests for governor, congressmen and senators, it will be because we beat ourselves due to a flare-up of an old Republican malady—cannibalism."

SOVIET EMBARGO

A complete embargo on trade with the Soviet Union, all its satellite countries and Cuba was urged in a resolution by the Young Republicans.

The delegates also took a stand against the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

The convention approved an amendment that as a minimum, if Red China is admitted, all financial aid by the United States to the United Nations should be cut off and that, secondly, consideration be given to withdrawal.

The convention also approved a plank which read: "We believe it is the duty of the government of the U.S. to take any means necessary to carry out the principles of the Monroe Doctrine. . .

"We feel if it is not possible to obtain the support of our neighbors, it remains our responsibility to act to prevent any spread of communism into the new world."

In his speech Nixon said: "Healthy and constructive debate among Republicans of our differences on principles is one thing; petty personal attacks issomething else again."

He declared that too many Republicans "have their eyes so tightly glued on the hurdle of 1964 that they run the risk of stumbling and falling over the equally important hurdle of 1962."

"We must remember that what differences we have are small compared to the gulfs which separate the dedication to individual enterprise shared by all Republicans and the current obsession to federal domination and control which characterizes the present administration."

Answering persons who ask how can those who support the Goldwater philosophy work together with those favoring the Rockefeller view, Nixon said the simple answer is: "If Kennedy and Johnson could get together, our party should certainly be big enough for whatever differences we may have."

Pilot's Body Is Recovered

CROSSVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The body of a pilot was found with his crashed and burned training plane Saturday 24 hours after the plane had left Knoxville.

Air Force officials said a body presumed to be that of Marine Lt. Col. James H. Phillips, 42, was found in the wreckage.

Phillips had originally taken off from Quantico in the red and white T28 on a routine training flight. His destination was Jackson, Tenn., and stops were to include Knoxville, Crossville and Sewart Air Force Base near Smyrna.

He was last heard from when he left Knoxville Friday morning.

East German Leader Wants Peace Treaty For Nation

BERLIN (AP)—Walter Ulbricht declared Saturday the people of Communist East Germany "can live in peace only when a peace treaty cancels the account of the revenge-seeking West Germans."

Pressure was applied by Ulbricht, East German Communist chieftain, for a peace pact in a speech that the ADN news agency said was delivered before a crowd of 100,000 at Halle.

The Soviet Union takes the stand that if West Germany and its allies will not agree to a treaty on Soviet terms, a separate treaty will be signed with East Germany at the end of this year. The West shows no sign of yielding to Soviet demands.

Otto Winzer, No. 2 man in the East German Foreign Ministry, also made the point about a separate East Germany in an interview.

He told ADN a statement about Berlin by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk left open the possibility of Western recognition for East Germany as a basis for keeping Western troops in Berlin.

"The idea will win through," he said, that the German Democratic Republic must be dealt with as a sovereign state."

Winzer sent a letter to Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, U.S. commandant in Berlin, protesting a damage to the glass roof of a railroad station taken over briefly by U.S. troops in an exercise last Thursday.

Winzer complained that the troops occupied several stations for an hour and a half and caused "wanton destruction."

No answer was expected from the U.S. authorities, which do not recognize the East German Communist regime.

Tammy Hunt Contest Is Opened Here

A contest to find the teenager in Monroe - West Monroe who most nearly fits the impression of a motion picture fictional character is slated to be held early in July.

Sponsored by the Jim Theatre, in cooperation with Universal Pictures, Inc., the contest is open to all teenage girls from 14 to 18. Selection will be made by four impartial judges and the winner will represent the area in the final contest in New Orleans.

FICTIONAL

The fictional character is "Tammy Tyree" and is being held throughout the area in conjunction with the forthcoming premiere of "Tammy Tell Me True," which will be premiered in New Orleans during the second week of July. This picture is a sequel to the motion picture "Tammy and the Bachelor" which was a boxoffice hit several seasons ago.

Although the star of the upcoming picture is a blonde, the teenage sweetheart, Sandra Dee, participants in the contest need not worry about that. The main point of interest in the contest is to find the girl who best exemplifies the unusual qualities which the character possesses. She is a typical American teenager.

TYPICAL ATTIRE

There will be no beauty contest as such, but the girl will be selected as the one who looks prettiest in typical Tammy attire, a very simple dress or even blue jeans, without makeup or the other superficialities.

The winner and a chaperone will be sent to New Orleans July 11 for the premiere of the picture, plus activities held in connection with the event. She will also participate in the contest in the Crescent City.

Those interested should either bring or mail to the Jim Theatre a picture, along with their name, address, phone number, and in a few sentences, their reasons for believing why they could best represent the symbol being sought. The pictures should be mailed to Jim Theatre, P. O. Box 912, Monroe.

It was owned by Miss Laura Keene, a glamorous actress of the day, for whom a benefit performance was being held on the fateful night. Miss Keene had loaned the piano to the theater.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: My husband is a devout Christian and will not allow our children to go to the movies. But when he gets home from work he watches the television for four or five hours every evening. Isn't this inconsistent?
K. H.

ANSWER: I suppose you would call this "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." Much of the television programming is the showing of films, and these are of course "Movies." Probably your husband's argument is that young people confront an environment in the theater, perhaps, that they do not at home. It could also be that he believes in parental supervision of children's recreation, and that is a good thing.

Regarding his watching television for four or five hours, and I presume he lets the children do the same, this is too much! The Bible teaches temperance in all things and "self control." There is much on television that is not desirable for children. We have a television set, but my wife carefully censors the programs that our children watch. The easy way would be just to let them look at everything. But a wise parent is interested in what kind of material enters the mind of his child. Just as we are careful about the food they eat, we should be careful about the kind of impressions they get through entertainment and other media.

State To Open Highway Bids On 25 Projects

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Highway Director Ray Burgess said Friday bids will be opened June 28 on 25 highway projects involving improvements on 146 miles of roadway.

While the bid letting is not expected to approach the record $20 million in bids received in April, Burgess said, "these 25 projects represent highly important local projects mostly in our secondary system of highways in almost every section of the state."

Tammy Hunt Contest Is Opened Here

A contest to find the teenager in Monroe - West Monroe who most nearly fits the impression of a motion picture fictional character is slated to be held early in July.

Sponsored by the Jim Theatre, in cooperation with Universal Pictures, Inc., the contest is open to all teenage girls from 14 to 18. Selection will be made by four impartial judges and the winner will represent the area in the final contest in New Orleans.

FICTIONAL

The fictional character is "Tammy Tyree" and is being held throughout the area in conjunction with the forthcoming premiere of "Tammy Tell Me True," which will be premiered in New Orleans during the second week of July. This picture is a sequel to the motion picture "Tammy and the Bachelor" which was a boxoffice hit several seasons ago.

Although the star of the upcoming picture is a blonde, the teenage sweetheart, Sandra Dee, participants in the contest need not worry about that. The main point of interest in the contest is to find the girl who best exemplifies the unusual qualities which the character possesses. She is a typical American teenager.

TYPICAL ATTIRE

There will be no beauty contest as such, but the girl will be selected as the one who looks prettiest in typical Tammy attire, a very simple dress or even blue jeans, without makeup or the other superficialities.

The winner and a chaperone will be sent to New Orleans July 11 for the premiere of the picture, plus activities held in connection with the event. She will also participate in the contest in the Crescent City.

Those interested should either bring or mail to the Jim Theatre a picture, along with their name, address, phone number, and in a few sentences, their reasons for believing why they could best represent the symbol being sought. The pictures should be mailed to Jim Theatre, P. O. Box 912, Monroe.

FAMED PIANO

EAST ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—An ornate upright piano, believed to be the one used in Ford's Theater in Washington the night Lincoln was shot, is stored in a corner of the Aeolian-American Piano Corp. factory here. It was owned by Miss Laura Keene, a glamorous actress of the day, for whom a benefit performance was being held on the fateful night. Miss Keene had loaned the piano to the theater.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

QUESTION: My husband is a devout Christian and will not allow our children to go to the movies. But when he gets home from work he watches the television for four or five hours every evening. Isn't this inconsistent?
K. H.

ANSWER: I suppose you would call this "straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." Much of the television programming is the showing of films, and these are of course "Movies." Probably your husband's argument is that young people confront an environment in the theater, perhaps, that they do not at home. It could also be that he believes in parental supervision of children's recreation, and that is a good thing.

Regarding his watching television for four or five hours, and I presume he lets the children do the same, this is too much! The Bible teaches temperance in all things and "self control." There is much on television that is not desirable for children. We have a television set, but my wife carefully censors the programs that our children watch. The easy way would be just to let them look at everything. But a wise parent is interested in what kind of material enters the mind of his child. Just as we are careful about the food they eat, we should be careful about the kind of impressions they get through entertainment and other media.

Communications Blaster Says He's Mad At World

EDITOR'S NOTE—The dawn blasting of three communication facilities on the Utah-Nevada desert four weeks ago stunned the nation. Excited citizens telephoned police asking whether war had started. Who had done the bombing? Why? An oddly assorted pair now in jail at San Diego, Calif., give these answers to one of the year's most bizarre news stories.

By GENE HANDSAKER

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A cousin says of Bernard J. Brous' early life: "He was mad at people in general."

For years he rode freights as a hobo. But then he built a $40,000 inheritance into a fortune in postwar building on Long Island.

Three years ago he was doing repair work for a Houston, Tex., telephone company.

The company switched its repair assignments to a rival concern. This "financial strangulation," Brous told a reporter, forced him out of business.

Since then he has been mad not only at the world in general, investigators say, but at the telephone company in particular.

Thus grew the seeds of the past week's weirdest news story—the arrest of two men for the Sunday dawn bombing four weeks ago of three unmanned AT & T communications facilities on the Utah-Nevada desert.

The spectacular blasts temporarily knocked out some telephone hookups and automatically switched military communications to other circuits.

A needle-in-the-haystack FBI search was aided by thousands of mysterious letters mailed from Mexico to President Kennedy, newspaper editors, law officers and others, blasting the "American Telephone cartel."

The search led last Saturday evening to the luxuriously equipped, $30,000, 42-foot yacht Monsoon, tied up at Ensenada, Mexico.

Police of that small city 75 miles south of here went aboard and seized an arsenal—two machine guns, six rifles, a shotgun, 1,500 rounds of ammunition—and an unlikely pair of men:

Brous: 51, the skipper-owner, most recently of Wilmington, Calif. stocky, smiling, loquacious and cocky, with long, wavy hair, droopy mustace, short beard. Dressed in yachting denims with two-starred cap. His name rhymes with house.

Dale Chris Jensen: 22, a gambling house dealer in his native Reno, Nev., and a former mining worker and power shovel operator, skin diver. Three Reno arrests for assault, destruction of property, being drunk and disorderly; no convictions. Quit high school before graduation. Two children. Wife said in divorcing him he beat her, drank heavily, had violent temper.

Brous says he's the organizer-leader of the American Republican Army. He told a Mexican official its purpose was to fight what he called official U.S. corruption including the FBI and big business. Its only members apparently are Brous and Jensen.

Handsome, blond, athletic-looking, Jensen spoke after his arrest as though sleepy.

He admitted blasting the microwave relay tower at Wendover, Nev., the underground cable relay station at Knolls, Utah and the microwave relay tower, at Cedar Mountain, Utah.

He said he planted standard common construction and mining-type explosives in eight hours.

Jensen said Brous paid him to do it. The two men had met casually in Reno.

As Mexico quickly deported the pair and they were jailed here on an FBI warrant charging tower bombing conspiracy and sabotage, a far-flung background of the mystery began to emerge.

A cousin, Morty Brous, of Atlantic Beach, N.Y., recalled Bernard Brous at 17.

"His mother had died and he wasn't able to get along with the woman his father had remarried. He ran away from New York City and rode the undersides of freight trains for three years. He was a real hobo," the cousin said.

Brous' father died in 1945 and he inherited $40,000 which he used to enter the building business. He bought land at Massapequa Park and built a 3,000-home development, second only in size on Long Island to Levittown.

At Kings Point he built a palatial house for himself and began moving in Long Island's top political circles.

District Court Judge Edwin R. Lynde recalls, "He was a character. He always wore a big cowboy hat and boots and sometimes carried a gun in his holster."

Brous' wife Celia divorced him in 1944, charging inadequate support of herself and their two sons. Brous vanished from Long Island in 1955.

New Assignment For Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve Peace Corps volunteers will start a two-year agricultural assistance program on the island of St. Lucia in the West Indies Federation next October, it was announced Saturday.

This will be the fifth Peace Corps project. Others will take the volunteers to Tanganyika, Colombia, the Philippines, and Chile.

Kissing Tells

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's in a kiss? There might be infectious mononucleosis.

So reports Dr. Alfred S. Evans of the University of Wisconsin. The medical sleuth says the disease with a reputation for being transmitted by osculatory activity constitutes a kind of occupational hazard for college students. He reinforces the observation with statistics based on studies of students with mononucleosis.

Record High Enrollment Set At Grambling

GRAMBLING — President R. W. E. Jones of Grambling College, addressing the first summer session convocation here today, said, "Today the academic horizons or frontiers are limitless."

More than 1600 enrollees, the largest summer school enrolment in the school's history, heard the educator say that for the first time in the modern era economic opportunities equal scholastic endeavors of every description.

"No student with any interest," he said, "has any excuse for not giving his field of study his best because the opportunities to use his information, skills, and abilities are out there."

Jones complimented the hundreds of regular students who had returned after a short recess to pursue their studies and the many freshmen students who are getting an early educational start.

The record enrolment of students is made up of the still pursuing degree programs, recent high school graduates taking accelerated courses, and persons participating in the various workshops, clinics, and institutes.

Registration in some of the short-term programs include special education, 37; Communism vs. Democracy, 40; guidance, 29, and the junior high school workshop for teachers and administrators, 38.

More than 360 teachers from 33 parishes participated in the 3-day Science Workshop sponsored at Grambling by the State Department of Education's Science Division, Mr. H. P. McCollum, supervisor.

Beginning, Monday, June 26, more than forty junior and senior high school teachers will participate in the second annual Science Institute.

Baptist College Enrollment Over 400 For Summer

PINEVILLE (Special) — Day-school enrolment for Louisiana College's 1961 summer session has topped the 400 mark and is only four short of the highest in the past decade.

According to information released this week from Miss Dorothy Calhoun, registrar, 447 have enrolled at the Pineville school. The highest in the past 10 years was in 1951 when 451 registered.

However, this summer's grand total of 528, which includes 81 registered in night school, in higher than any in at least 10 years. The largest since 1951 was in 1957 when 492 enrolled in the day and night sessions.

This year's figure also tops the 60 grand total of 450, which included 385 day - school students and 81 night - schoolers, 16 of whom were duplicates.

Registration period for both day and evening sessions closed Tuesday, June 20.

Largest day-school class is the senior one with 121. Sophomores total 82 while the freshmen number 80. Only 66 juniors are gegistered. Ninety-five are unclassified, while three are "special" students.

Weather Observer To Try Polar Life

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Roger Mallory, meteorological technician at the U. S. Weather Bureau, will depart Sunday for the coldest area on earth.

He will be living at the South Pole in about six months.

Why trade the sunny South for that?

"There are few places in the world where you can really do some pioneering," Mallory replied. "I think it's a real opportunity to go to one of the few outposts left."

He said he was curious what minus 160 degrees would be like.

Communications Blaster Says He's Mad At World

EDITOR'S NOTE—The dawn blasting of three communication facilities on the Utah-Nevada desert four weeks ago stunned the nation. Excited citizens telephoned police asking whether war had started. Who had done the bombing? Why? An oddly assorted pair now in jail at San Diego, Calif., give these answers to one of the year's most bizarre news stories.

By GENE HANDSAKER

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A cousin says of Bernard J. Brous' early life: "He was mad at people in general."

For years he rode freights as a hobo. But then he built a $40,000 inheritance into a fortune in postwar building on Long Island.

Three years ago he was doing repair work for a Houston, Tex., telephone company.

The company switched its repair assignments to a rival concern. This "financial strangulation," Brous told a reporter, forced him out of business.

Since then he has been mad not only at the world in general, investigators say, but at the telephone company in particular.

Thus grew the seeds of the past week's weirdest news story—the arrest of two men for the Sunday dawn bombing four weeks ago of three unmanned AT & T communications facilities on the Utah-Nevada desert.

The spectacular blasts temporarily knocked out some telephone hookups and automatically switched military communications to other circuits.

A needle-in-the-haystack FBI search was aided by thousands of mysterious letters mailed from Mexico to President Kennedy, newspaper editors, law officers and others, blasting the "American Telephone cartel."

The search led last Saturday evening to the luxuriously equipped, $30,000, 42-foot yacht Monsoon, tied up at Ensenada, Mexico.

Police of that small city 75 miles south of here went aboard and seized an arsenal—two machine guns, six rifles, a shotgun, 1,500 rounds of ammunition—and an unlikely pair of men:

Brous: 51, the skipper-owner, most recently of Wilmington, Calif. stocky, smiling, loquacious and cocky, with long, wavy hair, droopy mustace, short beard. Dressed in yachting denims with two-starred cap. His name rhymes with house.

Dale Chris Jensen: 23, a gambling house dealer in his native Reno, Nev., and a former mining worker and power shovel operator, skin diver. Three Reno arrests for assault, destruction of property, being drunk and disoderly; no convictions. Quit high school before graduation. Two children. Wife said in divorcing him he beat her, drank heavily, had violent temper.

Brous says he's the organizer-leader of the American Republican Army. He told a Mexican official its purpose was to fight what he called official U.S. corruption including the FBI and big business. Its only members apparently are Brous and Jensen.

Handsome, blond, athletic-looking, Jensen spoke after his arrest as though sleepy.

He admitted blasting the microwave relay tower at Wendover, Nev., the underground cable relay station at Knolls, Utah and the microwave relay tower at Cedar Mountain, Utah.

He said he planted standard clock devices set to detonate common construction and mining-type explosives in eight hours.

Jensen said Brous paid him to do it. The two men had met casually in Reno.

As Mexico quickly deported the pair and they were jailed here on an FBI warrant charging tower bombing conspiracy and sabotage, a far-flung background of the mystery began to emerge.

A cousin, Morty Brous, of Atlantic Beach, N.Y., recalled Bernard Brous at 17.

"His mother had died and he wasn't able to get along with the woman his father had remarried. He ran away from New York City and rode the undersides of freight trains for three years. He was a real hobo," the cousin said.

Brous' father died in 1945 and he inherited $40,000 which he used to enter the building business. He bought land at Massapequa Park and built a 3,000-home development, second only in size on Long Island to Levittown.

At Kings Point he built a palatial house for himself and began moving in Long Island's top political circles.

District Court Judge Edwin R. Lynde recalls, "He was a character. He always wore a big cowboy hat and boots and sometimes carried a gun in his holster."

Brous' wife Celia divorced him in 1944, charging inadequate support of herself and their two sons. Brous vanished from Long Island in 1955.

New Assignment For Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twelve Peace Corps volunteers will start a two-year agricultural assistance program on the island of St. Lucia in the West Indies Federation next October, it was announced Saturday.

This will be the fifth Peace Corps project. Others will take the volunteers to Tanganyika, Colombia, the Philippines, and Chile.

Kissing Tells

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's in a kiss? There might be infectious mononucleosis.

So reports Dr. Alfred S. Evans of the University of Wisconsin. The medical sleuth says the disease with a reputation for being transmitted by osculatory activity constitutes a kind of occupational hazard for college students. He reinforces the observation with statistics based on studies of students with mononucleosis.

Record High Enrollment Set At Grambling

GRAMBLING — President R. W. E. Jones of Grambling College, addressing the first summer session convocation here today, said, "Today the academic horizons or frontiers are limitless."

More than 1600 enrollees, the largest summer school enrolment in the school's history, heard the educator say that for the first time in the modern era economic opportunities equal scholastic endeavors of every description.

"No student with any interest," he said, "has any excuse for not giving his field of study his best because the opportunities to use his information, skills, and abilities are out there."

Jones complimented the hundreds of regular students who had returned after a short recess to pursue their studies and the many freshmen students who are getting an early educational start.

The record enrolment of students is made up of the still pursuing degree programs, recent high school graduates taking accelerated courses, and persons participating in the various workshops, clinics, and institutes.

Registration in some of the short-term programs include special education, 37; Communism vs. Democracy, 40; guidance, 29, and the junior high school workshop for teachers and administrators, 38.

More than 360 teachers from 33 parishes participated in the 3-day Science Workshop sponsored at Grambling by the State Department of Education's Science Division, Mr. H. P. McCollum, supervisor.

Beginning, Monday, June 26, more than forty junior and senior high school teachers will participate in the second annual Science Institute.

Baptist College Enrollment Over 400 For Summer

PINEVILLE (Special) — Day-school enrolment for Louisiana College's 1961 summer session has topped the 400 mark and is only four short of the highest in the past decade.

According to information released this week from Miss Dorothy Calhoun, registrar, 447 have enrolled at the Pineville school. The highest in the past 10 years was in 1951 when 451 registered.

However, this summer's grand total of 528, which includes 81 registered in night school, is higher than any in at least 10 years. The largest since 1951 was in 1957 when 492 enrolled in the day and night sessions.

This year's figure also tops the 450 grand total of 450, which included 385 day - school students and 81 night - schoolers, 16 of whom were duplicates.

Registration period for both day and evening sessions closed Tuesday, June 20.

Largest day-school class is the senior one with 121. Sophomores total 82 while the freshmen number 80. Only 66 juniors are registered. Ninety-five are unclassified, while three are "special" students.

Weather Observer To Try Polar Life

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Roger Mallory, meteorological technician at the U. S. Weather Bureau, will depart Sunday for the coldest area on earth.

He will be living at the South Pole in about six months.

Why trade the sunny South for that?

"There are few places in the world where you can really do some pioneering," Mallory replied. "I think it's a real opportunity to go to one of the few outposts left."

He said he was curious what minus 160 degrees would be like.

The Mysterious Light On Railroad Track

Mystery Light

By JANICE CLARK
Staff Correspondent

CROSSETT, Ark. — With school out and Crossett's teen - agers cruising about of an evening with not enough to do, the cars have been lining up more than usual out at the "Light."

And "The Light" to Crossett citizens means just one thing — the mysterious flashing light which appears almost every night, all through the dark hours, down the tracks of the Missouri Pacific Railroad to people who stand on the track and look north where it crosses rural Unity Road.

UNEXPLAINED

To those in town who have never driven the two miles down the gravel road to watch for the Light, it is something that the young people use as an excuse to park after the movies; or it is a tall tale told with not too much hope that it will be believed.

But the Light is real, and after appearing for over 50 years, it is still unexplained.

Different people will describe it in different ways. One boy said it floats about head-high, and sometimes moves to the right or left a little.

This 18-year-old boy has seen it many times, and says it is clear and white.

Another person described it as "a definitely defined flash of light orange in color, about like a kerosene lamp showing through a window in the distance."

This last person, who has his master's degree in physical science, added that "it will flash an instant and then be gone; or it sometimes moves and stays on longer than usual — sometimes about head high and sometimes seems down on the rails."

MANY THEORIES

Theories of what causes the Light are about as numerous as the people who go to see it.

The most persistent of the offbeat theories is that it is the lantern carried by a railroad brakeman of long ago who lost his head in a train wreck nearby, and is looking for it.

Those who insist on a scientific reason for the light have theorized that it is the reflection of car headlights passing on Highway 82, six miles north of the Unity Road crossing.

This theory has been exploded as people have found no correlation between passing cars and the appearance of the Light.

Furthermore, the Light has been appearing apparently since the first person looked through the forest down that Mo-Pac track over half a century ago — long before cars came down Highway 82, and before the highway existed.

The very constancy of the Light over decades explodes the theories that it is caused by gases from marsh grasses or old stumps.

The causes of such gases change character through the years, and the Light would have worn out and disappeared long ago from such sources.

TRICK

Young people in Crossett have used it as a sort of local "snipe hunt" trick to play on visiting groups.

Some years ago when the state band festival was held in Crossett some local boys and girls lured visiting band members out to the Light and started down the track through the deep forest with them, to search for the headless brakeman.

Pretty soon, in the dark, the visiting musicians looked around and found that the local hosts had vanished in the night leaving them to flounder alone and unguided down the lonely track, with nothing but the Light for company.

It was a footsore, exhausted group of boys and girls who finally found their way to the highway and back to Crossett — returning to their home towns to bide their time until Crossett youths came a-visiting!

Many determined people have walked down the track to meet the Light.

Some have reported that it disappeared, and then when they looked back over their shoulder, there it was behind them.

The skeptical, the superstitious, and the romantic have all gone down the road to "see the Light." And all have seen it.

So far, after half a century, it has defied analysis — but flashes on night after dark night, down the track through the forest.

Ask anyone — they will show you where to look.

Mississippi To Lake Providence

Canal Military Project

By MILDRED S. RUSHING
Staff Correspondent

LAKE PROVIDENCE — 'Twas a long time ago that Gen. Ulysses S. Grant tried unsucessfully to by-pass Vicksburg by canal.

All that is left of this once tremendous project by a brilliant Federal general is a tiny inlet at Lake Providence. An historical marker was dedicated there Thursday.

Gen. Grant attempted to mask his military strategy and keep his men employed during the winter months of 1862-63 by digging the famed canal.

Grant had planned to divide the south in two sections, one east and one west of the Mississippi River, thereby destroying her supply sources.

But he failed in two attempts to drive the wedge that would cut the south in half and was forced to find other means.

He turned his attention next to bypassing Vicksburg, which seemed to be an impregnable fortress.

Grant's first attempt at a canal was at Grand Lake; a second at Ashton, both proving unsatisfactory.

TOO MARSHY

The Louisiana terrain opposite Vicksburg was much too marshy at this season of the year to transport troops, so Grant decided to dig a canal and take his troops and supplies down a system of bayous to Ouachita and Red River and into the Mississippi below Vicksburg.

This was a vast undertaking. The actual operation was not too difficult; but opening up a passage large enough and deep enough to accommodate supply ships from Baxter Bayou to the Macon was a difficult task.

General Grant describes this problem in his memoirs:

"Bayou Baxter, as it reaches lower land, begins to spread out and disappear entirely in a cypress swamp before it reaches Bayou Macon. There was about two feet of water in the swamp at this time.

To get through it, even with the vessels with the lightest draft, it was necessary to clear off a belt of heavy timber wide enough to make a passage-way. As the trees would have to be cut close to the bottom, under water, it was an undertaking of great magnitude."

IN CHARGE

Records in Vicksburg National Park show that Maj. Gen. James B. McPherson was in charge of operations and constantly in contact with Gen. Grant on his plans.

Col. Josiah W. Bissell, Regiment of the West, was in charge of the actual digging of the canal and Col. George W. Dietzler, First Kansas Infantry, was in charge of the labor for digging.

It has been said that McPherson made Arlington, local planation home, his headquarters and Gen. Grant stayed there when he visited Lake Providence to inspect the progress of his renown canal.

Actual work was begun on January 30, 1863, and it was on March 10, 1863 that Gen. McPherson wrote Gen. Grant that he and Col. Bissell had made a tour of inspection and the colonel reported he could get into Bayou Macon through Baxter. . .that examination of Bayou Baxter showed clearing would be greater than he had been led to believe.

OTHER PROBLEMS

The terrain was not the only problem confronting the Federals. There seemed to be a labor problem, too, for in a letter headed Lake Providence, Feb. 3, 1863, Col. George W. Dietzler wrote to Lt. Col. James A. Rawlins that he was able to secure only 100 able bodied Negroe.

Planters had taken most of their Negroes and cotton into Bayou Macon swamp, about 15 miles from Lake Providence.

McPherson's men were camped along the lake close to their work and the toughest sergeant in the camp was put in charge of digging the lake-to-river canal, and within a short time Union vessels were riding at anchor in the lake. One, a 30-ton steamer, was used by Gens. Grant and McPherson to inspect operations.

Then, an epidemic of colds and fever hit the camp, and the tough sergeant fell ill and died within three days.

When the time came for preparing the body for burial, it was discovered that the sergeant was a woman. She had enlisted in a little cow town in Kansas, and her true identity has never been established.

The canal was 100 feet wide and five feet deep from the Mississippi River to Lake Providence.

Gen. McPherson wrote Gen. Grant from Lake Providence, Mar. 18, 1863, "The levee was cut here yesterday afternoon and water is flowing at tremendous rate, filling lake and bayous. We will soon be able to take a good size boat in."

WORK ABANDONED

Work was abandoned on the canal as impractical during the second week in April, 1863. By this time, the ground opposite Vicksburg on the Louisiana side of the river was dry enough to transport troops.

The distance from the river to the lake at that time was about a mile, with the main current of the river this side of Stack Island.

Several years ago the U. S. government appropriated funds with which to have the canal, directly behind stores in the heart of the downtown district, filled in, because it was considered a health menace.

After nearly a century, all that is left of Grant's canal is the stretch from the Holland Delta Road to the lake.

Talons Open, X15 Falls Away

EDITOR'S NOTE—In 2½ years of experiments, the X15 has won its place in the history of aviation —carrying pilots ever faster and higher as man gingerly tests the fringes of space. How does it feel flying a rocket ship? Fasten your seat belt and read on.

By RALPH DIGHTON

OVER WENDOVER AFB, Utah (AP)—You're alone in the cockpit of the rocket ship X15, eight miles high and 400 miles from home.

In the next few minutes you will drop away from your B52 mother ship, shoot straight up at 4,000 m.p.h. to a height of 50 miles, then try to get back to earth alive.

Man has gone faster and higher —into space and back in a rocket's space capsule—but he was like a worm in a bean shot into the air, with no control over his flight.

OBJECTIVE

Your job is to prove man can leave and re-enter the atmosphere with the precise control needed for spaceships of the future. The X15 so far has hit top speeds of 3,000 m.p.h. and climbed to just over 32 miles high.

As you near the launch point, monitoring systems on the ground and in the big eight-jet B52 are running electronic fingers over every working part of your plane.

Fuel pressure — OK. Hydraulic controls — OK. Auxiliary power — OK. Everything works.

You check and re-check each of the 30 dials and 15 lights massed on the control panel inches from your nose in the cramped cockpit.

Over the earphones in your helmet comes the alert:

"Fifteen seconds to launch."

Time for a last look—and a quick prayer if you feel like it.

"Five. Four. Three. Two. One — Launch!"

Clunk! Iron talons open and your X15 falls away with sickening swiftness.

In seconds you're 4,000 feet below the mother ship.

You flip a switch and—blam! A sledgehammer hits you in the back.

COMFORTING

It's a comforting feeling.

The 57,000-pound-thrust rocket engine, most powerful yet made for manned flight, has ignited. You're on your way.

Your left hand shoves the throttle forward to full thrust.

Your right hand pulls back on the stick between your legs.

The old girl practically stands on her tail, straining to escape into the dark sky above.

The altimeter, which registered 41,000 feet when you hit the ignition switch, shows 80,000, then 100,000, then 125,000 feet.

Your speed jumps from 600 m.p.h. to 1,000 — 2,000 — 3,000 m.p.h.

Now you are at the fringe of the atmosphere—and at the edge of man's experience. Whatever you do from here on will blaze a trail for tomorrow's spaceman.

Little more than a minute has elapsed, but it seems like hours.

All at once the roaring pressure at your back eases off.

Nothing's wrong. The engine has run out of fuel—at the precise second it was supposed to do so.

It has burned 83 seconds and carried you to a height of 158,000 feet.

The speed now is 6,340 feet—considerably more than a mile—per second, or more than 4,300 m.p.h.

You've scattered records like ten pins, but you're not through yet.

Momentum carries you higher and higher, 40 miles, then 50 miles above the earth.

Up here, the control stick you're straddling is useless. The air is too thin for wing and tail surfaces to push against.

HEAVY PRESSURE

Slowly—your speed has pushed you back in the seat with a pressure five times that of gravity, so that every move is like trying to swim through molasses—slowly you grasp a hand grip at your left.

Moving the grip in any of three directions will make small jets of hydrogen peroxide steam spurt from holes in the wings and nose of your plane. A jet of steam rising upward from the left wing will force that wing down, making you bank to the left. A spurt downward from a jet under the nose will force the nose up, making you climb.

You don't use these controls yet. You're in a ballistic trajectory, like a rock thrown high in the air, and you're safe until you start down.

Through the narrow V-shaped windshield you can see hundreds of miles—the mountains and deserts of California, Arizona, Nevada, and the broad sweep of the Pacific Ocean.

Around you the blue sky shades in ever deepening bands into the blackness of space. For the first time in your life, you are really alone.

Then a voice crackles in your ear.

"This is Nasa One," says the radio in your helmet. "You're looking good from here."

Nasa One is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's ground control center back at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Director Paul Bikle can't really see you—he is watching on the radar screen.

"Put her nose down," he says, "and come on home."

This is where the steam jets take over. A "whoosh" from a hole in the top of the X15's rounded nose starts you downward.

Ahead and below is a patch of yellow—the great Mojave Desert. You've got to hit a pinpoint on it 400 miles away.

You've used up all your fuel, so there'll be no second chance if you miss the landing strip at Edwards.

But that isn't your main worry right now.

The immediate problem is to slip back down into the heavy atmosphere as slowly and gently as you can, in a plane that glides like a brick.

Hit the atmosphere too fast, in too steep a dive, and air friction will turn you to toast.

Come in too flat and you'll overshoot the base.

Theories of what causes the Light are about as numerous as the people who go to see it.

The most persistent of the offbeat theories is that it is the lantern carried by a railroad brakeman of long ago who lost his head in a train wreck nearby, and is looking for it.

Those who insist on a scientific reason for the light have theorized that it is the reflection of car headlights passing on Highway 82, six miles north of the Unity Road crossing.

This theory has been exploded as people have found no correlation between passing cars and the appearance of the Light.

Furthermore, the Light has been appearing apparently since the first person looked through the forest down that Mo-Pac track over half a century ago — long before cars came down Highway 82, and before the highway existed.

The very constancy of the Light over decades explodes the theories that it is caused by gases from marsh grasses or old stumps.

The causes of such gases change character through the years, and the Light would have worn out and disappeared long ago from such sources.

TRICK

Young people in Crossett have used it as a sort of local "snipe hunt" trick to play on visiting groups.

Some years ago when the state band festival was held in Crossett some local boys and girls lured visiting band members out to the Light and started down the track through the deep forest with them, to search for the headless brakeman.

Pretty soon, in the dark, the visiting musicians looked around and found that the local hosts had vanished in he night leaving them to flounder alone and unguided down the lonely track, with nothing but the Light for company.

It was a footsore, exhausted group of boys and girls who finally found their way to the highway and back to Crossett — returning to their home towns to bide their time until Crossett youths came a-visiting!

Many determined people have walked down the track to meet the Light.

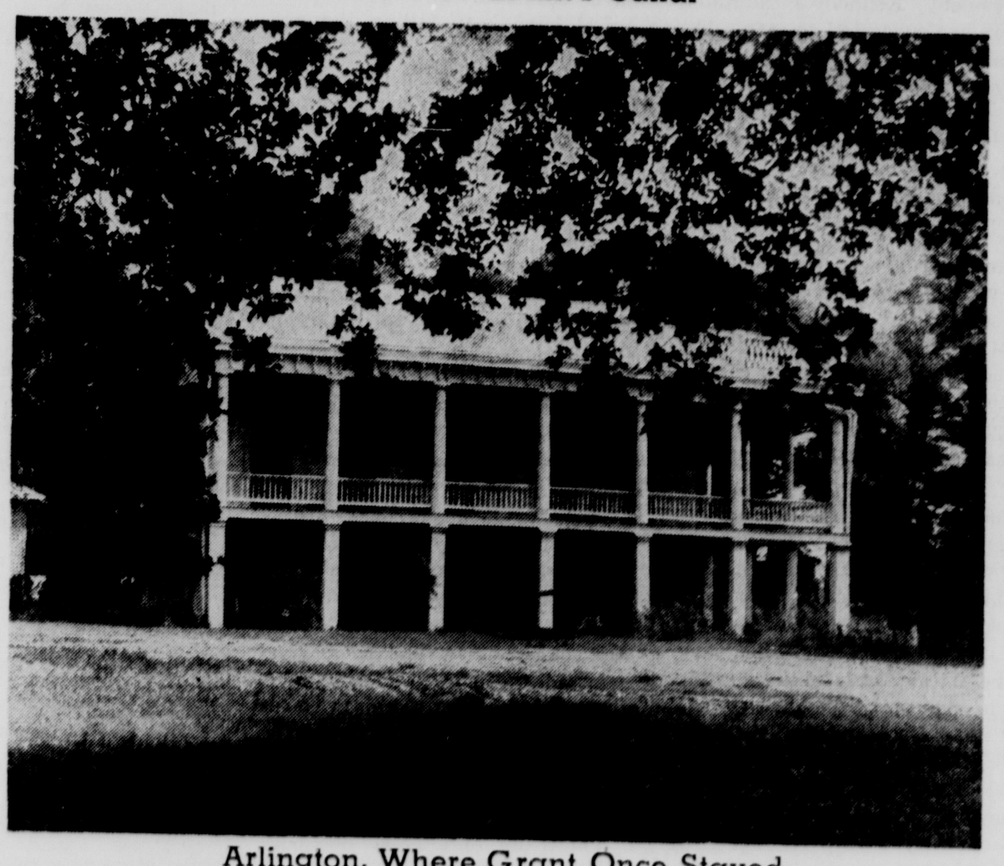
Some have reported that it disappeared, and then when they looked back over their shoulder, there it was behind them.

The skeptical, the superstitious, and the romantic have all gone down the road to "see the Light." And all have seen it.

So far, after half a century, it has defied analysis — but flashes on night after dark night, down the track through the forest.

Ask anyone — they will show you where to look.

View Of Grant's Canal



Arlington, Where Grant Once Stayed

Mississippi To Lake Providence

Canal Military Project

By MILDRED S. RUSHING
Staff Correspondent

LAKE PROVIDENCE — 'Twas a long time ago that Gen. Ulysses S. Grant tried unsucessfully to by-pass Vicksburg by canal.

All that is left of this once tremendous project by a brilliant Federal general is a tiny inlet at Lake Providence. An historical marker was dedicated there Thursday.

Gen. Grant attempted to mask his military strategy and keep his men employed during the winter months of 1862-63 by digging the famed canal.

Grant had planned to divide the south in two sections, one east and one west of the Mississippi River, thereby destroying her supply sources.

But he failed in two attempts to drive the wedge that would cut the south in half and was forced to find other means.

He turned his attention next to bypassing Vicksburg, which seemed to be an impregnable fortress.

Grant's first attempt at a canal was at Grand Lake; a second at Ashton, both proving unsatisfactory.

TOO MARSHY

The Louisiana terrain opposite Vicksburg was much too marshy at this season of the year to transport troops, so Grant decided to dig a canal and take his troops and supplies down a system of bayous to Ouachita and Red River and into the Mississippi below Vicksburg.

This was a vast undertaking. The actual operation was not too difficult; but opening up a passage large enough and deep enough to accommodate supply ships from Baxter Bayou to the Macon was a difficult task.

General Grant describes this problem in his memoirs:

"Bayou Baxter, as it reaches lower land, begins to spread out and disappear entirely in a cypress swamp before it reaches Bayou Macon. There was about two feet of water in the swamp at this time.

To get through it, even with the vessels with the lightest draft, it was necessary to clear off a belt of heavy timber wide enough to make a passage-way. As the trees would have to be cut close to the bottom, under water, it was an undertaking of great magnitude."

IN CHARGE

Records in Vicksburg National Park show that Maj. Gen. James B. McPherson was in charge of operations and constantly in contact with Gen. Grant on his plans.

Col. Josiah W. Bissell, Regiment of the West, was in charge of the actual digging of the canal and Col. George W. Dietzler, First Kansas Infantry, was in charge of the labor for digging.

It has been said that McPherson made Arlington, local plantation home, his headquarters and Gen. Grant stayed there when he visited Lake Providence to inspect the progress of his renown canal.

Actual work was begun on January 30, 1863, and it was on March 10, 1863 that Gen. McPherson wrote Gen. Grant that he and Col. Bissell had made a tour of inspection and the colonel reported he could get into Bayou Macon through Baxter. . .that examination of Bayou Baxter showed clearing would be greater than he had been led to believe.

OTHER PROBLEMS

The terrain was not the only problem confronting the Federals. There seemed to be a labor problem, too, for in a letter headed Lake Providence, Feb. 3, 1863, Col. George W. Dietzler wrote to Lt. Col. James A. Rawlins that he was able to secure only 100 able bodied Negroe.

Planters had taken most of their Negroes and cotton into Bayou Macon swamp, about 15 miles from Lake Providence.

McPherson's men were camped along the lake close to their work and the toughest sergeant in the camp was put in charge of digging the lake-to-river canal, and within a short time Union vessels were riding at anchor in the lake. One, a 30-ton steamer, was used by Gens. Grant and McPherson to inspect operations.

Then, an epidemic of colds and fever hit the camp, and the tough sergeant fell ill and died within three days.

When the time came for preparing the body for burial, it was discovered that the sergeant was a woman. She had enlisted in a little cow town in Kansas, and her true identity has never been established.

The canal was 100 feet wide and five feet deep from the Mississippi River to Lake Providence.

Gen. McPherson wrote Gen. Grant from Lake Providence, Mar. 18, 1863, "The levee was cut here yesterday afternoon and water is flowing at tremendous rate, filling lake and bayous. We will soon be able to take a good size boat in."

WORK ABANDONED

Work was abandoned on the canal as impractical during the second week in April, 1863. By this time, the ground opposite Vicksburg on the Louisiana side of the river was dry enough to transport troops.

The distance from the river to the lake at that time was about a mile, with the main current of the river this side of Stack Island.

Several years ago the U. S. government appropriated funds with which to have the canal, directly behind stores in the heart of the downtown district, filled in, because it was considered a health menace.

After nearly a century, all that is left of Grant's canal is the stretch from the Holland Delta Road to the lake.

Talons Open, X15 Falls Away

EDITOR'S NOTE—In 2½ years of experiments, the X15 has won its place in the history of aviation—carrying pilots ever faster and higher as man gingerly tests the fringes of space. How does it feel flying a rocket ship? Fasten your seat belt and read on.

By RALPH DIGHTON

OVER WENDOVER AFB, Utah (AP)—You're alone in the cockpit of the rocket ship X15, eight miles high and 400 miles from home.

In the next few minutes you will drop away from your B52 mother ship, shoot straight up at 4,000 m.p.h. to a height of 50 miles, then try to get back to earth alive.

Man has gone faster and higher—into space and back in a rocket's space capsule—but he was like a worm in a bean shot into the air, with no control over his flight.

OBJECTIVE

Your job is to prove man can leave and re-enter the atmosphere with the precise control needed for spaceships of the future. The X15 so far has hit top speeds of 3,000 m.p.h. and climbed to just over 32 miles high.

As you near the launch point, monitoring systems on the ground and in the big eight-jet B52 are running electronic fingers over every working part of your plane.

Fuel pressure — OK. Hydraulic controls — OK. Auxiliary power — OK. Everything works.

You check and re-check each of the 30 dials and 15 lights massed on the control panel inches from your nose in the cramped cockpit.

Over the earphones in your helmet comes the alert:

"Fifteen seconds to launch."

Time for a last look—and a quick prayer if you feel like it.

"Five. Four. Three. Two. One — Launch!"

Clunk! Iron talons open and your X15 falls away with sickening swiftness.

In seconds you're 4,000 feet below the mother ship.

You flip a switch and—blam! A sledgehammer hits you in the back.

COMFORTING

It's a comforting feeling.

The 57,000-pound-thrust rocket engine, most powerful yet made for manned flight, has ignited. You're on your way.

Your left hand shoves the throttle forward to full thrust.

Your right hand pulls back on the stick between your legs.

The old girl practically stands on her tail, straining to escape into the dark sky above.

The altimeter, which registered 41,000 feet when you hit the ignition switch, shows 80,000, then 100,000, then 125,000 feet.

Your speed jumps from 600 m.p.h. to 1,000 — 2,000 — 3,000 m.p.h.

Now you are at the fringe of the atmosphere—and at the edge of man's experience. Whatever you do from here on will blaze a trail for tomorrow's spaceman.

Little more than a minute has elapsed, but it seems like hours.

All at once the roaring pressure at your back eases off.

Nothing's wrong. The engine has run out of fuel—at the precise second it was supposed to do so.

It has burned 83 seconds and carried you to a height of 153,000 feet.

The speed now is 6,340 feet—considerably more than a mile—per second, or more than 4,300 m.p.h.

You've scattered records like ten pins, but you're not through yet.

Momentum carries you higher and higher, 40 miles, then 50 miles above the earth.

Up here, the control stick you're straddling is useless. The air is too thin for wing and tail surfaces to push against.

HEAVY PRESSURE

Slowly—your speed has pushed you back in the seat with a pressure five times that of gravity, so that every move is like trying to swim through molasses—slowly you grasp a hand grip at your left.

Moving the grip in any of three directions will make small jets of hydrogen peroxide steam spurt from holes in the wings and nose of your plane. A jet of steam rising upward from the left wing will force that wing down, making you bank to the left. A spurt downward from a jet under the nose will force the nose up, making you climb.

You don't use these controls yet. You're in a ballistic trajectory, like a rock thrown high in the air, and you're safe until you start down.

Through the narrow V-shaped windshield you can see hundreds of miles—the mountains and deserts of California, Arizona, Nevada, and the broad sweep of the Pacific Ocean.

Around you the blue sky shades in ever deepening bands into the blackness of space. For the first time in your life, you are really alone.

Then a voice crackles in your ear.

"This is Nasa One," says the radio in your helmet. "You're looking good from here."

Nasa One is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's ground control center back at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Director Paul Bikle can't really see you—he is watching on the radar screen.

"Put her nose down," he says, "and come on home."

This is where the steam jets take over. A "whoosh" from a hole in the top of the X15's rounded nose starts you downward.

Ahead and below is a patch of yellow—the great Mojave Desert. You've got to hit a pinpoint on it 400 miles away.

You've used up all your fuel, so there'll be no second chance if you miss the landing strip at Edwards.

But that isn't your main worry right now.

The immediate problem is to slip back down into the heavy atmosphere as slowly and gently as you can, in a plane that glides like a brick.

Hit the atmosphere too fast, in too steep a dive, and air friction will turn you to toast.

Come in too flat and you'll overshoot the base.

Anti-Religious Campaign

Russian propagandists, in their zeal for atheism, never pay much attention to the immediate truths nor to the truths which are vastly older than mankind. They attempt to turn every event into a campaign for their own alleged disbeliefs.

Soviet newspapers, reportedly spurred by the impact of the first manned space flight (which, incidentally may have been largely a hoax), have started a vigorous new anti - religious propaganda campaign.

The Soviet newspaper, Izvestia, said editorially: "People are lightheartedly parting from their Gods." This editorial was one of many boasting of the alleged increased interest in atheism in the U.S.S.R. The newspaper says it has received many letters from Soviet citizens who gave up their faith when the space flight was announced. Most of the letters purportedly came from older people. One of the correspondents reportedly said: "All my life I believed in God, in miracles, but now I believe only in man's miracles," Another said, "Yuri Gagarin shattered my belief in supernatural power."

Spearheading the anti-religious drive is the humor magazine, Krokodil, which featured a series of cartoons showing Cosmonaut Gagarin taking over the universe from God. The latest depicts a Russian space ship flying through the heavens while figures resembling the wise men cry, "Look! A star from the east!"

Any suggestion that space flight will decrease man's faith in God and the supernatural is, of course, ridiculous. "A little learning" may make more of a bigot out of a man than he is in the beginning. Even that is doubtful. We know that the more a man learns the more he realizes how little he does know and how infinite are the things he might know if he had enough intelligences. He realizes all the more that there is some power so much greater than his that his own power is infinitesimal.

If Gagarin really made the flight into space of which there seems to be some doubt, it would be interesting to know just what he really thinks of the suggestion that he replace God or that he take over the universe. He was not even projected into space by his own power nor brought back by his own power. When he was out in space—away from the world — there can be no doubt that he realized, probably more than ever before, the vastness of the universe and the tiny power of all mankind combined, not to mention his own lack of power to do anything about the universe, much less to take it over and direct it.

Albert Einstein, who may have contemplated the solar system and the universe more deeply than any many who ever lived, was not deceived into thinking that there is no power greater than man's. He claimed to be an infidel, or atheist, but he had great respect for the power which could synchronize the universe to such exact precisions that scientists are able to tell many thousands of years ahead just what a given planet or body will do at a certain time.

Some years ago a movie bore the title, "The Shrinking Man." It pictured a man whose physical body daily became smaller until he disappeared completely, although his voice proclaimed that he still existed.

The more man discovers about the universe, the smaller he is likely to become in his own estimation. The more he will be convinced that he is able to use only the natural powers that have been provided for him and that some power greater than his is, or ever can be, must always direct the universe.

Russian propagandists who pretend to see some miraculous power in Gagarin do not themselves believe that, any more than the Negro preacher who calls himself Father Divine and asserts he is God believes what he says. Only an insane person could believe either of these things.

If Russians say they no longer believe God it is not because of Russian accomplishments. They either say it because they want to follow the party line or because they have lost faith, not because they believe any Russian possesses divine powers.

Fuels Control

President Kennedy's administration has concocted so many diabolical schemes for taking away the freedoms of this country, both from business and the individuals, that it is difficult to decide which of them is worst. Surely, the plan for national control of fuels is among the worst.

Senator Allen J. Ellender, D., La. who has turned conservative in most of his thinking, as he has seen the so-called "liberals" in the Democratic and Republican parties try to usurp states' rights and individuals rights, is among the strong opponents of a national fuels policy.

The whole scheme is against the public interest. What the proponents of this measure are actually seeking is the creation of another super-agency which would dominate and control the fuel consumers of the nation and force them to use a certain product, whether they liked it or not.

Obviously, the intent of a national fuels policy is to utilize the power of the federal government to force industry to reconvert to coal after favoring the natural advantages of oil and gas.

Because he is a New Englander, President Kennedy would like to see the forced use of coal to aid the states in which it is produced. This might be to the selfish advantage of a small segment of our economy but it certainly overlooks the economic well being of the whole country.

If there had been a national fuels policy at the turn of the century, the growth of the oil and natural gas industries, including those in Louisiana, might never have occurred. The government would have been telling the people of all parts of the country what kind of fuel to burn. The result could well have been that we would have burned only coal, that the coal supply might be near exhaustion and that people would be paying several times what they now pay for fuel.

The proposed national fuels program is nothing but a stagnation scheme. It would be just as sensible to empower the government to say that every one in this country except the 10 per cent who are wealthiest would have to go back to using horses and buggies, instead of automobiles. The "new frontier" is heading backward.

Certainly, today, if we had not been looking beyond coal and if industry had not been allowed the freedom to use its own initiative, we would not be looking beyond our present fuels to nuclear energy and solar heat. Vast areas of national wealth might never have been realized if coal had become king by decree of some federal bureaucrat.

There not only is no necessity for a national fuels policy but it would be an outrage perpetrated upon business, industry and the people of our country.

Help United States

Attorney General
Robert Kennedy,
Washington 25, D. C.
Dear Mr. Kennedy:

We have now reached rock bottom. Where is the American Spirit represented by the statement, "Millions for Defense, but not one penny for tribute"? Now we say, instead, "Please Mr. Castro, don't hurt our prisoners!" "You name your price and we will gladly meet any demand you so desire." Truly this must be a sick nation, and truly the leadership in Washington is leading this country and it's people down into the hands of the Communist Conspiracy.

Now the President is to go to Austria to talk to a butcher who has never lived up to anything he has ever said except his avowed intention of seeing our children live under communism. We never learn, do we?

It is getting harder and harder day by day for us to hold our heads high and proudly say, "We are Americans."

Some say, "We must be careful not to offend the Russians, because we might have to fight a war with them." I say, which is worse, fighting for what you believe in and taking a chance on winning, or sitting back and waiting for certain defeat? When is America going to once again take its place of leadership in the world by showing the world that we are strong and courageous and uncompromising when freedom is at stake?

When are the leaders of our government going to realize that it is more important what Americans think of our country, than what the nations of the world think? We will be the men and women who, when the showdown comes, will be called upon to arise to the occasion and defend this country.

When are we going to realize that America was made strong because Americans had to work for what they got and were proud of it? Is there any real difference in socialism and communism? Yet, our present administration as well as past ones and our present congress as well as past ones continue to call for more social security, more aid to education, more government owned utilities, more government this and that — just plain more government. When is Washington going to realize that for men to be free they must be let alone to work and think and provide for themselves, without government aid and control. Or is it too late?

There is a growing suspicion that the rampaging red sea of communism has already flooded our government, and there are everyday, more and more acts from Washington that lend support to this suspicion. There are acts everyday which make us feel that we are coming closer and closer to a totalitarian government.

Yes, today, we have a picture of a government afraid to take a stand in Cuba or in Laos, a government aiding and encouraging rabble rousers and agitators to break the laws of our states; a government using pressure of all kinds on loyal Americans who speak out against totalitarian rules of an all powerful Federal Government.

God help this United States of America and may God give me the strength until my dying day to resist the things that this government is trying to do to this great nation of ours.

People Need Arousing

Dallas, Texas.

To the Editor

If the American people can be aroused, Freedom can yet be saved. If people become informed, they will be aroused.

Business, in advertising its products, which it must, can "add Patriotism" to its advertising. It can couple the description of the desirability of the product with the necessity of maintaining freedom in our way of life.

Business can profitably include Patriotic themes in its sales campaigns and can place its advertising with a means of communication or entertainment presentation which promotes the personal enterprise and profit motive system or one that at least gives the Freedom side a 50-50 break.

Reinforced with the stability of business, the exuberance of youth, the fresh spirit of Hobby Patriots and the ingenuity of everyone, the true and tried Patriots can, in a few weeks, push Communism out from behind the "cane curtain."

Inside City Limits

West Monroe, La.

Honorable Jeff W. Caldwell,
The Chief of Police
The City of West Monroe
West Monroe, Louisiana.
Dear Mr. Caldwell,

By reason of the 'location' of my home (Ridge Avenue, in the Splane Place Addition) I have participated in but one 'City Election' in West Monroe since 1940 . . . more than 20 years ago . . . and frankly, I don't even recall for whom I may have voted on this recent past election . . . or any of the 'issues' presented at the time! This has been a 'happy situation' insofar as I am concerned . . . for living outside, but adjacent to the City, I have been able to enjoy, without 'responsibility,' many of the 'municipal benefits' . . . (including 'police protection') . . . but, now that I am 'inside' the limits of the City of West Monroe, it is but natural that the 'responsibility' shifts, and I find that I not only enjoy the benefits, the hopes, protections, and aspirations of 'citizenship', but that this enjoyment requires that I 'share' some of the responsibility for its provision!

There is an 'issue' which may be raised in some coming 'city campaign' . . . and long having admired your astute political demeanor, and the fine service you have rendered our City over the years . . . and for the reason that the 'issue' to which I refer may 'collaterally' involve your fine department, I now write to inquire as to your reaction to the suggestion I am about to make.

First, I would mention that when we use the word 'Recreation', we do not imply that this is a field which should be directed to serving the needs of the 'adult citizen' . . . but principaplly it should serve the needs of our 'youngsters' . . . we 'old folks' having had our 'recreation' Oh, a 'park' and its related facilities are 'pleasant' and 'enjoyable', but these are not as vitally needed as are the avenues by which the youthful energies of our children may be channeled and guided, and developed, along the lines of 'good sportsmanship', 'cooperation', 'team-work', along with healthy physical exercise — channels which will provide us better, healthier, 'adult' citizens.

There is little question . . . and I believe you will agree . . . that the 'Recreation Program' of the City of West Monroe is 'virtually non - existant' . . . is sadly lacking in comparison with that of our 'sister-city' (Monroe), or with other cities in Louisiana of comparable size and resources . . . and that 'recreation' programs are being developed throughout the nation to the extent that this activity is one of the 'essential services' a municipality may properly render its citizens!

Of course, one of the finest preparatory steps taken in this field (or which any municipality could likewise take) was demonstrated in the building of our 'Rebel Baseball Diamond' in South West Monroe, and while we do not know 'how' the City of West Monroe may have 'built and financed it' . . . nor the total cost of its construction . . . nor the cost of its 'administration' — which we know must be at a minimum — we do wish to acknowledge that this 'field' is one of the 'best beginnings' any program could anticipate . . .and the men so responsible are highly to be commended . . . for they deserve the grateful thanks of the entire community!

I believe, therefore, that you will agree that West Monroe must make some concerted effort, not only to 'catch-up,' but to keep abreast in this important field, and further that as a municipality we possess the 'raw material' . . . the manpower, sites, resources, the need, and yes, the potential 'revenues', by which this may be accomplished.

The question facing this community lies in the one word — 'HOW'! -

Efforts have been made in the past . . . and we are not critical of them . . . nor do we now attempt to 'praise' them . . . but they were 'efforts' . . . and they represented an 'acknowledgement' of the existance of the need! I frankly believe we must 'revive' those efforts, and truthfully, this inspires this "memoranda" to you!

I would suggest that a 'revival' of our 'recreation program' would properly involve revenues now being principally derived from our 'parking meters' . . . in fact, it occurs to me that this may have been largely the 'original intent' when meters were provided for use of 'downtown parking'! While my attitude toward the 'beloved parking meters' is well known . . . and of course subject to 'debate' . . . I trust that some consideration can be given to the suggestions I now make. It is my belief that 'parking meters' as presently utilized are 'illegal' . . . in connection with 'traffic ordinances' . . . but that they could be "legalized' for use in the collection of an 'automobile tax' . . . and thus, I believe our City ordinance should be re-written and re-enacted along the following suggested lines . . . and I am sending a copy of this letter to the Mayor, together with a sufficient number of copies for the City Council, so that their reactions may likewise be secured.

However, I believe the following suggestions, changes, and observations are in order:

1. That funds from 'parking meters . . . (as a 'tax' rather than as 'traffic fines') over and above administrative costs, repair, replacement, depreciation and the like, should be dedicated to (1) Recreation, and (2) Police Welfare and Emergency Benefit . . . in the proportion of seventy - five (75 per cent) Recreation, and twenty - five (25 per cent) Police Welfare and Emergency Benefit.

2. That a 'specific dedication' should be provided, along with improvements in the 'method' of collecting these taxes . . . so that the 'taxpayer' will be properly aware of the fact that the chief purpose of the 'tax' is to provide 'recreation'!

3. That a three - man committee . . . one for 'Recreation', one for 'Police', and one for 'General Public' should be created, and charged with the supervision and general administration of the fund.

4. That a comprehensive recreation study and analysis be made on a 'professional basis', that 'specific needs' be established . . . that the 'general public' be properly informed . . . that the 'cost of administration' be determined, or estimated as accurately as possible . . . that the investment in needed 'plant and equipment' be verified, but as both to 'immediate needs' and as to 'long-range' plans; and that the estimated revenues over and above the 'costs of administration' and 'immediate needs' provide the basis of 'revenue bonds' to be issued for provision of these facilities . . . and that the City of West Monroe thereby acknowledge that it plans to become aggressive, progressive, and 'modern' in the matter of meeting the 'needs' in this field — and on a basis which will, in effect, cost the taxpayer little or no additional taxes!

It occurs to me that such a program, properly administered, is vitally needed in our City . . . and frankly, Jeff, having made the suggestion — which in effect will remove your department from the 'worry' and 'unfavorable' aspect of having to 'enforce' 'illegal ordinances', I predict that your department will be happy in the knowledge that it is 'contributing' to the welfare of your youngsters in this direct manner . . . as well as, perhaps, meeting a need which may well exist in the affairs of your own fine department . . . Emergency Welfare.

Having made this suggestion, however, I now 'retire' . . . and will have nothing whatever to do with participating in the forthcoming 'city election' . . . in the nope that 'all factions' . . . both in and out . . . will 'adopt' the 'essence' of the suggestions I now make to you . . . and working together, will bring West Monroe to the forefront in this important and vital field of 'municipal service'.

With every personal good wish, I am

ROBERT C. ERVIN.

Kennedy's Stand

President Will Not Carry Out Ailing Program Of Hopkins

Those who expect the President to act like a conservative Republican are asking too much from a Democrat with Fabian Socialistic leanings. On the other hand, the Democrats who believe that President Kennedy will carry forward the ailing program of Harry Hopkins are also mistaken, for as idealistic as John Kennedy may seem to be, he comes of hard-headed practical stock.

Those who assumed that the President would be a figurehead under the captainship of his father, Joe Kennedy, misunderstand any father-son relationship. No matter how wise a father may be, a son naturally is a product of his own generation and will sooner or later go his own way. The Kennedy family is extraordinarily talented and close-knit and while it is interesting to note the loyalty of one member for another, it is not to be expected that they will all have the same viewpoint. Age, experience, temperament will affect them as everybody else in this very complex world.

John Kennedy is likely to be an altogether different man in 1964 from what he was in 1960. Four years in the White House at a climactic period will not only influence his attitude but he is still young enough to grow intellectually as well as emotionally. He is not likely to become so set in his ways that he cannot adjust to the facts which confront him.

Vienna is a case in point. He went to Vienna without a program on an exploratory visit with Khrushchev. He was undoubtedly advised that this was a smart thing to do by the negative-minded eggheads who may be specialists in particular fields but who lack imagination and far-sightedness. Vienna was a failure for John Kennedy in that Khrushchev used it to belittle him, but it was a success from the standpoint that Kennedy has learned that he cannot deal with Khrushchev by any standards with which he is familiar.

Khrushchev is a liar, not diplomatically as Talleyrand might have been, but overt and direct. Khrushchev is brutal and no conversation between him and anyone can be confidential because he regards the refinements of international relations as burgeois absurdities like a white tie or patent leather shoes. Kennedy had to learn this for himself, apparently. He could have known it from Nixon's experience, from Eisenhower's experience, from Hammarskjold's experience. But he wanted to see whether he could not succeed where others failed. Now he knows.

This was a costly search for knowledge, but it is worth the price if the President has learned who misled him concerning Cuba, Laos, and Vienna. Or if he was not misled, if he pursued his own course, he now knows from experience that he could not deal with Khrushchev; that communication with a Communist requires not only a different language but that the moral responsibilities of men are on a different basis in West and East.

To have learned that early in his career will prove to be a great advantage to Kennedy. It will make him more suspicious and more cautious and he will observe who in his entourage seeks to lead him into a position which will destroy him politically and bring shame upon his country. It is likely that those who are responsible for the Vienna fiasco will not last long in this Administration, although it is often difficult to fire men from important positions without losing face or developing a political scandal.

The President's dilemma now is how far can he move away from those who joined his campaign without political offense; how far will practical experience drive him from the ideological positions which he had accepted as correct during the years when he was a Senator. He will have to reach a decision soon or his Administration will suffer from indecision and if he decides on a firm policy, he will have to let those men go who cannot be trusted to carry forward a policy from strength. John Kennedy unfortunately does not have too long to reach a decision. As General MacArthur said to him: "The chickens have come home to roost" and he is in charge of the chicken house. Abraham Lincoln and Herbert Hoover were on the same spot almost as soon as they were elected to the Presidency. They were elected at a climactic moment. So was John Kennedy.

FLOWERY WORDS — It's that time of year when Congress gets worked up over which flower should be named the national flower. One can imagine how little agreement there is on such a matter. Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota is campaigning for the corn tassel. Reps. Lindley Beckworth of Texas and James Davis of Georgia want the rose. Rep. Willard Curtin of Pennsylvania is pushing the marigold. This has been going on for some time and it is likely Congress will adjourn without resolving the issue.

BLANK GESTURES — One of the most successful money - raising drives in history has just been completed. Rep. Joe L. Evins of Tennessee conceived the idea of raising $25,000 to settle up an old tax debt for Sgt. Alvin York, America's great World War I hero. The government claimed he owed a lot more than that but finally compromised on $25,000 and that's where Evins stepped in. Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas happily agreed to serve as chairman of the fund - raising committee. Actor Gary Cooper, who played the York role in the movies, served as a sponsor. Instead of $25,000, more than $50,000 rolled in. After the tax debt is satisfied the remainder is being placed in a trust fund for the ailing old soldier. Evins said there was only one sour note (or more correctly four sour notes) to the campaign — four checks bounced.

MARVEL OF FERTILIZERS — Mississippi's Rep. Jamie Whitten, in pointing out how farm chemicals have contributed to the high quality food enjoyed in the U.S. today, compares the situation here with that of the Far East and the Middle East, where the chemicals are not used to the same extent. He quotes Dr. John H. Lilly of the University of Massachusetts who said that it is easy for those who know those sections to believe that, although the Bible doesn't say so, the forbidden apple that tempted Eve in the Garden of Eden was wormy.

ANTI-TRUST PROCEEDINGS— Look for other grand jury criminal indictments such as that obtained against General Motors, in which it was charged with seeking to monopolize diesel locomotive manufacture. Justice Department policy will be to push more criminal prosecution, with stiff jail sentences to be sought for business men who are convicted. Also civil suits will follow if criminal conviction is obtained.

Anti-Religious Campaign

Russian propagandists, in their zeal for atheism, never pay much attention to the immediate truths nor to the truths which are vastly older than mankind. They attempt to turn every event into a campaign for their own alleged disbeliefs.

Soviet newspapers, reportedly spurred by the impact of the first manned space flight (which, incidentally may have been largely a hoax), have started a vigorous new anti - religious propaganda campaign.

The Soviet newspaper, Izvestia, said editorially: "People are lightheartedly parting from their Gods." This editorial was one of many boasting of the alleged increased interest in atheism in the U.S.S.R. The newspaper says it has received many letters from Soviet citizens who gave up their faith when the space flight was announced. Most of the letters purportedly came from older people. One of the correspondents reportedly said: "All my life I believed in God, in miracles, but now I believe only in man's miracles," Another said, "Yuri Gagarin shattered my belief in supernatural power."

Spearheading the anti-religious drive is the humor magazine, Krokodil, which featured a series of cartoons showing Cosmonaut Gagarin taking over the universe from God. The latest depicts a Russian space ship flying through the heavens while figures resembling the wise men cry, "Look! A star from the east!"

Any suggestion that space flight will decrease man's faith in God and the supernatural is, of course, ridiculous. "A little learning" may make more of a bigot out of a man than he is in the beginning. Even that is doubtful. We know that the more a man learns the more he realizes how little he does know and how infinite are the things he might know if he had enough intelligences. He realizes all the more that there is some power so much greater than his that his own power is infinitesimal.

If Gagarin really made the flight into space of which there seems to be some doubt, it would be interesting to know just what he really thinks of the suggestion that he replace God or that he take over the universe. He was not even projected into space by his own power nor brought back by his own power. When he was out in space—away from the world — there can be no doubt that he realized, probably more than ever before, the vastness of the universe and the tiny power of all mankind combined, not to mention his own lack of power to do anything about the universe, much less to take it over and direct it.

Albert Einstein, who may have contemplated the solar system and the universe more deeply than any many who ever lived, was not deceived into thinking that there is no power greater than man's. He claimed to be an infidel, or atheist, but he had great respect for the power which could synchronize the universe to such exact precisions that scientists are able to tell many thousands of years ahead just what a given planet or body will do at a certain time.

Some years ago a movie bore the title, "The Shrinking Man." It pictured a man whose physical body daily became smaller until he disappeared completely, although his voice proclaimed that he still existed.

The more man discovers about the universe, the smaller he is likely to become in his own estimation. The more he will be convinced that he is able to use only the natural powers that have been provided for him and that some power greater than his is, or ever can be, must always direct the universe.

Russian propagandists who pretend to see some miraculous power in Gagarin do not themselves believe that, any more than the Negro preacher who calls himself Father Divine and asserts he is God believes what he says. Only an insane person could believe either of these things.

If Russians say they no longer believe God it is not because of Russian accomplishments. They either say it because they want to follow the party line or because they have lost faith, not because they believe any Russian possesses divine powers.

Fuels Control

President Kennedy's administration has concocted so many diabolical schemes for taking away the freedoms of this country, both from business and the individuals, that it is difficult to decide which of them is worst. Surely, the plan for national control of fuels is among the worst.

Senator Allen J. Ellender, D., La. who has turned conservative in most of his thinking, as he has seen the so-called "liberals" in the Democratic and Republican parties try to usurp states' rights and individuals rights, is among the strong opponents of a national fuels policy.

The whole scheme is against the public interest. What the proponents of this measure are actually seeking is the creation of another super-agency which would dominate and control the fuel consumers of the nation and force them to use a certain product, whether they liked it or not.

Obviously, the intent of a national fuels policy is to utilize the power of the federal government to force industry to reconvert to coal after favoring the natural advantages of oil and gas.

Because he is a New Englander, President Kennedy would like to see the forced use of coal to aid the states in which it is produced. This might be to the selfish advantage of a small segment of our economy but it certainly overlooks the economic well being of the whole country.

If there had been a national fuels policy at the turn of the century, the growth of the oil and natural gas industries, including those in Louisiana, might never have occurred. The government would have been telling the people of all parts of the country what kind of fuel to burn. The result could well have been that we would have burned only coal, that the coal supply might be near exhaustion and that people would be paying several times what they now pay for fuel.

The proposed national fuels program is nothing but a stagnation scheme. It would be just as sensible to empower the government to say that every one in this country except the 10 per cent who are wealthiest would have to go back to using horses and buggies, instead of automobiles. The "new frontier" is heading backward.

Certainly, today, if we had not been looking beyond coal and if industry had not been allowed the freedom to use its own initiative, we would not be looking beyond our present fuels to nuclear energy and solar heat. Vast areas of national wealth might never have been realized if coal had become king by decree of some federal bureaucrat.

There not only is no necessity for a national fuels policy but it would be an outrage perpetrated upon business, industry and the people of our country.

Help United States

Attorney General
Robert Kennedy,
Washington 25, D. C.
Dear Mr. Kennedy:

We have now reached rock bottom. Where is the American Spirit represented by the statement, "Millions for Defense, but not one penny for tribute"? Now we say, instead, "Please Mr. Castro, don't hurt our prisoners!" "You name your price and we will gladly meet any demand you so desire." Truly this must be a sick nation, and truly the leadership in Washington is leading this country and it's people down into the hands of the Communist Conspiracy.

Now the President is to go to Austria to talk to a butcher who has never lived up to anything he has ever said except his avowed intention of seeing our children live under communism. We never learn, do we?

It is getting harder and harder day by day for us to hold our heads high and proudly say, "We are Americans."

Some say, "We must be careful not to offend the Russians, because we might have to fight a war with them." I say, which is worse, fighting for what you believe in and taking a chance on winning, or sitting back and waiting for certain defeat? When is America going to once again take its place of leadership in the world by showing the world that we are strong and courageous and uncompromising when freedom is at stake?

When are the leaders of our government going to realize that it is more important what Americans think of our country, than what the nations of the world think? We will be the men and women who, when the showdown comes, will be called upon to arise to the occasion and defend this country.

When are we going to realize that America was made strong because Americans had to work for what they got and were proud of it? Is there any real difference in socialism and communism? Yet, our present administration as well as past ones and our present congress as well as past ones continue to call for more social security, more aid to education, more government owned utilities, more government this and that — just plain more government. When is Washington going to realize that for men to be free they must be let alone to work and think and provide for themselves, without government aid and control. Or is it too late?

There is a growing suspicion that the rampaging red sea of communism has already flooded our government, and there are everyday, more and more acts from Washington that lend support to this suspicion. There are acts everyday which make us feel that we are coming closer and closer to a totalitarian government.

Yes, today, we have a picture of a government afraid to take a stand in Cuba or in Laos, a government aiding and encouraging rabble rousers and agitators to break the laws of our states, a government using pressure of all kinds on loyal Americans who speak out against totalitarian rules of an all powerful Federal Government.

God help this United States of America and may God give me the strength until my dying day to resist the things that this government is trying to do to this great nation of ours.

People Need Arousing

Dallas, Texas.

To the Editor

If the American people can be aroused, Freedom can yet be saved. If people become informed, they will be aroused.

Business, in advertising its products, which it must, can "add Patriotism" to its advertising. It can couple the description of the desirability of the product with the necessity of maintaining freedom in our way of life.

Business can profitably include Patriotic themes in its sales campaigns and can place its advertising with a means of communication or entertainment presentation which promotes the personal enterprise and profit motive system or one that at least gives the Freedom side a 50-50 break.

Reinforced with the stability of business, the exuberance of youth, the fresh spirit of Hobby Patriots and the ingenuity of everyone, the true and tried Patriots can, in a few weeks, push Communism out from behind the "cane curtain."

Inside City Limits

West Monroe, La.

Honorable Jeff W. Caldwell,
The Chief of Police
The City of West Monroe
West Monroe, Louisiana.
Dear Mr. Caldwell,

By reason of the 'location' of my home (Ridge Avenue, in the Splane Place Addition) I have participated in but one 'City Election' in West Monroe since 1940 . . . more than 20 years ago . . . and frankly, I don't even recall for whom I may have voted on this recent past election . . . or any of the 'issues' presented at the time! This has been a 'happy situation' insofar as I am concerned . . . for living outside, but adjacent to the City, I have been able to enjoy, without 'responsibility,' many of the 'municipal benefits' . . . (including 'police protection') . . . but, now that I am 'inside' the limits of the City of West Monroe, it is but natural that the 'responsibility' shifts, and I find that I not only enjoy the benefits, the hopes, protections, and aspirations of 'citizenship', but that this enjoyment requires that I 'share' some of the responsibility for its provision!

There is an 'issue' which may be raised in some coming 'city campaign' . . . and long having admired your astute political demeanor, and the fine service you have rendered our City over the years . . . and for the reason that the 'issue' to which I refer may 'collaterally' involve your fine department, I now write to inquire as to your reaction to the suggestion I am about to make.

First, I would mention that when we use the word 'Recreation', we do not imply that this is a field which should be directed to serving the needs of the 'adult citizen' . . . but principaplly it should serve the needs of our 'youngsters' . . . we 'old folks' having had our 'recreation' Oh, a 'park' and its related facilities are 'pleasant' and 'enjoyable', but these are not as vitally needed as are the avenues by which the youthful energies of our children may be channeled and guided, and developed, along the lines of 'good sportsmanship', 'cooperation', 'team-work', along with healthy physical exercise — channels which will provide us better, healthier, 'adult' citizens.

There is little question . . . and I believe you will agree . . . that the 'Recreation Program' of the City of West Monroe is 'virtually non - existant' . . . is sadly lacking in comparison with that of our 'sister-city' (Monroe), or with other cities in Louisiana of comparable size and resources . . . and that 'recreation' programs are being developed throughout the nation to the extent that this activity is one of the 'essential services' a municipality may properly render its citizens!

Of course, one of the finest preparatory steps taken in this field (or which any municipality could likewise take) was demonstrated in the building of our 'Rebel Baseball Diamond' in South West Monroe, and while we do not know 'how' the City of West Monroe may have 'built and financed it' . . . nor the total cost of its construction . . . nor the cost of its 'administration' — which we know must be at a minimum — we do wish to acknowledge that this 'field' is one of the 'best beginnings' any program could anticipate . . .and the men so responsible are highly to be commended . . . for they deserve the grateful thanks of the entire community!

I believe, therefore, that you will agree that West Monroe must make some concerted effort, not only to 'catch-up,' but to keep abreast in this important field, and further that as a municipality we possess the 'raw material' . . . the manpower, sites, resources, the need, and yes, the potential 'revenues', by which this may be accomplished.

The question facing this community lies in the one word — 'HOW'! -

Efforts have been made in the past . . . and we are not critical of them . . . nor do we now attempt to 'praise' them . . . but they were 'efforts' . . . and they represented an 'acknowledgement' of the existance of the need! I frankly believe we must 'revive' those efforts, and truthfully, this inspires this "memoranda" to you!

I would suggest that a 'revival' of our 'recreation program' would properly involve revenues now being principally derived from our 'parking meters' . . . in fact, it occurs to me that this may have been largely the 'original intent' when meters were provided for use of 'downtown parking'! While my attitude toward the 'beloved parking meters' is well known . . . and of course subject to 'debate' . . . I trust that some consideration can be given to the suggestions I now make. It is my belief that 'parking meters' as presently utilized are 'illegal' . . . in connection with 'traffic ordinances' . . . but that they could be "legalized' for use in the collection of an 'automobile tax' . . . and thus, I believe our City ordinance should be re-written and re-enacted along the following suggested lines . . . and I am sending a copy of this letter to the Mayor, together with a sufficient number of copies for the City Council, so that their reactions may likewise be secured.

However, I believe the following suggestions, changes, and observations are in order:

1. That funds from 'parking meters . . . (as a 'tax' rather than as 'traffic fines') over and above administrative costs, repair, replacement, depreciation and the like, should be dedicated to (1) Recreation, and (2) Police Welfare and Emergency Benefit . . . in the proportion of seventy - five (75 per cent) Recreation, and twenty - five (25 per cent) Police Welfare and Emergency Benefit.

2. That a 'specific dedication' should be provided, along with improvements in the 'method' of collecting these taxes . . . so that the 'taxpayer' will be properly aware of the fact that the chief purpose of the 'tax' is to provide 'recreation'!

3. That a three - man committee . . . one for 'Recreation', one for 'Police', and one for 'General Public' should be created, and charged with the supervision and general administration of the fund.

4. That a comprehensive recreation study and analysis be made on a 'professional basis', that 'specific needs' be established . . . that the 'general public' be properly informed . . . that the 'cost of administration' be determined, or estimated as accurately as possible . . . that the investment in needed 'plant and equipment' be verified, but as both to 'immediate needs' and as to 'long-range' plans; and that the estimated revenues over and above the 'costs of administration' and 'immediate needs' provide the basis of 'revenue bonds' to be issued for provision of these facilities . . . and that the City of West Monroe thereby acknowledge that it plans to become aggressive, progressive, and 'modern' in the matter of meeting the 'needs' in this field — and on a basis which will, in effect, cost the taxpayer little or no additional taxes!

It occurs to me that such a program, properly administered, is vitally needed in our City . . . and frankly, Jeff, having made the suggestion — which in effect will remove your department from the 'worry' and 'unfavorable' aspect of having to 'enforce' 'illegal ordinances', I predict that your department will be happy in the knowledge that it is 'contributing' to the welfare of your youngsters in this direct manner . . . as well as, perhaps, meeting a need which may well exist in the affairs of your own fine department . . . Emergency Welfare.

Having made this suggestion, however, I now 'retire' . . . and will have nothing whatever to do with participating in the forthcoming 'city election' . . . in the hope that 'all factions' . . . both in and out . . . will 'adopt' the 'essence' of the suggestions I now make to you . . . and working together, will bring West Monroe to the forefront in this important and vital field of 'municipal service'.

With every personal good wish, I am

ROBERT C. ERVIN.

Kennedy's Stand

President Will Not Carry Out Ailing Program Of Hopkins

Those who expect the President to act like a conservative Republican are asking too much from a Democrat with Fabian Socialistic leanings. On the other hand, the Democrats who believe that President Kennedy will carry forward the ailing program of Harry Hopkins are also mistaken, for as idealistic as John Kennedy may seem to be, he comes of hard-headed practical stock.

Those who assumed that the President would be a figurehead under the captainship of his father, Joe Kennedy, misunderstand any father-son relationship. No matter how wise a father may be, a son naturally is a product of his own generation and will sooner or later go his own way. The Kennedy family is extraordinarily talented and close-knit and while it is interesting to note the loyalty of one member for another, it is not to be expected that they will all have the same viewpoint. Age, experience, temperament will affect them as everybody else in this very complex world.

John Kennedy is likely to be an altogether different man in 1964 from what he was in 1960. Four years in the White House at a climactic period will not only influence his attitude but he is still young enough to grow intellectually as well as emotionally. He is not likely to become so set in his ways that he cannot adjust to the facts which confront him.

Vienna is a case in point. He went to Vienna without a program on an exploratory visit with Khrushchev. He was undoubtedly advised that this was a smart thing to do by the negative-minded eggheads who may be specialists in particular fields but who lack imagination and far-sightedness. Vienna was a failure for John Kennedy in that Khrushchev used it to belittle him, but it was a success from the standpoint that Kennedy has learned that he cannot deal with Khrushchev by any standards with which he is familiar.

Khrushchev is a liar, not diplomatically as Talleyrand might have been, but overt and direct. Khrushchev is brutal and no conversation between him and anyone can be confidential because he regards the refinements of international relations as burgeois absurdities like a white tie or patent leather shoes. Kennedy had to learn this for himself, apparently. He could have known it from Nixon's experience, from Eisenhower's experience, from Hammarskjold's experience. But he wanted to see whether he could not succeed where others failed. Now he knows.

This was a costly search for knowledge, but it is worth the price if the President has learned who misled him concerning Cuba, Laos, and Vienna. Or if he was not misled, if he pursued his own course, he now knows from experience that he could not deal with Khrushchev; that communication with a Communist requires not only a different language but that the moral responsibilities of men are on a different basis in West and East.

To have learned that early in his career will prove to be a great advantage to Kennedy. It will make him more suspicious and more cautious and he will observe who in his entourage seeks to lead him into a position which will destroy him politically and bring shame upon his country. It is likely that those who are responsible for the Vienna fiasco will not last long in this Administration, although it is often difficult to fire men from important positions without losing face or developing a political scandal.

The President's dilemma now is how far can he move away from those who joined his campaign without political offense; how far will practical experience drive him from the ideological positions which he had accepted as correct during the years when he was a Senator. He will have to reach a decision soon or his Administration will suffer from indecision and if he decides on a firm policy, he will have to let those men go who cannot be trusted to carry forward a policy from strength. John Kennedy unfortunately does not have too long to reach a decision. As General MacArthur said to him: "The chickens have come home to roost" and he is in charge of the chicken house. Abraham Lincoln and Herbert Hoover were on the same spot almost as soon as they were elected to the Presidency. They were elected at a climactic moment. So was John Kennedy.

Epidemic Of Chicken Pox

If you are an adult and you haven't had chicken pox — avoid it at all cost.

According to a national report the disease has reached epidemic proportions this year and there is no immunization against it.

A four-year study of chicken pox just completed at the University of Miami Medical School Research Department has confirmed the fact the disease is particularly dangerous for adults because of the complications. There have been a number of fatalities.

The report shows that afflicted grown-ups have great difficulty breathing because the pox break out in the lungs, forms scars and block the intake of air.

Supreme Court At It Again

Actually, no one should ever be surprised at what decision the Supreme Court returns in a case. But some of them are down right amazing. Another recent one should make Russia happy. It has just given approval in theory that Atheism is a full - fledged "religion." We doubt that many people outside of the Communist - dominated countries can buy this decision.

The ruling found that the federal constitution bars any religious test for the holding of public office in either a state or the national government. The ruling was on an appeal by a man in Maryland who wanted to be a notary public and was disqualified by that state because it requires of all of its state office holders that they at least acknowledge a belief in God.

There are many restrictions a state may place on an office holder. Why can't a belief in God be one of them. If an office-holder doesn't believe in God, he may or may not he a person who believes in honesty or morality and he may not be a person who believes in the rules of moral conduct. As the state of Maryland argued, "the petitioner is not compelled to believe or disbelieve, under threat of punishment or other compulsion. True, unless he makes the declaration of belief he cannot hold public office in Maryland, but he is not compelled to hold office."

There are two things deadly wrong with this decision:

1. In the first place, atheism has no formal religious pattern and cannot be classified as religious.

2. The states have a right under the federal constitution to impose qualifications on an office holder as well as a voter as long as it places the same restrictions on all.

Of course, the Supreme Court for a long time now hasn't concerned itself with law or the constitution when handing down decisions.

Yorty bolted the Democrats to support Richard Nixon last year and Democrats think it will now be harder to strengthen the party in Southern California.

Tax Foundation, Inc., reports that government workers (federal, state and local) now outnumber farmers. No wonder the tax load is so high .....

The complete fallacy of banking on the Organization American States to deal with communism was revealed recently when it was learned that the OAS plans to send to five Latin American countries as lecturer Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, head of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton. You may recall, Oppenheimer was kicked out of the American Energy Commission as a security risk in 1953 because of his former Communist associations...

Robert C. Hill, former U. S. ambassador to several Latin American nations, recently told the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee that "the State Department, with the help of the New York Times, put Castro in power."

Blackmailing The Press

Editors and publishers of newspapers served by United Press International, in a recent conference, were warned that news can be officially manipulated to "serve the White House far better than the public."

An opinion that the Kennedy Administration has shown a "tendency in that direction" was given by Herbert G. Klein, editor of the San Diego (Calif.) Union and press secretary to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"The President and his aides," Klein said, "have cultivated some of the reporters — dining with them, leaking stories to them, and in general creating the feeling of keen interest and accessibility. I wonder if this will mean that a newspaper service will have to have men who are friendly to the Administration to gain an even break. We must watch and see."

Julius Frandsen, Jr., managing editor of UPI's Washington bureau, chimed in that the need for guarding against undue political or other influence is kept constantly in mind by his agency.

"While this sociability has gone on," Klein continued, "the Administration also has tightened up restrictions on the release of news and the ability of the military to express itself, and has sought to discourage full 24-hour coverage of the President. Perhaps more important, the Administration has raised questions of censorship and of anti-trust suits which tend to make the public believe something serious is wrong with the press and its coverage. This is trial without hearing.

"Thus far," Klein went on, "the President has not come forth with specific documentation to prove the need for censorship, but he has left the subject hanging as a threat over the press. Without facts he has convinced some of the public he is in the right and the press is in the wrong. The Justice Department has not started action to break up group ownership of newspapers or the joint ownership of newspapers and television, but it has not denied interest in the subject. The threat is there."

Postscript

Here's a story I ran across sometime ago and I recall it sometimes when things aren't running right or I'm pushing too hard.

There was once a fellow who, with his father, farmed a little piece of land. Several times a year they'd load up the ox-cart with vegetables and drive to the nearest city.

Except for their name and the patch of ground, father and son had little in common. The old man believed in taking it easy . . . and the son was the go-getter type.

One morning, they loaded the cart, hitched up the ox and set out. The young fellow figured that if they kept going all day and night, they'd get to the market by the next morning. He walked alongside the ox and kept prodding it with a stick.

"Take it easy," said the old man. "You'll last longer."

"If we get to the market ahead of the others," said his son, "we have a better chance of getting good prices."

The old man pulled his hat down over his eyes and went to sleep on the seat. Four miles and four hours down the road, they came to a little house. "Here's your uncle's place," said the father, waking up." "Let's stop in and say hello."

"We've lost an hour already," complained the go-getter.

"Then a few minutes more won't matter," said his father. "My brother and I live so close, yet we see each other so seldom." The young man fidgeted while the two old gentlemen gossiped away an hour.

Twilight found them in what looked like one big garden. "Let's sleep here," said the old man.

"This is the last trip I take with you," snapped his son. "You are more interested in flowers than in making money."

"That's the nicest thing you've said in a long time," smiled the old fellow. A minute later he was asleep.

A little before sunrise, the young man shook his father awake. They hitched up and went on. A mile and an hour away they came upon a farmer trying to pull his cart out of a ditch. "Let's give him a hand," said the father.

"And lose more time?" exploded the son.

"Relax," said the old man. "You might be in a ditch some time yourself."

By the time the other cart was back on the road, it was almost eight o'clock. Suddenly a great flash of lightning split the sky. Then there was thunder. Beyond the hills, the heavens grew dark. "Looks like a big rain in the city," said the old man.

"If we had been on time, we'd be sold out by now," grumbled his son.

"Take it easy," said the old gentleman, "you will last longer."

It wasn't until late in the afternoon that they got to the top of the hill overlooking the town. They looked down at it for a long time.

Neither of them spoke. Finally the young man who had been in such a hurry said, "I see what you mean, father."

They turned their cart around and drove away from what had once been the city of Hiroshima.

POET, PHILOSOPHER

Marin Staunch U.S. Friend

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Uncle Sam, who sorely needs friends in Latin America, has a staunch and lively one going for him here.

He's Luis Munoz Marin, the poet, philosopher, phrasemaker and politician who's been governor of Puerto Rico since 1949.

Munoz Marin and Puerto Rico could go far to cancel out Cuba's Fidel Castro. At any rate, to many Americans Puerto Ricans look like the strongest counterweight to Castroism now in sight.

And Munoz Marin is a campaigner with considerable charm, an orator with explosive wit and a slogan coiner who tosses off such expressions as: "We must live like the angels and work like the devil."

Talking with the natural ease of a scholar-politician, Munoz, 63, went over a variety of subjects with a reporter from the mainland.

He sympathized with his friend President Kennedy about Cuba, he had a grim remark about his own political troubles with Catholic bishops, he scorned talk of statehood for Puerto Rico as economic lunacy, he proclaimed an abiding interest in education, employment and medical care for all, and he laughingly called himself a convention bureau for visitors to Puerto Rico.

ASKED

How, Munoz was asked, can Latin Americans judge the truth or untruth of Castro's constant cry that U.S. aid means U.S. domination?

"The best way," he replied, "is to come to Puerto Rico and see what goes on here.

"Here we have a close association based on common citizenship. Here we have economic progress, friendship, a feeling of solidarity."

Munoz, who is generally considered largely responsible for Puerto Rico's commonwealth status—a self-governing position within the American union — remarked that the United States had plenty of legal opportunity in pre-commonwealth days to do wrong by the island.

"Not only did the U.S. government not try to stop our social and economic changes," he said, "the United States even aided them.

"And so will the United tates be willing to aid social and economic changes in Latin America generally, provided they are in the line of democracy."

Munoz recalled how he and Kennedy conferred earlier this year on how the United States could best extend aid to Latin America in Kennedy's program calling for an "alliance-for-progress."

"We talked," Munoz said, "about what could be done to strengthen Puerto Rico as an example, about using Puerto Rico as a meeting place for seminars and workshops for economic and cultural problems.

"We Puerto Ricans expressed willingness to do this even at our own expense. We will be as helpful in Puerto Rico as we know how."

"A real, deep down revolution is what is needed in Latin America," the governor reported on one of his recent visits to Washington. "The problem is to keep it from being a crazy revolution."

The revolution in Puerto Rico has been economic, bloodless. It has changed the island—by means of the now famous Munoz-led "Operation Bootstrap"—from a virtual poorhouse to the second most prosperous state in Latin America. On the basis of income per person, only oil-rich Venezuela is doing better.

Operation Bootstrap is fundamentally an industrialization program, encouraged by tax exemption and other government actions.

In the old days Puerto Rico was sometimes called a boay of land surrounded by controversy. There's still controversy, and Munoz is right in the middle of much of it, but the arguments chiefly are over such questions as statehood and religion—not the undeniable physical progress under Munoz.

There are continuing echoes of the religious quarrel that shook the island—and frightened some important mainland Democrats—during last year's election campaigns.

DIRECT FIRE

Munoz, a Roman Catholic, came under the direct fire of Puerto Rico's Catholic bishops. They forbade their church members to vote for Munoz' Popular Democratic party because the regime had passed laws allowing the teaching of birth control and sterilization of mental defectives, and did not fight public tolerance of common law marriages.

Some believed Munoz was in deep trouble, since Puerto Rico is 90 per cent Catholic. Some thought the Democratic presidential candidate, John F. Kennedy, a Catholic, had also been hurt, that the bishops' pastoral letters had lent substance to charges that a Catholic office holder is subject to orders from his church.

As everyone knows, Kennedy squeaked through to victory, while Munoz and his party swamped the opposition, polling 457,887 votes to 249,446 for the Republican statehood ticket, 51,295 for the Catholic-backed Christian Action party, and 24,122 for the Independence party.

Will the religious issue continue?

"The bishops haven't taken back their charge that the Popular Democrats were sinners," Munoz replied, "but I'm not arguing with them any more. Their quarrel is with the legislature."

On May 23 the legislature voted by overwhelming margin to expel its two members who belonged to the Catholic Action party. The two were charged with having won election illegally. Their accusers said there were fraudulent registrations and also unconstitutional coercion of the voters by the bishops.

The election outcome, to the governor, was a "new expression of confidence in the democracy, the justice and the religiosity of the people of Puerto Rico and the Popular Democratic party."

To others, it meant more simply that Munoz is the man who gives life to his party's slogan.

About DWI

There have been accusations that law enforcement officers in Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita parish have been parking outside nightclubs and eating places where liquor is sold and following people away and arresting them for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverage.

The fact this column has been able to gather don't substantiate the charges. In fact, we think the people of Ouachita parish are to be commended for the restraint shown in driving after they have had an evening out. Judging by the records of arrest we have very little of this type driving, with our people using caution and employing safety measures when they do.

Police and court records show only an average of approximately two and one-half persons are arrested in a 24-hour period for DWI in this area which has 102,000 people and approximately 40,000 motor vehicles. This is a very small percentage.

Actually, the percentage of arrests for this period of the year for DWI is below the same period last year. On this basis alone, it wouldn't seem that law enforcement officers are trying to trap anyone.

Furthermore, the writer of this column knows that top law enforcement officials as well as supervisors of personnel have repeatedly warned their officers against any form of "trapping" a motorist at the risk of losing their jobs if they are caught doing it. In fact, reporters for these newspapers have checked on this factor for several months and have yet to come up with a single piece of evidence that it is going on.

As one ranking officers put it: "We certainly try to catch all persons who commit manslaughter and other crimes, but we are not after people who have had a few drinks. In the majority of cases the people who have been charged with DWI were first stopped for some other violation."

We certainly don't believe people should be "trapped" on any traffic violation and frankly we don't believe it is being done. And at the same time, we believe we have more people who show restraint in all things — including driving while intoxicated — than any parish in the state.

Juvenile Setup Excellent

It is always a good feeling for a newspaperman to pass on to others praise for some organization or person doing a good job.

This is the case with the youth of our area — and the people who work with the youth in the varied activities as well as those associated with the juvenile court setup. All are to be highly commended.

For the first time probably in the history of the Green Oaks Detention Home, there was not a single youngster in the home between June 15 and June 22.

"I think this fact speaks a world of commendation for the youth of this parish that nothing else could quite match," said City and Juvenile Judge W. M. Harper, who is one of the prime movers behind this excellent record.

In addition to Judge Harper and the youth, a lot of the credit for such a record must go to the Juvenile Advisory Council of Ouachita Parish, and law enforcement officers of the area.

When the current program was started in 1959, a goal was set. Each year, the number handled has been less than the goal. At the present time approximately 20 such cases are handled a month — which is a wonderful record from any point you look at it.

"We've managed to cut down on the number despite the sharp increase in population," Judge Harper pointed out. "And one thing we particularly are proud of is the fact we have no organized gangs as such." We think all of this group is entitled to our vote of thanks for a job well done.

Breakdown Is Blotchy Novel Style

Breakdown, By John Bratby. World Publishing. $4.95.

The author of this novel is a painter. He has done the black and white illustrations for this work in a blotchy style, and his writing is rather blotchy too.

His story is about a painter named Brady. This Brady is a successful artist,, a comfortable husband and father. The trouble is that he has an itch —things like that happen to people in their middle years —and in a slightly unguarded moment he slips into a silly relationship with a frustrated, mentally unbalanced virgin who teaches in an art school.

It seems Brady was prepared for this first step to perdition by a feeling of inadequacy, brought on by such bumbling incidents as trouble with a motor scooter. He becomes a mixed up, middle aged kid.

Because he is trapped in the notion that his wife never would forgive his excursion into adultery, he breaks off his former pattern of life, sinking deeper and deeper. Finally he is whoring, pimping and living like an animal. After a session in an asylum he makes a partial restoration of his life, only to be conveniently dispatched by an accident.

The book is a strange dish of tea. You may be interested in the chatter about the oddballs of the London art world. Or perhaps in the story of Brady's disintegration, which is not too convincing.

But the style — except in the last few chapters, where it improves — is a quaint mixture of stilted Edwardian prose and a series of corny conversations with the reader. It is chaotic, discursive and puzzling.

If you find merit in this book, it must be that it has an offbeat appeal.

Kennedy And Company Under Microscope

LET US BEGIN — The First Hundred Days of the Kennedy Administration. Simon and Schuster. $4.95 cloth, $1.95 paper. THE KENNEDY GOVERNMENT. By Stan Opotowski. Dutton. $3.95. THE NEW FRONTIERSMEN. Public Affairs Press. $4.50.

All three of these books are valuable contributions to an enlightened citizen's understanding how his government is operating.

"Let Us Begin" is an unusual combination of commentary and photographs, in which the essays are filled with interpretation and analysis. And because it is concerned more with ideas than with personalities, this book is different from the other two.

"The Kennedy Governent" is subtitled "An Intimate Close-Up of the Men and Policies Behind the New Administration," and that is a good description of Opotowsky's subject matter.

"The New Frontiersmen" uses the biographical approach and reaches down into the second level of officialdom.

The create "Let Us Begin," the publishers assigned a team of analysts and a crew of topnotch photographers immediately after the inauguration. The result is a high level view of the administration and its problems. There are 150 photographs and the cloth edition contains a recording of the President's inaugural address.

The text opens with a political commentary on the "New Generation" by Eric F. Goldman, Princeton University professor. Next comes a foreign affairs study by the English writer Barbara Ward, supplemented by photo - essays from Kasai Province, Ecuador and Laos.

The final section, by Sidney Hyman and Martin Agronsky, is an interpreation of how the administration took its first steps toward putting its program into action.

Opotowsky's "The Kennedy Government" has all the journalistic flavor of "the inside story." It is basically a highly readable collection of personality stories of the type often called "profiles."

He begins with the process of getting a core of government officials together, describes the White House staff and then devotes one chapter each to the members of the cabinet. He also surveys the vice presidency, the Congress, the regulatory agencies and the party chairmanship.

This type of writing gives the reader a feeling of intimacy with the personalities of the book, but the reader needs to remember that he sees all of them through the eyes of the one author, who makes — quite legitimately, of course — evaluations and interpretations of his own.

"The New Frontiersmen" is almost literally a "Who's Who."

The technique of this book is to treat each of the cabinet departments and the White House as a group of individuals. Each sketch of a cabinet officer is followed by a series of brief biographies of the undersecretaries and special assistants in that department. This adds to the book's value as a reference work.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librian

Several most interesting new books of fiction have arrived at the Ouachita Parish Public Library this week. One which will certainly be discussed is "At Last to Kiss Amanda" by Frank Norris. This is the story of an industrialist and the many people whose life he touched. This is a searching examination of a town and its people and although not pleasant, it is absorbing. Elizabeth Cadell writes gay and light-hearted novels of upper English class society. Her latest one is called "Six Impossible Things." Reading this book is a wonderful way to relax and forget the many problems of the modern world. It is purely escape reading, but everyone needs to escape sometimes. Edwin O'Connor, who made such a hit with his 'The Last Hurrah" has written another novel which bids fair to be just as popular. It is "The Edge of Sadness" and is the story of a middle-aged priest and of Irish American families. It gives us a fascinating cross-section of this life and is a warm, exciting and well-written novel. 'Battalion of Saints" is the title of the novel by Richard Wormser dealing with a little known event in American history. It is an account of a battalion of Mormons, who joined the American army in 1846 to fight against Mexico. The battalion was accompanied by Mormon wives, and daughters travelling as cooks, laundresses and nurses and the account of this journey is an interesting study in character as well as a splendid recreation of history. 'Here the Hummingbird Flies" by Frank Hercules is a story of Trinidad and its people. It is a modern story and presents the island as it really is. Everyone interested in the future of this Central American island should read this book. As well as being informative, it is vastly entertaining.

A beautiful and moving account of the life of Jesus Christ is "The Son of Man" by Francois Mauric. It is a beautifully written book and will have a universal appeal. A most unusual and different book is called "What About Women" and was written by John Henry Cutler. This is a provocative examination of the present characteristics, nature, status, and position of women as they have evolved during this century. This book dispels many of the old illusions about women and shows the opportunities ahead for them. An interesting study in the field of evolution is "The Firmament of Time" by Loren Eiseley. It will interest those who find the study of genetics absorbing. A new book by Gaylord Hauser which will be eagerly read is "Mirror, Mirror on the Wall." This is a new approach to beauty and new advice in the field of diet and weight reduction.

A perfectly beautiful new book is "American Combat Planes" by Ray Wagner. It is profusely illustrated and contains pictures of airplanes from the earliest time to the present. It will be read and enjoyed by many people of different ages. Richard Tregaskis has written an account of America's first space ship, which he called "H-15 Diary." This is the story of the planning and construction of this important scientific marvel. New cook books are always in demand. The latest one received is the "Complete Electric Skillet-Frypan Cookbook" by Nedda Anders. This book gives helpful hints and recipes for this most valuable kitchen appliance. Another new cook book is "In A Persian Kitchen" by Maideh Mazda. This book contains many of the fabulous recipes of Persia and will appeal to everyone who likes the exotic and unusual in food. Antique collectors will want to see "The Ornamented Chair" by Zilla R. Lea and will find in this book a wealth of information and beautiful illustrations about this most attractive piece of American furniture.

A book which fathers of Cub Scouts and Y.W.C.A. campers will want is called "Living Like Indians." The author is Allan A. McFarlan and he gives a great deal of useful information and many valuable suggestions for making outdoor life real and pleasurable.

A very fine addition to our material in the field of English literature is "An Illustrated History of English Literature" written by Alfred C. Ward and consisting of three volumes. The first volume covers the period from Chaucer to Shakespeare, the second from Ben Jonson to Samuel Johnson and the third from William Blake to George Bernard Shaw. A very significant book, which sheds much light on the present day world conflict is "Congo, Background of Conflict" written by Alan P. Merriam. The author gives us much of the background of trouble in this torn country and it is a most illuminating volume. Eagerly awaited by many of our patrons was "Molly and Me" by Gertrude Berge. This is a very funny autobiography and those who have seen her on the stage will want to read it. A new biography of one of our most important literary figures is "Nathaniel Hawthorne" by Edward C. Wagenknecht. The author gives us a good picture of the man, of the period and of his literary place in American life.

Gray Flannel Image Is Now 'Revisited'

THE NEW AMERICA. By Karl E. Meyer. Basic Books. $4.50.

Here's another inquiry, of the kind so fashionable lately, into the gray flannel syndrome—blandness, conformist cravings and public relations-mindedness more concerned with "image!" than substance.

To call such an analysis fashionable is not to belittle it. Successive waves of critical assault, from "The Organization Man" and "The Hidden Persuaders" to "The Affluent Society," seem to have established a beachhead. To this lively literature of iconoclasm Meyer has made an interesting contribution. He calls what ails us "the Smooth Deal."

Meyer's book is witty, urbane and sardonic with no more overstatement than normal to such broad critiques.

It was with the presidential campaign of 1952, prelude to the Eisenhower years which Meyer considers a form of national palsy, that politics fell under the sway of television and Madison Avenue techniques. The tendencies, he suggests, have deepened: the politician becomes performer, "debates" are judged for their entertainment value, issues packaged as "themes," and twaddle about a candidate's, party's, nation's "image" is depressingly common.

The obstetricians to the Smooth Deal were "image merchants," and the calculations of public relations counselors entered hugely into the 1960 campaign. Increasingly, and in both parties, "smooth dealers" came to the fore—cleancut young professionals anxious above all to appear moderate, to blunt edges of disagreement and controversy.

Many things contributed to the rise of the "Smooth Deal," Meyer says: The decline of ethnic diversity due to flagging immigration; the decline of regional differences; the decline of third parties as gadflies and political catalysts.

The press, he contends, also has caught some of the "Smooth Deal" virus. In an amusing passage he dissects, with the help of an "all-purpose column" of punditry, the technique of seeming to express a judgement while actually evading it. He is also critical of wire service foreign correspondence, though professionals will counter with reason that the evidence is hardly conclusive.

But despite certain lapses in argumentation and some very large generalizations, "The New America" is an entertaining commentary. It will be good reading even for those who disagree with Meyer's position that the general rush to the middle of the road has produced a huge traffic jam where nobody loses his temper—and nothing moves very fast, either.

Epidemic Of Chicken Pox

If you are an adult and you haven't had chicken pox — avoid it at all cost.

According to a national report the disease has reached epidemic proportions this year and there is no immunization against it.

A four-year study of chicken pox just completed at the University of Miami Medical School Research Department has confirmed the fact the disease is particularly dangerous for adults because of the complications. There have been a number of fatalities.

The report shows that afflicted grown-ups have great difficulty breathing because the pox break out in the lungs, forms scars and block the intake of air.

Supreme Court At It Again

Actually, no one should ever be surprised at what decision the Supreme Court returns in a case. But some of them are down right amazing. Another recent one should make Russia happy. It has just given approval in theory that Atheism is a full - fledged "religion." We doubt that many people outside of the Communist - dominated countries can buy this decision.

The ruling found that the federal constitution bars any religious test for the holding of public office in either a state or the national government. The ruling was on an appeal by a man in Maryland who wanted to be a notary public and was disqualified by that state because it requires of all of its state office holders that they at least acknowledge a belief in God.

There are many restrictions a state may place on an office holder. Why can't a belief in God be one of them. If an office-holder doesn't believe in God, he may or may not he a person who believes in honesty or morality and he may not be a person who believes in the rules of moral conduct. As the state of Maryland argued, "the petitioner is not compelled to believe or disbelieve, under threat of punishment or other compulsion. True, unless he makes the declaration of belief he cannot hold public office in Maryland, but he is not compelled to hold office."

There are two things deadly wrong with this decision:

1. In the first place, atheism has no formal religious pattern and cannot be classified as religious.

2. The states have a right under the federal constitution to impose qualifications on an office holder as well as a voter as long as it places the same restrictions on all.

Of course, the Supreme Court for a long time now hasn't concerned itself with law or the constitution when handing down decisions.

Yorty bolted the Democrats to support Richard Nixon last year and Democrats think it will now be harder to strengthen the party in Southern California.

Tax Foundation, Inc., reports that government workers (federal, state and local) now outnumber farmers. No wonder the tax load is so high .....

The complete fallacy of banking on the Organization American States to deal with communism was revealed recently when it was learned that the OAS plans to send to five Latin American countries as lecturer Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, head of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton. You may recall, Oppenheimer was kicked out of the American Energy Commission as a security risk in 1953 because of his former Communist associations...

Robert C. Hill, former U. S. ambassador to several Latin American nations, recently told the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee that "the State Department, with the help of the New York Times, put Castro in power."

Blackmailing The Press

Editors and publishers of newspapers served by United Press International, in a recent conference, were warned that news can be officially manipulated to "serve the White House far better than the public."

An opinion that the Kennedy Administration has shown a "tendency in that direction" was given by Herbert G. Klein, editor of the San Diego (Calif.) Union and press secretary to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"The President and his aides," Klein said, "have cultivated some of the reporters — dining with them, leaking stories to them, and in general creating the feeling of keen interest and accessibility. I wonder if this will mean that a newspaper service will have to have men who are friendly to the Administration to gain an even break. We must watch and see."

Julius Frandsen, Jr., managing editor of UPI's Washington bureau, chimed in that the need for guarding against undue political or other influence is kept constantly in mind by his agency.

"While this sociability has gone on," Klein continued, "the Administration also has tightened up restrictions on the release of news and the ability of the military to express itself, and has sought to discourage full 24-hour coverage of the President. Perhaps more important, the Administration has raised questions of censorship and of anti-trust suits which tend to make the public believe something serious is wrong with the press and its coverage. This is trial without hearing.

"Thus far," Klein went on, "the President has not come forth with specific documentation to prove the need for censorship, but he has left the subject hanging as a threat over the press. Without facts he has convinced some of the public he is in the right and the press is in the wrong. The Justice Department has not started action to break up group ownership of newspapers or the joint ownership of newspapers and television, but it has not denied interest in the subject. The threat is there."

Postscript

Here's a story I ran across sometime ago and I recall it sometimes when things aren't running right or I'm pushing too hard.

There was once a fellow who, with his father, farmed a little piece of land. Several times a year they'd load up the ox-cart with vegetables and drive to the nearest city.

Except for their name and the patch of ground, father and son had little in common. The old man believed in taking it easy . . . and the son was the go-getter type.

One morning, they loaded the cart, hitched up the ox and set out. The young fellow figured that if they kept going all day and night, they'd get to the market by the next morning. He walked alongside the ox and kept prodding it with a stick.

"Take it easy," said the old man. "You'll last longer."

"If we get to the market ahead of the others," said his son, "we have a better chance of getting good prices."

The old man pulled his hat down over his eyes and went to sleep on the seat. Four miles and four hours down the road, they came to a little house. "Here's your uncle's place," said the father, waking up." "Let's stop in and say hello."

"We've lost an hour already," complained the go-getter.

"Then a few minutes more won't matter," said his father. "My brother and I live so close, yet we see each other so seldom." The young man fidgeted while the two old gentlemen gossiped away an hour.

Twilight found them in what looked like one big garden. "Let's sleep here," said the old man.

"This is the last trip I take with you," snapped his son. "You are more interested in flowers than in making money."

"That's the nicest thing you've said in a long time," smiled the old fellow. A minute later he was asleep.

A little before sunrise, the young man shook his father awake. They hitched up and went on. A mile and an hour away they came upon a farmer trying to pull his cart out of a ditch. "Let's give him a hand," said the father.

"And lose more time?" exploded the son.

"Relax," said the old man. "You might be in a ditch some time yourself."

By the time the other cart was back on the road, it was almost eight o'clock. Suddenly a great flash of lightning split the sky. Then there was thunder. Beyond the hills, the heavens grew dark. "Looks like a big rain in the city," said the old man.

"If we had been on time, we'd be sold out by now," grumbled his son.

"Take it easy," said the old gentleman, "you will last longer."

It wasn't until late in the afternoon that they got to the top of the hill overlooking the town. They looked down at it for a long time.

Neither of them spoke. Finally the young man who had been in such a hurry said, "I see what you mean, father."

They turned their cart around and drove away from what had once been the city of Hiroshima.

POET, PHILOSOPHER

Marin Staunch U.S. Friend

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Uncle Sam, who sorely needs friends in Latin America, has a staunch and lively one going for him here.

He's Luis Munoz Marin, the poet, philosopher, phrasemaker and politician who's been governor of Puerto Rico since 1949.

Munoz Marin and Puerto Rico could go far to cancel out Cuba's Fidel Castro. At any rate, to many Americans Puerto Ricans look like the strongest counterweight to Castroism now in sight.

And Munoz Marin is a campaigner with considerable charm, an orator with explosive wit and a slogan coiner who tosses off such expressions as: "We must live like the angels and work like the devil."

Talking with the natural ease of a scholar-politician, Munoz, 63, went over a variety of subjects with a reporter from the mainland.

He sympathized with his friend President Kennedy about Cuba, he had a grim remark about his own political troubles with Catholic bishops, he scorned talk of statehood for Puerto Rico as economic lunacy, he proclaimed an abiding interest in education, employment and medical care for all, and he laughingly called himself a convention bureau for visitors to Puerto Rico.

ASKED

How, Munoz was asked, can Latin Americans judge the truth or untruth of Castro's constant cry that U.S. aid means U.S. domination?

"The best way," he replied, "is to come to Puerto Rico and see what goes on here.

"Here we have a close association based on common citizenship. Here we have economic progress, friendship, a feeling of solidarity."

Munoz, who is generally considered largely responsible for Puerto Rico's commonwealth status—a self-governing position within the American union — remarked that the United States had plenty of legal opportunity in pre-commonwealth days to do wrong by the island.

"Not only did the U.S. government not try to stop our social and economic changes," he said, "the United States even aided them.

"And so will the United tates be willing to aid social and economic changes in Latin America generally, provided they are in the line of democracy."

Munoz recalled how he and Kennedy conferred earlier this year on how the United States could best extend aid to Latin America in Kennedy's program calling for an "alliance-for-progress."

"We talked," Munoz said, "about what could be done to strengthen Puerto Rico as an example, about using Puerto Rico as a meeting place for seminars and workshops for economic and cultural problems.

"We Puerto Ricans expressed willingness to do this even at our own expense. We will be as helpful in Puerto Rico as we know how."

"A real, deep down revolution is what is needed in Latin America," the governor reported on one of his recent visits to Washington. "The problem is to keep it from being a crazy revolution."

The revolution in Puerto Rico has been economic, bloodless. It has changed the island—by means of the now famous Munoz-led "Operation Bootstrap"—from a virtual poorhouse to the second most prosperous state in Latin America. On the basis of income per person, only oil-rich Venezuela is doing better.

Operation Bootstrap is fundamentally an industrialization program, encouraged by tax exemption and other government actions.

In the old days Puerto Rico was sometimes called a booy of land surrounded by controversy. There's still controversy, and Munoz is right in the middle of much of it, but the arguments chiefly are over such questions as statehood and religion—not the undeniable physical progress under Munoz.

There are continuing echoes of the religious quarrel that shook the island—and frightened some important mainland Democrats—during last year's election campaigns.

DIRECT FIRE

Munoz, a Roman Catholic, came under the direct fire of Puerto Rico's Catholic bishops. They forbade their church members to vote for Munoz' Popular Democratic party because the regime had passed laws allowing the teaching of birth control and sterilization of mental defectives, and did not fight public tolerance of common law marriages.

Some believed Munoz was in deep trouble, since Puerto Rico is 90 per cent Catholic. Some thought the Democratic presidential candidate, John F. Kennedy, a Catholic, had also been hurt, that the bishops' pastoral letters had lent substance to charges that a Catholic office holder is subject to orders from his church.

As everyone knows, Kennedy squeaked through to victory, while Munoz and his party swamped the opposition, polling 457,887 votes to 249,446 for the Republican statehood ticket, 51,295 for the Catholic-backed Christian Action party, and 24,122 for the Independence party.

Will the religious issue continue?

"The bishops haven't taken back their charge that the Popular Democrats were sinners," Munoz replied, "but I'm not arguing with them any more. Their quarrel is with the legislature."

On May 23 the legislature voted by overwhelming margin to expel its two members who belonged to the Catholic Action party. The two were charged with having won election illegally. Their accusers said there were fraudulent registrations and also unconstitutional coercion of the voters by the bishops.

The election outcome, to the governor, was a "new expression of confidence in the democracy, the justice and the religiosity of the people of Puerto Rico and the Popular Democratic party."

To others, it meant more simply that Munoz is the man who gives life to his party's slogan.

About DWI

There have been accusations that law enforcement officers in Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita parish have been parking outside nightclubs and eating places where liquor is sold and following people away and arresting them for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverage.

The fact this column has been able to gather don't substantiate the charges. In fact, we think the people of Ouachita parish are to be commended for the restraint shown in driving after they have had an evening out. Judging by the records of arrest we have very little of this type driving, with our people using caution and employing safety measures when they do.

Police and court records show only an average of approximately two and one-half persons are arrested in a 24-hour period for DWI in this area which has 102,000 people and approximately 40,000 motor vehicles. This is a very small percentage.

Actually, the percentage of arrests for this period of the year for DWI is below the same period last year. On this basis alone, it wouldn't seem that law enforcement officers are trying to trap anyone.

Furthermore, the writer of this column knows that top law enforcement officials as well as supervisors of personnel have repeatedly warned their officers against any form of "trapping" a motorist at the risk of losing their jobs if they are caught doing it. In fact, reporters for these newspapers have checked on this factor for several months and have yet to come up with a single piece of evidence that it is going on.

As one ranking officers put it: "We certainly try to catch all persons who commit manslaughter and other crimes, but we are not after people who have had a few drinks. In the majority of cases the people who have been charged with DWI were first stopped for some other violation."

We certainly don't believe people should be "trapped" on any traffic violation and frankly we don't believe it is being done. And at the same time, we believe we have more people who show restraint in all things — including driving while intoxicated — than any parish in the state.

Juvenile Setup Excellent

It is always a good feeling for a newspaperman to pass on to others praise for some organization or person doing a good job.

This is the case with the youth of our area — and the people who work with the youth in the varied activities as well as those associated with the juvenile court setup. All are to be highly commended.

For the first time probably in the history of the Green Oaks Detention Home, there was not a single youngster in the home between June 15 and June 22.

"I think this fact speaks a world of commendation for the youth of this parish that nothing else could quite match," said City and Juvenile Judge W. M. Harper, who is one of the prime movers behind this excellent record.

In addition to Judge Harper and the youth, a lot of the credit for such a record must go to the Juvenile Advisory Council of Ouachita Parish, and law enforcement officers of the area.

When the current program was started in 1959, a goal was set. Each year, the number handled has been less than the goal. At the present time approximately 20 such cases are handled a month — which is a wonderful record from any point you look at it.

"We've managed to cut down on the number despite the sharp increase in population," Judge Harper pointed out. "And one thing we particularly are proud of is the fact we have no organized gangs as such." We think all of this group is entitled to our vote of thanks for a job well done.

Breakdown Is Blotchy Novel Style

Breakdown, By John Bratby. World Publishing. $4.95.

The author of this novel is a painter. He has done the black and white illustrations for this work in a blotchy style, and his writing is rather blotchy too.

His story is about a painter named Brady. This Brady is a successful artist,, a comfortable husband and father. The trouble is that he has an itch —things like that happen to people in their middle years —and in a slightly unguarded moment he slips into a silly relationship with a frustrated, mentally unbalanced virgin who teaches in an art school.

It seems Brady was prepared for this first step to perdition by a feeling of inadequacy, brought on by such bumbling incidents as trouble with a motor scooter. He becomes a mixed up, middle aged kid.

Because he is trapped in the notion that his wife never would forgive his excursion into adultery, he breaks off his former pattern of life, sinking deeper and deeper. Finally he is whoring, pimping and living like an animal. After a session in an asylum he makes a partial restoration of his life, only to be conveniently dispatched by an accident.

The book is a strange dish of tea. You may be interested in the chatter about the oddballs of the London art world. Or perhaps in the story of Brady's disintegration, which is not too convincing.

But the style — except in the last few chapters, where it improves — is a quaint mixture of stilted Edwardian prose and a series of corny conversations with the reader. It is chaotic, discursive and puzzling.

If you find merit in this book, it must be that it has an offbeat appeal.

Kennedy And Company Under Microscope

LET US BEGIN — The First Hundred Days of the Kennedy Administration. Simon and Schuster. $4.95 cloth, $1.95 paper. THE KENNEDY GOVERNMENT. By Stan Opotowski. Dutton. $3.95. THE NEW FRONTIERSMEN. Public Affairs Press. $4.50.

All three of these books are valuable contributions to an enlightened citizen's understanding how his government is operating.

"Let Us Begin" is an unusual combination of commentary and photographs, in which the essays are filled with interpretation and analysis. And because it is concerned more with ideas than with personalities, this book is different from the other two.

"The Kennedy Governent" is subtitled "An Intimate Close-Up of the Men and Policies Behind the New Administration," and that is a good description of Opotowsky's subject matter.

"The New Frontiersmen" uses the biographical approach and reaches down into the second level of officialdom.

The create "Let Us Begin," the publishers assigned a team of analysts and a crew of topnotch photographers immediately after the inauguration. The result is a high level view of the administration and its problems. There are 150 photographs and the cloth edition contains a recording of the President's inaugural address.

The text opens with a political commentary on the "New Generation" by Eric F. Goldman, Princeton University professor. Next comes a foreign affairs study by the English writer Barbara Ward, supplemented by photo - essays from Kasai Province, Ecuador and Laos.

The final section, by Sidney Hyman and Martin Agronsky, is an interpreation of how the administration took its first steps toward putting its program into action.

Opotowsky's "The Kennedy Government" has all the journalistic flavor of "the inside story." It is basically a highly readable collection of personality stories of the type often called "profiles."

He begins with the process of getting a core of government officials together, describes the White House staff and then devotes one chapter each to the members of the cabinet. He also surveys the vice presidency, the Congress, the regulatory agencies and the party chairmanship.

This type of writing gives the reader a feeling of intimacy with the personalities of the book, but the reader needs to remember that he sees all of them through the eyes of the one author, who makes — quite legitimately, of course — evaluations and interpretations of his own.

"The New Frontiersmen" is almost literally a "Who's Who."

The technique of this book is to treat each of the cabinet departments and the White House as a group of individuals. Each sketch of a cabinet officer is followed by a series of brief biographies of the undersecretaries and special assistants in that department. This adds to the book's value as a reference work.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS

Ouachita Parish Librian

Several most interesting new books of fiction have arrived at the Ouachita Parish Public Library this week. One which will certainly be discussed is "At Last to Kiss Amanda" by Frank Norris. This is the story of an industrialist and the many people whose life he touched. This is a searching examination of a town and its people and although not pleasant, it is absorbing. Elizabeth Cadell writes gay and lighthearted novels of upper English class society. Her latest one is called "Six Impossible Things." Reading this book is a wonderful way to relax and forget the many problems of the modern world. It is purely escape reading, but everyone needs to escape sometimes. Edwin O'Connor, who made such a hit with his 'The Last Hurrah" has written another novel which bids fair to be just as popular. It is "The Edge of Sadness" and is the story of a middle-aged priest and of Irish American families. It gives us a fascinating cross-section of this life and is a warm, exciting and well-written novel. 'Battalion of Saints" is the title of the novel by Richard Wormser dealing with a little known event in American history. It is an account of a battalion of Mormons, who joined the American army in 1846 to fight against Mexico. The battalion was accompanied by Mormon wives, and daughters travelling as cooks, laundresses and nurses and the account of this journey is an interesting study in character as well as a splendid recreation of history. 'Here the Hummingbird Flies" by Frank Hercules is a story of Trinidad and its people. It is a modern story and presents the island as it really is. Everyone interested in the future of this Central American island should read this book. As well as being informative, it is vastly entertaining.

A beautiful and moving account of the life of Jesus Christ is "The Son of Man" by Francois Mauric. It is a beautifully written book and will have a universal appeal. A most unusual and different book is called "What About Women" and was written by John Henry Cutler. This is a provocative examination of the present characteristics, nature, status, and position of women as they have evolved during this century. This book dispels many of the old illusions about women and shows the opportunities ahead for them. An interesting study in the field of evolution is "The Firmament of Time" by Loren Eiseley. It will interest those who find the study of genetics absorbing. A new book by Gaylord Hauser which will be eagerly read is "Mirror, Mirror on the Wall." This is a new approach to beauty and new advice in the field of diet and weight reduction.

A perfectly beautiful new book is "American Combat Planes" by Ray Wagner. It is profusely illustrated and contains pictures of airplanes from the earliest time to the present. It will be read and enjoyed by many people of different ages. Richard Tregaskis has written an account of America's first space ship, which he called "H-15 Diary." This is the story of the planning and construction of this important scientific marvel. New cook books are always in demand. The latest one received is the "Complete Electric Skillet-Frypan Cookbook" by Nedda Anders. This book gives helpful hints and recipes for this most valuable kitchen appliance. Another new cook book is "In A Persian Kitchen" by Maideh Mazda. This book contains many of the fabulous recipes of Persia and will appeal to everyone who likes the exotic and unusual in food. Antique collectors will want to see "The Ornamented Chair" by Zilla R. Lea and will find in this book a wealth of information and beautiful illustrations about this most attractive piece of American furniture.

A book which fathers of Cub Scouts and Y.W.C.A. campers will want is called "Living Like Indians." The author is Allan A. McFarlan and he gives a great deal of useful information and many valuable suggestions for making outdoor life real and pleasurable.

A very fine addition to our material in the field of English literature is "An Illustrated History of English Literature" written by Alfred C. Ward and consisting of three volumes. The first volume covers the period from Chaucer to Shakespeare, the second from Ben Jonson to Samuel Johnson and the third from William Blake to George Bernard Shaw. A very significant book, which sheds much light on the present day world conflict is "Congo, Background of Conflict" written by Alan P. Merriam. The author gives us much of the background of trouble in this torn country and it is a most illuminating volume. Eagerly awaited by many of our patrons was "Molly and Me" by Gertrude Berge. This is a very funny autobiography and those who have seen her on the stage will want to read it. A new biography of one of our most important literary figures is "Nathaniel Hawthorne" by Edward C. Wagenknecht. The author gives us a good picture of the man, of the period and of his literary place in American life.

Gray Flannel Image Is Now 'Revisited'

THE NEW AMERICA. By Karl E. Meyer. Basic Books. $4.50.

Here's another inquiry, of the kind so fashionable lately, into the gray flannel syndrome—blandness, conformist cravings and public relations-mindedness more concerned with "image!" than substance.

To call such an analysis fashionable is not to belittle it. Successive waves of critical assault, from "The Organization Man" and "The Hidden Persuaders" to "The Affluent Society," seem to have established a beachhead. To this lively literature of iconoclasm Meyer has made an interesting contribution. He calls what ails us "the Smooth Deal."

Meyer's book is witty, urbane and sardonic with no more overstatement than normal to such broad critiques.

It was with the presidential campaign of 1952, prelude to the Eisenhower years which Meyer considers a form of national palsy, that politics fell under the sway of television and Madison Avenue techniques. The tendencies, he suggests, have deepened: the politician becomes performer, "debates" are judged for their entertainment value, issues packaged as "themes," and twaddle about a candidate's, party's, nation's "image" is depressingly common.

The obstetricians to the Smooth Deal were "image merchants," and the calculations of public relations counselors entered hugely into the 1960 campaign. Increasingly, and in both parties, "smooth dealers" came to the fore—cleancut young professionals anxious above all to appear moderate, to blunt edges of disagreement and controversy.

Many things contributed to the rise of the "Smooth Deal," Meyer says: The decline of ethnic diversity due to flagging immigration; the decline of regional differences; the decline of third parties as gadflies and political catalysts.

The press, he contends, also has caught some of the "Smooth Deal" virus. In an amusing passage he dissects, with the help of an "all-purpose column" of punditry, the technique of seeming to express a judgement while actually evading it. He is also critical of wire service foreign correspondence, though professionals will counter with reason that the evidence is hardly conclusive.

But despite certain lapses in argumentation and some very large generalizations, "The New America" is an entertaining commentary. It will be good reading even for those who disagree with Meyer's position that the general rush to the middle of the road has produced a huge traffic jam where nobody loses his temper—and nothing moves very fast, either.

IN PAST FIVE YEARS

Russia Makes Big Petroleum Gains

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Crude production gains made by Russia and Communist bloc nations in five years are rather fantastic.

Russia and her satellites since 1956 haves boosted output over 89 per cent. The United States and other free world nations have increased production less than 25 per cent.

TWO POINTS

Recent estimates of Russian production indicate two particular points:

1. Russia currently is challenging or has replaced Venezuela as the world's second leading oil producing nation.

2. Russia and her satellites now account for 15 per cent of world daily output compared to 10 per cent at the time of the 1956 Suez crisis.

Domination of world production by the United States meanwhile has lost ground both to Russia and to other free world producing areas.

In 1956 the United States accounted for over 40 per cent of world daily output and over 45 per cent of free world production. Last March she contributed only 33 per cent of world production and 39 per cent of free world output.

Records maintained by The Oil and Gas Journal indicate world production increased from 17,067,000 barrels a day in October, 1956 — just before bombs closed the Suez Canal—to 22,491,000 a day last March.

The gain amounted to 5,424,000 barrels a day. The Russian bloc contributed nearly one-third of the gain.

Over 81 per cent of total world output in March came from the Russian bloc and seven free world areas—the United States, Venezuela, North Africa, Kuwait, Iran, Saudia Arabia, and Iraq.

Russia and her satellites contributed 30.4 per cent of the 1956-61 gain. Kuwait was a weak runner-up at 11.5 per cent. Iran's contribution to the five-year gain was 9.3 per cent and she was followed North Africa 7.4 per cent, Saudia Arabia 7.1, Venezuela 6.4, the United States 6.1, and Iraq 6.3.

Communist area production jumped from 1,850,000 barrels a day to 3,501,000. This 89 per cent boost was exceeded only by North Africa, which recorded a whopping gain of 923 per cent by boosting output from 44,000 barrels a day to 450,900. The African boom still is under way.

Iran was the only other nation to challenge the Communist gain seriously,, jumping 84.5 per cent by boosting output from 597,000 barrels a day to 1,102,.000. Iran in 1956, however, still was rebuilding production had averaged 704,000 barrels a day.

Since 1956 little Kuwait has jumped its production 42 per cent, from 1,242,000 to 1,868,000. Saudia Arabia has boosted its output from 1,083,000 to 1,472,000 for a 35 per cent gain.

Iraq recorded a 23 per cent gain by moving from 765,000 barrels a day to 948,500. Venezuela meanwhile moved from 2,623,000 to 2,968,400 for a 13 per cent gain.

The United States trailed at only 4.6 per cent, moving from 7,139,000 barrels a day to 7,470,800. Since March, however, domestic output has dropped to 7,105,260 barrels a day.

The record world putout of 22,491,000 in March included records for Kuwait and North Africa. The all-time high for the Communist bloc was a 3,521,000 estimate for February. Saudia Arabia also had a record flow of 1,547,000 in February.

CONTRACTS EXPIRE SOON

Auto Union Sees Advantage

EDITOR'S NOTE — A team of Associated Press reporters recently met for private, off-the-record discussions with each of the top labor negotiators of General Motrs, Ford and Chrysler and their counterparts in the United Auto Workers Union as background for contract talks which open this coming week. the following article is based on opinions voiced at those sessions.

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Union contracts in the auto industry expire just prior to the introduction of the 1962 model cars this fall.

Top negotiators for the United Auto Workers believe this will work to their advantage. Company executives are just as certain the date will make little difference.

"In fact," said a vice president of one of the Big Three companies, "we suggested the Sept. 1 date."

MIDNIGHT

Present three-year contracts at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out at midnight Aug. 31. Previous recent contracts have expired June 1. The difference came when the two sides failed to agree by the deadline in 1958 but continued working on a day to day basis.

Union representatives argue the nearness of the new model introductions—now scheduled to start around Sept. 15—will put considerable pressure on the companies to settle.

They reason that the 1961 models haven't been red-hot sellers, that the companies are counting on a big fourth quarter to make the year a profitable one and to do this they will need the new models in volume. A strike could disrupt the entire quarter.

But one company man counters: "There is no good time for a strike—summer, winter, fall or spring. We always are meeting deadlines on tooling, parts and the like."

The union has been watching carefully for signs the companies might attempt to build unusually heavy inventories in the remaining weeks of the 1961 model year.

"So far," said one UAW leader, "we don't see this happening."

"We would be foolish to count on a strike," one of the company men said. "If it didn't happen, what would we do with all of the cars?"

Some changes from routine are under way, however. All companies will finish their 1961 model production by mid-August at the latest. In recent years some plants have continued into September. All will either be building 1962 models, or ready to build them, by the contract expiration date.

This means that even if there were a strike, some 1962 models of virtually every make would be available to start the new car year.

The companies claim they are willing to try for a settlement much earlier than the final deadline.

"But Walter (Reuther, president of the UAW) has to put on a show for his members," said one company man. "He has to convince them he is getting everything he possibly can. He couldn't possibly settle early with one company and then run the risk of having the negotiators get a little bit extra from another company."

Negotiations on the new contracts open formally this coming week—at General Motors Wednesday, Ford Thursday and Chrysler Friday. Opening statements will be followed by a July 4th recess and then work sessions starting about July 5. American Motors' talks start July 6. Studebaker-Packard's contract does not expire until Oct. 31.

200 Ships Are Idle In Oceans

By JACK LEFLER
AP BUSINESS NEWS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP)—A coast-to-coast maritime strike gripped the nation during the week, cutting down deliveries of vital supplies and threatening more dire effects.

Five seamen's unions struck when their contracts with operators of American flag ships expired.

MORE EXPECTED

By the week's end nearly 200 of the 990 ships in the American flag merchant fleet had been idled on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts. If the strike continues, many more ships are expected to be tied up when they reach port.

Biggest immediate effect was curtailment of oil deliveries to the Atlantic coast. Companies whose tankers were put out of operation included Gulf, Texaco, Cities Service, Sinclair and American.

The oil industry indicated it had a 30-day supply of products on hand. Unaffected companies were keeping their storage tanks full.

The National Maritime Union placed pickets around refineries of Texaco, American, Gulf and Sinclair. Members of some other unions refused to cross picket lines, causing production facilities to shut down.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, in a speech, painted an optimistic picture of the business outlook — if the cold war doesn't turn hot.

"It is probable that by this time next year our economy will be rolling in high gear," he said. "We may well be in the midst of an economic boom."

He predicted the economy will grow by eight per cent next year, putting the federal budget in the black.

For this year he forecast a gross national product—total output of goods and services—of $515 billion, compared with $503 billion for 1960. He projected the 1962 level at $555 billion.

These developments indicated that business is riding a rising tide:

Durable goods manufacture new orders rose in May for the fourth straight month, registering a two per cent gain over April. They totaled $14.9 billion, highest since October 1959.

Personal income in May increased for the third consecutive month, reaching a new high. The Commerce Department reported the seasonally adjusted annual rate climbed to $413.7 billion, an increase of $2.4 billion over the April rate.

New private home starts in May reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,298,000, up eight per cent from April.

The government took another step aimed at stimulating construction and purchase of homes. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board authorized a $1.5-billion expansion in credit available to 4,700 savings and loan associations to finance home construction.

On the monetary front, the Canadian dollar dipped below par with the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange markets for the first time since December 1955. The drop followed introduction of a Canadian budget in which the government spelled out an intention of promoting export by reducing exchange rates on its dollar.

Steel production dipped last week for the third time in a row but remained good at 1.99 million tons.

Selective price cuts continued at a brisk rate with an estimated 128,000 passenger cars turned out, compared with 129,345 the previous week.

Briefly around the business scene: Americans are drinking more than 400 million cups of coffee a day, the Pan-American Coffee Institute reports. . . . Bethlehem Steel Co. poured a 535,000-pound steel ingot—believed to be the biggest ever produced by the vacuum-casting process—for forging into a generator rotor. . . . Average prices in Sears Roebuck & Co.'s 1961 fall-winter catalogue will be one per cent below last year.

State Service Stations Total 322 Per Auto

BATON ROUGE — Latest Census Bureau figures show that Louisiana has 3368 service stations to care for its over one million motor vehicles, the Louisiana Petroleum Council reported today. This is a ratio of one service station for each 322 vehicles.

Citing the recently - released final figure for 1958, the year of the last government count, H. J. Geiger, Chairman of the organization said that although the number of stations represented a 50.4 per cent increase over 1948, the ratio of stations to motor vehicle population declined during the decade. He noted that 10 years ago there was one station for each 229 vehicles.

Vehicle registrations in Louisiana showed an increase of 111.5 per cent over the 512,589 figure in 1948, he pointed out.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A battle of knowhow vs. the automatic camera has been going on in my household lately. I'll settle for a verdict which maintains that know-how PLUS automatic camera makes the best combination for good pictures.

I was testing the Rollei-magic camera, the only automatic 2¼ x 2¼ twin-lens reflex. It measures the light in front of the camera and automatically selects the correct combination of shutter speed and lens opening as the release lever is pressed.

As with all automatic cameras, the film speed must be set. Beyond that, the photographer must attend to one other chore to make each snap a picture: he must focus.

I turned the camera over to my wife and 16-year-old daughter, Barbara, who are typical of so many people to whom the principles of correct exposure are a mystery. But they could fathom the idea of focusing and of observing a moving needle. When they saw it, it meant they had enough light to shoot by.

The testing round was a camera cruise up the Hudson River on which we were accompanied by hundreds of other camera fans. When black-and-white film was switched to Kodacolor, the film speed was changed and caused nary a moment's hesitation to my women. They saw that needle and clicked away.

Then, later, Barbara called for help. We had docked at Bear Mountain and were walking under a ramp when she stopped to shoot the boat in the river. Under the deep shadow of the ramp, however, the needle didn't show. Couldn't she take a picture? she wanted to know.

The situation is one in which an automatic camera goofs, its exposure meter tricked by the heavy shadow of the ramp or sometimes a doorway or tunnel. It would also be fooled if the lighting were reversed — that is, if the camera were in bright light and the subject in the shade.

This is where a little know-how came in handy.

I moved Barbara down the ramp a bit to an open space. There the needle became visible. I told her to press her finger ever so lightly on the release lever . . . but not enough to snap a picture.

As she did so, the needle became rigid, locking the proper exposure combination for that light in place. Then she moved back to her pre-selected position, got ready, and pressed the lever all the way down. The picture was made with the proper exposure.

I never did finish teaching her that the camera can be switched off automatic operation for flash pictures or time exposures. We're still arguing over who gets credit for a nice boat picture — the old man with the know-how or the chick who clicked the button.

Various Ways To See Bergen Are Give Tnourists

BERGEN, Norway (UPI) — There are four ways to see Bergen, and every one of them is a delight.

Two of them are aloft — from a (SAS) jetliner at 20,000 or so feet heading into Oslo from New York, and from atop 1,050-foot Mount Florien inside the city. From either vantage point, and in daylight or at night, the city looks like a Rio de Janeiro of the North, wrapped as it is around the base of mountains rising up from the water.

The third way is approaching Bergen by ship or boat through the glistening fjord waters.

And finally by foot or bus right inside the city.

After seeing it all four ways, it's difficult to decide which is best, but the vote must go to walking though the charm and buildings of this 900-year-old port.

IN PAST FIVE YEARS

Russia Makes Big Petroleum Gains

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Crude production gains made by Russia and Communist bloc nations in five years are rather fantastic.

Russia and her satellites since 1956 haves boosted output over 89 per cent. The United States and other free world nations have increased production less than 25 per cent.

TWO POINTS

Recent estimates of Russian production indicate two particular points:

1. Russia currently is challenging or has replaced Venezuela as the world's second leading oil producing nation.

2. Russia and her satellites now account for 15 per cent of world daily output compared to 10 per cent at the time of the 1956 Suez crisis.

Domination of world production by the United States meanwhile has lost ground both to Russia and to other free world producing areas.

In 1956 the United States accounted for over 40 per cent of world daily output and over 45 per cent of free world production. Last March she contributed only 33 per cent of world production and 39 per cent of free world output.

Records maintained by The Oil and Gas Journal indicate world production increased from 17,067,000 barrels a day in October, 1956 — just before bombs closed the Suez Canal—to 22,491,000 a day last March.

The gain amounted to 5,424,000 barrels a day. The Russian bloc contributed nearly one-third of the gain.

Over 81 per cent of total world output in March came from the Russian bloc and seven free world areas—the United States, Venezuela, North Africa, Kuwait, Iran, Saudia Arabia, and Iraq.

Russia and her satellites contributed 30.4 per cent of the 1956-61 gain. Kuwait was a weak runner-up at 11.5 per cent. Iran's contribution to the five-year gain was 9.3 per cent and she was followed North Africa 7.4 per cent, Saudia Arabia 7.1, Venezuela 6.4, the United States 6.1, and Iraq 6.3.

Communist area production jumped from 1,850,000 barrels a day to 3,501,000. This 89 per cent boost was exceeded only by North Africa, which recorded a whopping gain of 923 per cent by boosting output from 44,000 barrels a day to 450,900. The African boom still is under way.

Iran was the only other nation to challenge the Communist gain seriously,, jumping 84.5 per cent by boosting output from 597,000 barrels a day to 1,102,,000. Iran in 1956, however, still was rebuilding production had averaged 704,000 barrels a day.

Since 1956 little Kuwait has jumped its production 42 per cent, from 1,242,000 to 1,868,000. Saudia Arabia has boosted its output from 1,083,000 to 1,472,000 for a 35 per cent gain.

Iraq recorded a 23 per cent gain by moving from 765,000 barrels a day to 948,500. Venezuela meanwhile moved from 2,623,000 to 2,968,400 for a 13 per cent gain.

The United States trailed at only 4.6 per cent, moving from 7,139,000 barrels a day to 7,470,800. Since March, however, domestic output has dropped to 7,105,260 barrels a day.

The record world putout of 22,491,000 in March included records for Kuwait and North Africa. The all-time high for the Communist bloc was a 3,521,000 estimate for February. Saudia Arabia also had a record flow of 1,547,000 in February.

CONTRACTS EXPIRE SOON

Auto Union Sees Advantage

EDITOR'S NOTE — A team of Associated Press reporters recently met for private, off-the-record discussions with each of the top labor negotiators of General Motrs, Ford and Chrysler and their counterparts in the United Auto Workers Union as background for contract talks which open this coming week. the following article is based on opinions voiced at those sessions.

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Automotive Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Union contracts in the auto industry expire just prior to the introduction of the 1962 model cars this fall.

Top negotiators for the United Auto Workers believe this will work to their advantage. Company executives are just as certain the date will make little difference.

"In fact," said a vice president of one of the Big Three companies, "we suggested the Sept. 1 date."

MIDNIGHT

Present three-year contracts at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out at midnight Aug. 31. Previous recent contracts have expired June 1. The difference came when the two sides failed to agree by the deadline in 1958 but continued working on a day to day basis.

Union representatives argue the nearness of the new model introductions—now scheduled to start around Sept. 15—will put considerable pressure on the companies to settle.

They reason that the 1961 models haven't been red-hot sellers, that the companies are counting on a big fourth quarter to make the year a profitable one and to do this they will need the new models in volume. A strike could disrupt the entire quarter.

But one company man counters: "There is no good time for a strike—summer, winter, fall or spring. We always are meeting deadlines on tooling, parts and the like."

The union has been watching carefully for signs the companies might attempt to build unusually heavy inventories in the remaining weeks of the 1961 model year.

"So far," said one UAW leader, "we don't see this happening."

"We would be foolish to count on a strike," one of the company men said. "If it didn't happen, what would we do with all of the cars?"

Some changes from routine are under way, however. All companies will finish their 1961 model production by mid-August at the latest. In recent years some plants have continued into September. All will either be building 1962 models, or ready to build them, by the contract expiration date.

This means that even if there were a strike, some 1962 models of virtually every make would be available to start the new car year.

The companies claim they are willing to try for a settlement much earlier than the final deadline.

"But Walter (Reuther, president of the UAW) has to put on a show for his members," said one company man. "He has to convince them he is getting everything he possibly can. He couldn't possibly settle early with one company and then run the risk of having the negotiators get a little bit extra from another company."

Negotiations on the new contracts open formally this coming week—at General Motors Wednesday, Ford Thursday and Chrysler Friday. Opening statements will be followed by a July 4th recess and then work sessions starting about July 5. American Motors' talks start July 6. Studebaker-Packard's contract does not expire until Oct. 31.

200 Ships Are Idle In Oceans

By JACK LEFLER
AP BUSINESS NEWS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP)—A coast-to-coast maritime strike gripped the nation during the week, cutting down deliveries of vital supplies and threatening more dire effects.

Five seamen's unions struck when their contracts with operators of American flag ships expired.

MORE EXPECTED

By the week's end nearly 200 of the 990 ships in the American flag merchant fleet had been idled on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts. If the strike continues, many more ships are expected to be tied up when they reach port.

Biggest immediate effect was curtailment of oil deliveries to the Atlantic coast. Companies whose tankers were put out of operation included Gulf, Texaco, Cities Service, Sinclair and American.

The oil industry indicated it had a 30-day supply of products on hand. Unaffected companies were keeping their storage tanks full.

The National Maritime Union placed pickets around refineries of Texaco, American, Gulf and Sinclair. Members of some other unions refused to cross picket lines, causing production facilities to shut down.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, in a speech, painted an optimistic picture of the business outlook — if the cold war doesn't turn hot.

"It is probable that by this time next year our economy will be rolling in high gear," he said. "We may well be in the midst of an economic boom."

He predicted the economy will grow by eight per cent next year, putting the federal budget in the black.

For this year he forecast a gross national product—total output of goods and services—of $515 billion, compared with $503 billion for 1960. He projected the 1962 level at $555 billion.

These developments indicated that business is riding a rising tide:

Durable goods manufacture new orders rose in May for the fourth straight month, registering a two per cent gain over April. They totaled $14.9 billion, highest since October 1959.

Personal income in May increased for the third consecutive month, reaching a new high. The Commerce Department reported the seasonally adjusted annual rate climbed to $413.7 billion, an increase of $2.4 billion over the April rate.

New private home starts in May reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,298,000, up eight per cent from April.

The government took another step aimed at stimulating construction and purchase of homes. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board authorized a $1.5-billion expansion in credit available to 4,700 savings and loan associations to finance home construction.

On the monetary front, the Canadian dollar dipped below par with the U.S. dollar in foreign exchange markets for the first time since December 1955. The drop followed introduction of a Canadian budget in which the government spelled out an intention of promoting export by reducing exchange rates on its dollar.

Steel production dipped last week for the third time in a row but remained good at 1.99 million tons.

Selective price cuts continued at a brisk rate with an estimated 128,000 passenger cars turned out, compared with 129,345 the previous week.

Briefly around the business scene: Americans are drinking more than 400 million cups of coffee a day, the Pan-American Coffee Institute reports. . . . Bethlehem Steel Co. poured a 535,000-pound steel ingot—believed to be the biggest ever produced by the vacuum-casting process—for forging into a generator rotor. . . . Average prices in Sears Roebuck & Co.'s 1961 fall-winter catalogue will be one per cent below last year.

State Service Stations Total 322 Per Auto

BATON ROUGE — Latest Census Bureau figures show that Louisiana has 3368 service stations to care for its over one million motor vehicles, the Louisiana Petroleum Council reported today. This is a ratio of one service station for each 322 vehicles.

Citing the recently - released final figure for 1958, the year of the last government count, H. J. Geiger, Chairman of the organization said that although the number of stations represented a 50.4 per cent increase over 1948, the ratio of stations to motor vehicle population declined during the decade. He noted that 10 years ago there was one station for each 229 vehicles.

Vehicle registrations in Louisiana showed an increase of 111.5 per cent over the 512,589 figure in 1948, he pointed out.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A battle of knowhow vs. the automatic camera has been going on in my household lately. I'll settle for a verdict which maintains that know-how PLUS automatic camera makes the best combination for good pictures.

I was testing the Rollei-magic camera, the only automatic 2¼ x 2¼ twin-lens reflex. It measures the light in front of the camera and automatically selects the correct combination of shutter speed and lens opening as the release lever is pressed.

As with all automatic cameras, the film speed must be set. Beyond that, the photographer must attend to one other chore to make each snap a picture: he must focus.

I turned the camera over to my wife and 16-year-old daughter, Barbara, who are typical of so many people to whom the principles of correct exposure are a mystery. But they could fathom the idea of focusing and of observing a moving needle. When they saw it, it meant they had enough light to shoot by.

The testing round was a camera cruise up the Hudson River on which we were accompanied by hundreds of other camera fans. When black-and-white film was switched to Kodacolor, the film speed was changed and caused nary a moment's hesitation to my women. They saw that needle and clicked away.

Then, later, Barbara called for help. We had docked at Bear Mountain and were walking under a ramp when she stopped to shoot the boat in the river. Under the deep shadow of the ramp, however, the needle didn't show. Couldn't she take a picture? she wanted to know.

The situation is one in which an automatic camera goofs, its exposure meter tricked by the heavy shadow of the ramp or sometimes a doorway or tunnel. It would also be fooled if the lighting were reversed — that is, if the camera were in bright light and the subject in the shade.

This is where a little know-how came in handy.

I moved Barbara down the ramp a bit to an open space. There the needle became visible. I told her to press her finger ever so lightly on the release lever . . . but not enough to snap a picture.

As she did so, the needle became rigid, locking the proper exposure combination for that light in place. Then she moved back to her pre-selected position, got ready, and pressed the lever all the way down. The picture was made with the proper exposure.

I never did finish teaching her that the camera can be switched off automatic operation for flash pictures or time exposures. We're still arguing over who gets credit for a nice boat picture — the old man with the know-how or the chick who clicked the button.

Various Ways To See Bergen Are Give Tnourists

BERGEN, Norway (UPI) — There are four ways to see Bergen, and every one of them is a delight.

Two of them are aloft — from a (SAS) jetliner at 20,000 or so feet heading into Oslo from New York, and from atop 1,050-foot Mount Florien inside the city. From either vantage point, and in daylight or at night, the city looks like a Rio de Janeiro of the North, wrapped as it is around the base of mountains rising up from the water.

The third way is approaching Bergen by ship or boat through the glistening fjord waters.

And finally by foot or bus right inside the city.

After seeing it all four ways, it's difficult to decide which is best, but the vote must go to walking though the charm and buildings of this 900-year-old port.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"Would you kindly print how to fit a pattern for someone with a sway-back?"

Dear Mrs. C. K.

Take a fold in your pattern as illustrated. This will take out some of the excess fabric just below the waistline. If you are also rather flat in the back hip section, I would recommend smaller darts, taking up any excess fabric at the side seams.

"Dear Eunice,

"Please tell me how to make a full slip stand out again after it has been washed? I have tried everything, but none of them has really worked out well."

Desperate

Dear Desperate:

As the mother of two teen - age girls, I share your problem and resent the money that we are constantly spending on petticoats. My girls have partially solved this problem by wearing two, three or even four over each other, depending on how limp they are. There seems to be some success in numbers.

If any of you readers have a good idea that has perhaps not been tried before, please send it on as soon as possible and I will share your answer in this column.

TAILORING SLACKS

"Dear Mrs. Farmer,

"I have never seen women's slacks look as neat and well tailored as men's. Is there some special trick used in making men's slacks?"

Mrs. R.E.J.

Dear Mrs. R.E.J.:

First of all, you must adjust the length of the crotch seam. If the crotch seam is too long, the slacks will look baggy no matter how neatly they have been tailored.

Equally important is the way you stitch your slacks or shorts together. If you stitch your inner leg seams in one continuous seam, you will look like you just got off a horse, in other words, your legs will look bowed and the slacks look shapeless.

Stitch each inner leg seam first. In other words, stitch the front to the back. This can be done before the side seams are stitched together.

Now, begin stitching the center front seams together, beginning at the waistline in front, continue through the crotch area and up the center back to the waistline. I would stitch the crotch area twice because of the strain. Clip the seam at this curve to avoid pulling. This is the construction method used in making men's slacks and undoubtedly one of the reasons they look so well.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY:

Waistline Stay.

This is a piece of hem tape that is stitched to the waistline seam to prevent stretching. You may also use grosgrain ribbon for a stay, but this is only tacked to each dart and seam. In either case, fasten the ends to the tape of your zipper.

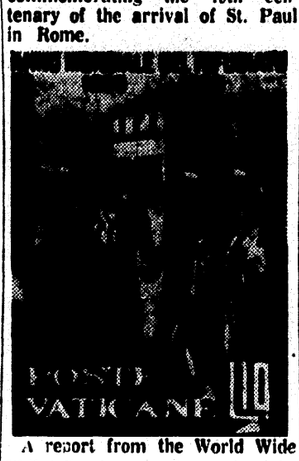
Stamp Set Of Vatican City Is New Issue

Two new beautiful sets of stamps have been issued by Vatican City. One set of six contains reproductions of famous paintings. The 5 lira and 60 lira portray the "Flight From Egypt" by Fra Angelico. The 10 and 100 lira depict St. Peter giving Alms by Masaccio. The 25 and 300 lira show a painting by Piero della Francesca of Madonna of the Mercy.

Also issued by Vatican City was a six value set of stamps commemorating the 19th centenary of the arrival of St. Paul in Rome.



A report from the World Wide Philatelic Agency states that the Vatican has made additional stamp news by donating $400,000, the total net proceeds from its World Refugee Year commemorative stamps, to the United Nations for its refugee program. This is the largest contribution made by any of the 70 countries and territories participating in the stamp plan launched April 7, 1960 with the simultaneous issuance of stamps with surcharges benefitting refugees.

To honor the second anniversary of its constitution, Singapore has issued two new commemorative stamps. The 4 cents brown, yellow and black and the 10 cents green, yellow and black have a common design featuring four clasped hands against a background map of Singapore. The event being honored, reports the Crown Agents, is a national holiday.

San Marino has issued a "hunting" set of beautiful design. The 1 L illustrates the hunting of roebuck. The 2 L depicts a falconer. The 3 L pictures the hunting of wild boar. The 4 L depicts crossbow hunting. The 5 L portrays a stag hunt. The 10 L shows a falconer on horseback. The 30 L sees a beater with dogs, the 60 L a hunter with dogs, and the 70 L a hunter and beater. The 115 L is a scene displaying a duck hunt.

India has issued a new commemorative stamp to honor Maharaj, leader of the Mahrattas. In the 17th Century the Mahrattas declared independence from the Mogul Empire.

Girl Scout News

The "Mississippi Mermaids" are well on their way by now. They are the Girl Scouts who are making the trip down the Mississippi on the steamer Avalon. Today they are in Natchez, where plans were for all to attend church services, visit one of the ante-bellum homes, have lunch in the park with an equal number of girls from the Middle Mississippi council. Mickie Varnado is serving as patrol leader of the group from our council, with Gayle Smith as assistant.

Taught by Mrs. E. E. White, the first sewing class was held at the agricultural building in West Monroe. Girls who participated, learning how to use a sewing machine and making a simple apron were Sharon Chambless, Shelia Wyles, Patricia Johnson, Nancy Garrett, Janet Brown, Judy Johnson, Jennifer Sims, Beck Sanford, Pamela Perryman, and Bernie McWilliams. The next sewing class is scheduled for the week beginning July 31.

A change has been made in the schedule of the cooking class to be taught at Louisiana Power and Light Company. Dates have been set now for July 31 - August 11, Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays, from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. Anyone enrolled who cannot attend on the above dates should cancel by calling the office. There are still a few vacancies for the class. Girls in the sixth or seventh grade next fall are eligible.

Now is a good time for parents of 200 girls enrolled in the first session of day camp to reread the camp folder. Be sure that daughter has a metal drinking cup with a handle, that she has shirts, that cover the shoulder, and sturdy shoes to protect her feet. Rules are made for the protection of the camper.

The Friday the rains started was the day selected by the troops of Winnsboro to spend a day at Pine Wood. In a cold drizzle, buses unloaded 75 girls from 6 troops, with the accompanying adults, Mrs. H. P. Stein, Mrs. Roy Taylor, Mrs. Lee Green, Mrs. Delton McCarty, Mrs. J. D. Naremore, Mrs. Turnbough. A fire in the big fireplace soon made things cozy and games and singing, with time out for lunch, comprised the day.

Monroe girls who went out for the day to help the girls get acquainted with the camp were Gay Gannaway, Mary Ann Atkinson, Marilyn Maxwell, Kyle Gregory, Kathy Coon, Susan DeMasterson, Judy Johnson, Tonette Albright, Judy Varnado, Mickie Varnado and Robbie Hicks, with Mrs. N. L. Huckabee and Miss Annis Klie.

Enjoying their first troop camp at Pine Wood recently were the girls of Troop 23, accompanied by Mrs. B. B. McWhorter, leader, and Mrs. Porter Barton. Cooking supper on Friday night was followed by campfire singing, paper bag dramatics, and games by flashlight. The girls also enjoyed a short hike at dusk.

Deas Parrish, Senior Scout, and Vickie Hayden and Mary Alice Einhorn hwlped teach campcraft skills, demonstrating tent pitching, among other things. Girls participating were Betsy Einhorn, Betty Plair, Susan McWhorter, Beverly Rogers, Kathleen Newcomer, Gail Roberson, Linda Hasenplaugh, Jeannette Fredericks, Diane Barton, Marilyn Bedgood, Linda Gatlin, Becky Bennett, Paula Hayden and Jean Dana.

Goldwater Says Voters Tired Of Appeasing Reds

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater said Friday night voters "sick and tired of our inept, weak-kneed manner of dealing with Communist dictators" will sweep the Republican party to a landslide victory in the 1962 congressional elections.

"All the elements needed for a sweep of landslide proportions in the congressional and senatorial elections are present," the conservative Arizona Republican said in an address at the National Young Republican Federation convention.

"There is widespread and growing dissatisfaction with the New Frontier. There is a new enthusiasm in Republican ranks. There is a whole army of new recruits rising up to help us do the job."

Goldwater appeared before the GOP junior organization's meeting a few hours after one of two conservative candidates for chairman of the YGOP withdrew from the race and threw his support to a Goldwater supporter.

Robert Berrey III of Kansas City, Mo., gave his backing to Robert Hughes, Indiana state treasurer and pro-Goldwater man because he feared the third candidate, a supporter of Richard M. Nixon, was "too far left."

Hughes and the Nixon man, Leonard Nadasdy of Minneapolis, will fight it out for the chairmanship in Saturday's election.

TRAPPED MINERS DIE

WOMBELL, England (UPI)—Four miners who were trapped 1,710 feet below the surface were found dead early Tuesday after an all-night attempt to rescue them. The miners were caught Monday by a cave-in which caused gas to escape at the Cortonwood Colliery. Five other men trapped with them were brought safely to the surface shortly before midnight.

Stamp Set Of Vatican City Is New Issue

Two new beautiful sets of stamps have been issued by Vatican City. One set of six contains reproductions of famous paintings. The 5 lira and 60 lira portray the "Flight From Egypt" by Fra Angelico. The 10 and 100 lira depict St. Peter giving Alms by Masaccio. The 25 and 300 lira show a painting by Piero della Francesca of Madonna of the Mercy.

Also issued by Vatican City was a six value set of stamps commemorating the 19th centenary of the arrival of St. Paul in Rome.

A report from the World Wide Philatelic Agency states that the Vatican has made additional stamp news by donating $460,000, the total net proceeds from its World Refugee Year commemorative stamps, to the United Nations for its refugee program. This is the largest contribution made by any of the 76 countries and territories participating in the stamp plan launched April 7, 1960 with the simultaneous issuance of stamps with surcharges benefitting refugees.

To honor the second anniversary of its constitution, Singapore has issued two new commemorative stamps. The 4 cents brown, yellow and black and the 10 cents green, yellow and black have a common design featuring four clasped hands against a background map of Singapore. The event being honored, reports the Crown Agents, is a national holiday.

San Marino has issued a "hunting" set of beautiful design. The 1 L illustrates the hunting of roebuck. The 2 L depicts a falconer. The 3 L pictures the hunting of wild boar. The 4 L depicts crossbow hunting. The 5 L portrays a stag hunt. The 10 L shows a falconer on horseback. The 30 L sees a beater with dogs, the 60 L a hunter with dogs, and the 70 L a hunter and beater. The 115 L is a scene displaying a duck hunt.

India has issued a new commemorative stamp to honor Maharaj, leader of the Mahrattas. In the 17th Century the Mahrattas declared independence from the Mogul Empire.

Girl Scout News

The "Mississippi Mermaids" are well on their way by now. They are the Girl Scouts who are making the trip down the Mississippi on the steamer Avalon. Today they are in Natchez, where plans were for all to attend church services, visit one of the ante-bellum homes, have lunch in the park with an equal number of girls from the Middle Mississippi council. Mickie Varnado is serving as patrol leader of the group from our council, with Gayle Smith as assistant.

Taught by Mrs. E. E. White, the first sewing class was held at the agricultural building in West Monroe. Girls who participated, learning how to use a sewing machine and making a simple apron were Sharon Chambless, Shelia Wyles, Patricia Johnson, Nancy Garrett, Janet Brown, Judy Johnson, Jennifer Sims, Beck Sanford, Pamela Perryman, and Bernie McWilliams. The next sewing class is scheduled for the week beginning July 31.

A change has been made in the schedule of the cooking class to be taught at Louisiana Power and Light Company. Dates have been set now for July 31 - August 11, Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays, from 9:30 until 11:30 a.m. Anyone enrolled who cannot attend on the above dates should cancel by calling the office. There are still a few vacancies for the class. Girls in the sixth or seventh grade next fall are eligible.

Now is a good time for parents of 200 girls enrolled in the first session of day camp to reread the camp folder. Be sure that daughter has a metal drinking cup with a handle, that she has shirts, that cover the shoulder, and sturdy shoes to protect her feet. Rules are made for the protection of the camper.

The Friday the rains started was the day selected by the troops of Winnsboro to spend a day at Pine Wood. In a cold drizzle, buses unloaded 75 girls from 6 troops, with the accompanying adults, Mrs. H. P. Stein, Mrs. Roy Taylor, Mrs. Lee Green, Mrs. Delton McCarty, Mrs. J. D. Naremore, Mrs. Turnbough. A fire in the big fireplace soon made things cozy and games and singing, with time out for lunch, comprised the day.

Monroe girls who went out for the day to help the girls get acquainted with the camp were Gay Gannaway, Mary Ann Atkinson, Marilyn Maxwell, Kyle Gregory, Kathy Coon, Susan DeMasterson, Judy Johnson, Tonette Albright, Judy Varnado, Mickie Varnado and Robbie Hicks, with Mrs. N. L. Huckabee and Miss Annis Klie.

Enjoying their first troop camp at Pine Wood recently were the girls of Troop 23, accompanied by Mrs. B. B. McWhorter, leader, and Mrs. Porter Barton. Cooking supper on Friday night was followed by campfire singing, paper bag dramatics, and games by flashlight. The girls also enjoyed a short hike at dusk.

Deas Parrish, Senior Scout, and Vickie Hayden and Mary Alice Einhorn hwlped teach campcraft skills, demonstrating tent pitching, among other things. Girls participating were Betsy Einhorn, Betty Plair, Susan McWhorter, Beverly Rogers, Kathleen Newcomer, Gail Roberson, Linda Haseaplaugh, Jeannette Fredericks, Diane Barton, Marilyn Bedgood, Linda Gatlin, Becky Bennett, Paula Hayden and Jean Dana.

Goldwater Says Voters Tired Of Appeasing Reds

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater said Friday night voters "sick and tired of our inept, weak-kneed manner of dealing with Communist dictators" will sweep the Republican party to a landslide victory in the 1962 congressional elections.

"All the elements needed for a sweep of landslide proportions in the congressional and senatorial elections are present," the conservative Arizona Republican said in an address at the National Young Republican Federation convention.

"There is widespread and growing dissatisfaction with the New Frontier. There is a new enthusiasm in Republican ranks. There is a whole army of new recruits rising up to help us do the job."

Goldwater appeared before the GOP junior organization's meeting a few hours after one of two conservative candidates for chairman of the YGOP withdrew from the race and threw his support to a Goldwater supporter.

Robert Berrey III of Kansas City, Mo., gave his backing to Robert Hughes, Indiana state treasurer and pro-Goldwater man because he feared the third candidate, a supporter of Richard M. Nixon, was "too far left."

Hughes and the Nixon man, Leonard Nadasdy of Minneapolis, will fight it out for the chairmanship in Saturday's election.

TRAPPED MINERS DIE

WOMBELL, England (UPI)—Four miners who were trapped 1,710 feet below the surface were found dead early Tuesday after an all-night attempt to rescue them. The miners were caught Monday by a cave-in which caused gas to escape at the Cortonwood Colliery. Five other men trapped with them were brought safely to the surface shortly before midnight.

Tops In TV Modest In Movie Roles

By JAMES BACON
(AP Movie-TV Writer)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jack (Maverick) Kelly is one of television's biggest stars. But he is willing, in movies, to play second or third leads.

"I just want to be in a good movie in a good part—not as the star. I feel that I have time enough to make that."

Kelley's reasoning is sounder than that of most TV stars, and refreshingly modest for an actor. The movie box office record of most TV stars is disastrous.

BELIEF

The thinking around Hollywood studios is that the public will not pay to see someone they see free. Kelly, a better than average movie actor before he turned to TV, is inclined to agree.

"I say let the Elizabeth Taylors and the John Waynes carry the pictures at the box office, but don't give the second or third leads to unknowns who don't mean a nickel at the box office. TV stars do have a name."

Kelly, 33, is a member of a distinguished acting family. He's acted most of his life. He is the brother of actress Nancy Kelly.

He's handsome, virile and talented. He's under exclusive contract to Warners with six more years to go. He doesn't feel that his TV exposure is hurting him moviewise.

EXPOSURE

"Early in their careers, Gable and Cooper often appeared in ten pictures a year. You have to have exposure to get known in this business."

An added Kelly asset is his wife, Donna. As an actress she was known professionally as May Wynn. The onetime Copa girl is one of the most striking beauties in filmland, but she hasn't acted in two years—by her own choice.

She prefers to write, and already has got some TV scripts in the hopper at Warner Bros. One is a "Maverick" script, expertly tailored to her husband's talents.

"I'm a lucky guy," says Kelly. "Here I thought I was getting a nice wife, with a pretty face, and she turns out to be a writer too."

PAUL NEWMAN, as Ari Ben Canaan, and Eva Marie Saint, as Kitty Fremont, are shown in a scene from Otto Preminger's production of "Exodus." The film, which was shot on location in Israel and Cyprus in Technicolor and Super-Panavision 70 widescreen, will have its northeast Louisiana premiere opening Thursday at the downtown Delta Theatre.

Cantinflas Starring In Film 'Pepe'

Bursting with a new excitement in screen entertainment, George Sidney's production of the Cantinflas' starrer, "Pepe," new Columbia release co-starring Dan Dailey and Shirley Jones and including a talent - loaded contingent of 35 guest stars, opens today at the Paramount Theatre. An entertainment feast for the entire family, "Pepe" is crammed with fun, music, color, variety and pageantry, beautifully filmed in CinemaScope and Eastman Color.

HEADING TALENT

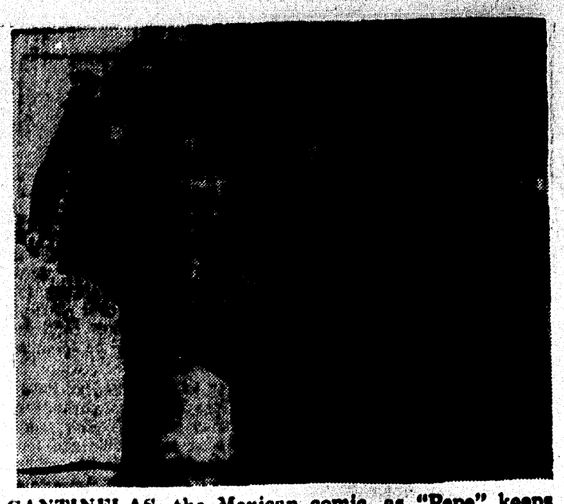
Heading the awesome parade of talent in "Pepe" is, of course, Cantinflas himself. A superlative artist, Cantinflas' comedy has a warmth and poigancy about it that stabs at the heart. As "Pepe," he plays a simple - hearted peon ranchhand who, through his devotion to a horse he had raised from a colt, adventures to Hollywood, Las Vegas, Mexico City, Acapulco and Taxco.

He has amusing encounters with such guest stars as Maurice Chevalier, Bing Crosby, Michael Callan, Richard Conte, Bobby Darin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Jimmy Durante, Zsa Zsa Gabor, The Voice of Judy Garland, Greer Garson, Hedda Hopper, Joey Bishop, Ernie Kovacs, Peter Lawford, Janet Leigh, Jack Lemmon, Jay "Dennis the Menace" North; Kim Novak, Andre Previn, Donna Reed, Debbie Reynolds, Edward G. Robinson, Caesar Romero, Frank Sinatra and many, many more.

ATTACHES

Cantinflas attaches himself to Dan Dailey, a motion picture director who, to salvage his skidding career, has opportunistically acquired the animal the little comedian loves. Dailey hopes to persuade Robinson, who covets the horse, to back him in a Mexican location film. Cantinflas also meets and falls in love with beautiful Shirley Jones, an aspiring actress; she, in turn, reserves her love for Dan Dailey. The complications are ironed out with entertaining finesse by director - producer Sidney.

Dailey sings, dances and acts his way through one of his greatest performances. Shirely Jones is as beautiful and delightful in her own triple - threat stint. And Cantinflas is, of course, superb as "Pepe," the man who is friendly with the world.



CANTINFLAS, the Mexican comic, as "Pepe" keeps pace with Dan Dailey, left, and Maurice Chevalier, center, in George Sidney's production of "Pepe," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

ROLLICKING COMEDY opening today at the Jim Theatre stars Tony Martin and Shirley MacLaine, along with Cliff Robertson. The film, "All In A Night's Work," is in Technicolor.

Models' Agent Has Interesting Office Location

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mary Webb Davis, agent for some of Hollywood's top models, has offices at one of the most interesting addresses in town.

Her model agency is at 8532 Sunset Blvd., next to Dino's Lodge. That's right, it's her canopy and door that are used in "77 Sunset Strip."

"I think more people visit here than Disneyland," she quips, "they come from everywhere. I've even had them from Australia. And when the men see our beautiful models it's a job getting them out."

DANCE FESTIVAL SET

BOSTON (AP) — A new dance festival is being inaugurated at Boston this summer with a program of round-the-world performers.

Star Impressed With Home-Made Bread In U.S.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sonja Ziemann, who costarred with Richard Widmark in "The Secret Ways," made her first visit to America to help plug the picture. She hit big and small towns from New York to Hollywood.

What was her most memorable impression of America?

"I visited Lancaster, Pa.," says the Berlin-born actress. "There I met the Pennsylvania Dutch people. They speak a German like I'd never heard before. I even ate dinner with some Pennsylvania Dutch people and was amazed to find that they still bake their own bread. I guess that bread was the most memorable thing that happened to me. I never thought I would find home-baked bread in modern America."

Mickey Mouse Children Club Being Planned

Children of the greater Monroe area will be treated to six mornings of entertainment at the downtown Paramount theatre this summer. Ted Hatfield, manager of the Paramount Theatre has just announced that the Royal Crown Bottling Company of Monroe and West Monroe is co-sponsoring the six Mickey Mouse Theatre parties this year for youngsters, free. All the children have to do is spring six Royal Crown bottle caps with them to the theatre.

VARIETY

The Mickey Mouse Club parties this year will be made up of stage, screen and variety entertainment. Educators, women's clubs and other groups interested in controlling the leisure time of the young people of Twin Cities have endorsed the program as a vital need in the summertime.

Programs consisting of carefully selected features, cartoons, giveaways, contests and games have been scheduled for the greatest possible entertainment of the youngsters. The shows will run approximately two hours long. The first Mickey Mouse Club party will take place on Tuesday, July 11, at the Paramount Theatre, at 10:00 a.m.

For the youngsters these programs have been planned specifically according to their own preferences. Each program or party will have a different pattern.

An added Kelly asset is his wife, Donna. As an actress she was known professionally as May Wynn. The onetime Copa girl is one of the most striking beauties in filmland, but she hasn't acted in two years—by her own choice.

She prefers to write, and already has got some TV scripts in the hopper at Warner Bros. One is a "Maverick" script, expertly tailored to her husband's talents.

"I'm a lucky guy," says Kelly. "Here I thought I was getting a nice wife, with a pretty face, and she turns out to be a writer too."

PAUL NEWMAN, as Ari Ben Canaan, and Eva Marie Saint, as Kitty Fremont, are shown in a scene from Otto Preminger's production of "Exodus." Cantinflas Starring In Film 'Pepe'

Bursting with a new excitement in screen entertainment, George Sidney's production of the Cantinflas' starrer, "Pepe," new Columbia release co-starring Dan Dailey and Shirley Jones and including a talent - loaded contingent of 35 guest stars, opens today at the Paramount Theatre. An entertainment feast for the entire family, "Pepe" is crammed with fun, music, color, variety and pageantry, beautifully filmed in Cinema-Scope and Eastman Color.

HEADING TALENT

Heading the awesome parade of talent in "Pepe" is, of course, Cantinflas himself. A superlative artist, Cantinflas' comedy has a warmth and poigancy about it that stabs at the heart. As "Pepe," he plays a simple - hearted peon ranchhand who, through his devotion to a horse he had raised from a colt, adventures to Hollywood, Las Vegas, Mexico City, Acapulco and Taxco.

He has amusing encounters with such guest stars as Maurice Chevalier, Bing Crosby, Michael Callan, Richard Conte, Bobby Darin, Sammy Davis, Jr., Jimmy Durante, Zsa Zsa Gabor, The Voice of Judy Garland, Greer Garson, Hedda Hopper, Joey Bishop, Ernie Kovacs, Peter Lawford, Janet Leigh, Jack Lemmon, Jay "Dennis the Menace" North; Kim Novak, Andre Previn, Donna Reed, Debbie Reynolds, Edward G. Robinson, Caesar Romero, Frank Sinatra and many, many more.

ATTACHES

Cantinflas attaches himself to Dan Dailey, a motion picture director who, to salvage his skidding career, has opportunistically acquired the animal the little comedian loves. Dailey hopes to persuade Robinson, who covets the horse, to back him in a Mexican location film. Cantinflas also meets and falls in love with beautiful Shirley Jones, an aspiring actress; she, in turn, reserves her love for Dan Dailey. The complications are ironed out with entertaining finesse by director - producer Sidney.

Dailey sings, dances and acts his way through one of his greatest performances. Shirely Jones is as beautiful and delightful in her own triple - threat stint. And Cantinflas is, of course, superb as "Pepe," the man who is friendly with the world.

CANTINFLAS, the Mexican comic, as "Pepe" keeps pace with Dan Dailey, left, and Maurice Chevalier, center, in George Sidney's production of "Pepe," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

ROLLICKING COMEDY opening today at the Jim Theatre stars Tony Martin and Shirley MacLaine, along with Cliff Robertson. The film, "All In A Night's Work," is in Technicolor.

Models' Agent Has Interesting Office Location

Her model agency is at 8532 Sunset Blvd., next to Dino's Lodge. That's right, it's her canopy and door that are used in "77 Sunset Strip."

"I think more people visit here than Disneyland," she quips, "they come from everywhere. I've even had them from Australia. And when the men see our beautiful models it's a job getting them out."

Star Impressed With Home-Made Bread In U.S.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sonja Ziemann, who costarred with Richard Widmark in "The Secret Ways," made her first visit to America to help plug the picture. She hit big and small towns from New York to Hollywood.

What was her most memorable impression of America?

"I visited Lancaster, Pa.," says the Berlin-born actress. "There I met the Pennsylvania Dutch people. They speak a German like I'd never heard before. I even ate dinner with some Pennsylvania Dutch people and was amazed to find that they still bake their own bread. I guess that bread was the most memorable thing that happened to me. I never thought I would find home-baked bread in modern America."

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Carefree Vs. Organized

Another man's opinion are usually always worthy of consideration, and when Bill Carter called "Happy Sandlot Games A Thing of the Past For Kid Baseballers" in his column for the Alexandria Town Talk recently we thought he did a pretty good job of sizing up a situation that has become national in scope.

We've called attention to the rewards and pitfalls of organized kids' baseball in the past while supporting the leagues with the idea that everything possible should be done for our youth. But a constant guard must be maintained to keep the programs healthy.

Since Monroe and West Monroe now abound in kids' baseball programs that so well fit Alexandria's picture we decided Bill Carter's story might well be received by some of our readers. You'll surely recognize the fact that he could well be writing about our own problems.

So here's Bill Carter's story:

"The days of the old sandlot baseball games are over. No more lickings when you come home with your pants torn from a slide into home plate, after choosing up sides for a no-time-limit game on a vacant lot with too-close window panes.

"This is something my nine-year-old has never experienced. He never will. He plays in the Civitan League. He came home the other day with a complete uniform that would have been the envy of the Evangeline League not too many years ago.

"He looked pretty snazzy. Like all parents, I thought he was sharp in his outfit. How can I convince him I had more fun playing baseball at his age? Or can I really convince myself?

"Late last season, some of the managers in the Little Boys program became dissatisfied with the way the league was being operated. They pulled out and joined the Little League, a national organization for boys the same age as Little Boys.

"This year, the Civitan League branched out, outfitting its youngsters in complete uniforms, with an organization the equal of Little Boys and Little League in facilities.

"Now, there are three leagues here in competition with each other for boys aged up to 12.

"Parents who have youngsters in these programs probably won't agree, but I'm afraid the programs are becoming too organized, as has been charged.

"I have never agreed with the so-called experts who write articles blasting youth baseball programs for boys 12 and under. Competition is good for kids, especially after they reach a certain age. But I am afraid the strict, solid organization will take some of the fun out of the sport for the little ones.

"News editor Cecil Williams told me once: "I used to think people became doctors and lawyers and millionaires only because they couldn't make the big leagues."

"I used to feel the same way when I was a kid. But I can remember that I also did other things during summer vacation, like going swimming or playing cowboys and Indians. I don't believe I would have continued to enjoy baseball as much if our programs had been as organized as they are today.

"Any boy of school age who doesn't play in a league now and own a uniform just doesn't rate with the gang in the neighborhood. And I don't believe that's good.

"I have always thought of a uniform in any sport as something to be cherished, but earned. When a youngster is given one before he actually earns it, he is apt to be spoiled and eventually disillusioned.

"The one bit of criticism offered in blasts against youth programs I do agree with is interference by the parents. The parents mean well, I'm sure, but many have a tendency to interfere too much.

"Every now and then a parent will call to complain about his or her boy not getting enough publicity in The Town Talk. I don't have much patience with them.

"It is our policy not to go overboard. There are a lot of leagues here in Alexandria, Pineville and Tioga. We try to give equal coverage, according to age, without building up the hopes of a boy who might be inclined to believe his future as a professional player is brighter than it actually is.

"A mother might be interested only in her youngster. I am interested in all of them. It isn't always easy to please everybody. If you please one mother by heaping praise on her son, you more than likely make mad all the mothers whose sons weren't mentioned.

"It's a losing battle.

"If the little ones can be left alone, I'm sure they will be all right. They aren't nearly as interested in publicity as mom and dad might be.

"He has plenty of time for publicity. If it starts in the subteens, it won't mean as much when he gets in high school and college, not to mention the possibility of being burned out. And he will appreciate recognition more in high school and college, if it isn't already old hat to him."

Rayville Serves Warning

Rayville High School, which recently lured Embry Pickett away from Newellton as head football coach, serves warning to Class A district two rivals that the Hornets are continuing plans to make a bigger noise in conference athletics.

A new and bigger staff of assistants has been selected for Pickett.

To better acquaint Rayville followers with their new coaches we furnish these statistics:

BURNLEY—1951 graduate of Delhi High School where he played four years of football as an end, two years of basketball, and one of baseball; 1957 graduate of Louisiana Tech with two years varsity experience as end for Joe Aillet's Bulldogs; 1957-58 assistant coach for Woody Boyles at Hallsville (Tex.) High; 1958-59 assistant to Boyles after latter's move to Oak Grove High; married to the former Miss Glenda Canady; has two-year-old son, Kevin Dale.

McKINSTRY — Graduate of Bastrop High School where he was a football quarterback, played basketball, baseball, and was a member of the track team; two years of varsity basketball and track at Louisiana Tech; no previous coaching experience; married to the former Judy Green of Rayville.

SIKES — Native of Winnsboro, La., but a high school graduate from Coronado, Calif., where he was a football halfback and participated in basketball, track, and baseball; attended Stanford University and spent two years at the United States Naval Academy where he played football and baseball (his Navy grid career was ended by a rib fracture that punctured a lung); a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State; no previous coaching experience) 28 years old and single.

Palmer Gets Ahead; Nicklaus Wins

Makes Most Of Putting To Get A 67

By CHARLES C. CAIN

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Arnold Palmer made the most of a red-hot putter for a 4-under - par 67 Saturday and a two-storke lead at the three-quarter mark in the 72-hole Western Open Golf tournament.

Palmer, co-leader at 135 with Don January of Dallas when the day's play began at Blythefield Country Club, picked up five birdies as he posted a 202 total.

He fought off the determined challenge of Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., who also shot a 67 for a 204 total and second place. Sanders practically burned the course up on his outgoing nine as he carded 31—5-under-par—but he settled for a bogey and eight pars on the back nine as his short putts cooled off.

Palmer sank birdie putts on the four 5-par holes and added another on a 4-par. That one was a 45-footer.

January skyrocketed to a 76, nine strokes off the pace, as he had trouble hitting the greens.

Butch Baird, of Galveston, Tex., wound up in third place at 205 firing a 69 for his third sub-par round in a row.

Gene Littler, of Singing Hills, Calif., the National Open champion, shot a 3-under-par 68 for a 211 total, nine strokes off the pace.

Gary Player, the Master's champion, had a nightmarish seventh hole as he carded a nine—the highest single hole score in the first three days of the tournament. He settled for a 74 and a 214 mark.

Player's drive landed blow a tree and snuggled under a branch 4 inches off the ground. He elected to play it out and got down on his hands and knees to try to punch the ball.

He fanned on his first two sings, hit a divot on his third, and finally nudged the ball out on his fourth try. Still in the rough, he tried a three-wood to the green but was short.

Adds Trophy By Beating Podolski

By DALE BURGESS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus added the National Collegiate golf trophy to his roomful of cups Saturday in an all-Ohio State final of the 64th NCAA championship.

He led from the first green and beat back a late rally by Mike Podolski, 5 and 3.

Nicklaus, 21, who hits both long and straight, was 6-under-par for the 33 holes. Podolski finished exactly even over the hilly par 71 Purdue South course.

The new NCAA champion was high amateur in the U. S. Open last week for the second straight year and he dominated the college affair from the time he won the qualifying medal with a pair of 70s.

Nicklaus shot 8 birdies, 23 pars and 2 bogies in the final and won 10 holes. Podolski had 6 birds, 21 pars and 6 bogies, winning three of the last six holes but capturing only five all together.

Five-down after 27 holes, Podolski rapped in a 40-foot birdie putt on the 28th, lost No. 29 on a bad chip and took the 30th when Nicklaus three-putted. Podolski birdied the short 31st hole with a 10-foot putt but that ended his challenge.

Nicklaus won the 32nd with a 2-foot birdie putt. Podolski missed the green on the 32nd, chipped too hard and conceded Nicklaus a 6-foot birdie putt.

STYRON FOURTH

Budd Buries Century Mark With 9.2 AAU Standard

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Rocket Budd of Villanova smashed another "impossible barrier when he ran a world record 9.2 second 100-yard dash and Bobby Avant of the Southern California Striders shocked John Thomas in the high jump Saturday as the National AAU Track and Field Championships started a two-day run.

A crowd of 9,456 turned out in Downing Stadium on Randalls Island to watch the 73rd edition of the event. A heavy rain had fallen most of the morning, but by the time Budd got on the track, it had dried out.

Budd, a 20-year-old junior who never had done much before this year, warmed up to his task by winning his two heats in :09.4, tying the meet record.

Then, in the final, he edged teammate Paul Drayton by about a yard going away.

Avant and Thomas each hit 7 feet on the third and final try in the high jump. But Avant won by clearing 6-10 on his first shot at the height. Thomas missed once at 6-10 and in the case of ties, the fewest number of misses down the line decides the title.

Eight finals were held on the first day and the first two finishers in each were rewarded with spots on the team that will take on Russia, West Germany, England and Poland in Olympic-style meets next month.

Ralph Boston of Tennessee A&I, who has a world record of 27 feet ½ inch pending, won the broad jump easily with a 26-11¼ effort, tying his recognized world record.

Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., captured the 120-yard high hurdles title for the second year in a row in :13.6, barely beating out Fran Washington of the Santa Clara, Calif. Youth Village, who also was clocked in :13.6.

Dallas Long of the Southern California Striders downed old master Parry O'Brien in the shot-put with a heave of 62 feet 2 inches. The best O'Brien could do was 61-3¼ for second place.

John Fromm of Seattle won the javelin throw with a flip of 249 feet 11½ inches. Defending champion Al Cantelo of Philadelphia scratched at the last minute. Bill Alley of Lawrence, Kan., the favorite in Cantello's absence, was second with a 239-½ effort.

Coach Cites Grambling Ace As Best

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — The following prediction will surprise a lot of folks and produce some anguished howls, but Coach Eddie Robinson of Grambling declares that the best lineman on the 1961 college All-Star squad will be his own Earnest Ladd.

Without the slightest hesitation, Robinson says three won't be an All-Star tackle even close to him in all-round proficiency and ability.

The same could be said for size as the 6-9 290-pound giant will be the biggest man on Coach Otto Graham's talented squad. He wears a size 18 EEE shoe.

However, size is not Ladd's only asset. On the field his forte is ruggedness and he is duddlesome as a man-eating tiger.

Whenever there is a collision that produces an unusual number of decibels, Robinson avers that the odds are twenty-to-one that "Little Samson" will have something to do with it.

Ladd has a murderous defensive charge and a rare ability to diagnose plays.

His fame has been confined mostly to southern small-college circles where belabored coaches and players avow that if he isn't All-American, then neither was Abe Lincoln.

"Little Samson" was largely credited with the tight defensive scheme that enabled Grambling to post a 9-1 record last season.

"He made so many solo tackles, it became monotonous," the coach said.

Robinson extols his offensive work as equally stunning.

"Ladd is an excellent blocker along the line of scrimmage, on trap plays and straight - ahead thrusts. He is highly competitive and has a lot of football savvy."

The Orange, Texas native has explosive speed for a big man, pursues the ball tenaciously, requires blockers on plays which don't come his way and is able to veer his angle without the loss of speed or power.

Ladd is the only small - college player on the All-Star quad.

He will play with the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League this fall.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman said "Everybody who has seen Ladd tells me he is the finest football player ever to come out of that area. Based on what I've seen of him in game movies. I'd have to agree.

"Grambling is the Louisiana college that produced Paul "Tank" Younger for the Los Angeles Rams and Willie Davis of the Green Bay Packers."

Ladd's huge frame is going to look mighty impressive to the Philadelphia Eagles in Chicago on August 4. They might find it an invitation to disaster not to give him special double-teaming attention.

Last Yankee Eliminated In FA Golf

DEAUVILLE, France (AP) — Billy Pierce of Britain and Jacques Moerman of Belgium battled into the finals of the French Amateur Golf Championship Saturday after Moerman eliminated the lone American left in the tourney.

Morton Olman, Cincinnati, Real estate broker, defeated E. Carbonnelle of Belgium, 1-up, in a tough quarter-final match that went 19 holes. However, in the afternoon, Olman — noticeably tired — lost to Moerman 8-7.

"I was just tired out," said Olman, making his first bid in a big international event. "I came over here to rest and I end up almost working myself to death on a golf course."

Olman had a par 35-37—72 over the 6,500 yard course for the first 18-holes in his battle with Carbonnelle. He was 1-up going into the 18th hole, but the Belgian birdied the hole to level the match.

Olman shot a par on the 19th, following his tee shot with an 8-iron drive that carried to the green and two-putts. Carbonnelle's second shot went over the green. He chipped back on and then two-putted for a bogey 5.

"I didn't even keep score in the second round—I was that much off my game," said Olman with a tired sigh.

In the quarter-finals, Moerman defeated Britain's Lorne Williamson, 3-1. Pierce's quarter-final victory was 1-up over Charles Dugan Chapman of Britain. Pierce then defeated J. P. Hirigoyen of France, 4-3, to gain the finals.

Hirigoyen gained the semifinals by defeating France's Jean-Louis Dupont, 1-up.

Orleans Doge

BOSTON (AP)—Coming from some 14 lengths off the leaders with a half mile to go, Orleans Doge won the $10,000-added Constitution Stakes at Suffolk Downs Saturday.

Adios Butler

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Adios Butler, world's fastest standardbred, won his third straight race Saturday night by taking the $25,000 Dr. Stanton free-for-all pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

The 5-year-old pacing phenom breezed to an effortless 2¼-length victory over Apmat, covering the mile in 2:00 2-5.

When Stephan Smith challenged in the final quarter, Adios Butler was more than equal to the task, blazing a :28 2-5 final quarter.

Apmat, driven by Billy Haughton, finished strongly to gain the place spot over Stephan Smith by a half length. A neck back in fourt place was Mr. Budlong. Tar Boy wound up fifth, followed by Royal Rick and False Step.

Adios Butler, the 3-5 favorite with a crowd of 37,371, returned $3.20, $2.70 and $2.30.

Braves Bomb Chicago To Tune Of 13-4

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves unloaded their heaviest barrage of the season in crushing the Chicago Cubs 13-4 Saturday as former bonus prize Tony Cloninger picked up his first major league victory with relief help after a heavy thunderstorm.

The Braves broke loose for 16 hits, including homers by Joe Adcock and Joe Torre and three doubles, in providing the 20-year-old Cloninger his first victory in his second start since being called from the minors two weeks ago.

Cloninger surrendered only two hits in the first six innings but the Cubs combined them with walks for a pair of runs in the fourth and one in the sixth.

The rookie right-hander was tagged for another run on two hits and then gave up a walk before rain caused a 47-minute delay. When play was resumed relief specialist Claude Raymond took over and preserved the victory.

UCLA Cinch For Tie In NCAA Tennis

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Led by its outstanding team captain, Allen Fox, UCLA earned at least a tie for the team championship of the National Collegiate Tennis Tournament Saturday but failed to clinch it by losing in the doubles semifinals.

Fox, top-seeded in the singles, advanced to Sunday's final for the individual crown, giving the Bruins 16 points for the tourney.

Southern California, with 15 points at the close of the day's play, could share in the team championship if its top-seeded doubles team—Raefel Osuna and Ramsey Earnhart—wins in the final.

Fox will meet Ray Senkowski, Michigan's Big Ten titlist.

Bill Hoogs and Jim McManus of the University of California will meet the Osuna-Earnhart duo for the doubles championship.

Fox defeated Hoogs 6-1, 6-3, 7-5 in the singles semifinals and eight ranked Senkowski upset Earnhart, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Both of the doubles matches were extended to four sets.

Hoogs-McManus beat Fox and teammate Larry Nagler, 6-3, 18-16, 1-6, 6-3. Earlier defending champion Nagler had been upset in the third round of the singles.

Osuna-Earnhart nosed out John Skogstad and John Karabasz of Miami, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Carefree Vs. Organized

Another man's opinion are usually always worthy of consideration, and when Bill Carter called "Happy Sandlot Games A Thing of the Past For Kid Baseballers" in his column for the Alexandria Town Talk recently we thought he did a pretty good job of sizing up a situation that has become national in scope.

We've called attention to the rewards and pitfalls of organized kids' baseball in the past while supporting the leagues with the idea that everything possible should be done for our youth. But a constant guard must be maintained to keep the programs healthy.

Since Monroe and West Monroe now abound in kids' baseball programs that so well fit Alexandria's picture we decided Bill Carter's story might well be received by some of our readers. You'll surely recognize the fact that he could well be writing about our own problems.

So here's Bill Carter's story:

"The days of the old sandlot baseball games are over. No more lickings when you come home with your pants torn from a slide into home plate, after choosing up sides for a no-time-limit game on a vacant lot with too-close window panes.

"This is something my nine-year-old has never experienced. He never will. He plays in the Civitan League. He came home the other day with a complete uniform that would have been the envy of the Evangeline League not too many years ago.

"He looked pretty snazzy. Like all parents, I thought he was sharp in his outfit. How can I convince him I had more fun playing baseball at his age? Or can I really convince myself?

"Late last season, some of the managers in the Little Boys program became dissatisfied with the way the league was being operated. They pulled out and joined the Little League, a national organization for boys the same age as Little Boys.

"This year, the Civitan League branched out, outfitting its youngsters in complete uniforms, with an organization the equal of Little Boys and Little League in facilities.

"Now, there are three leagues here in competition with each other for boys aged up to 12.

"Parents who have youngsters in these programs probably won't agree, but I'm afraid the programs are becoming too organized, as has been charged.

"I have never agreed with the so-called experts who write articles blasting youth baseball programs for boys 12 and under. Competition is good for kids, especially after they reach a certain age. But I am afraid the strict, solid organization will take some of the fun out of the sport for the little ones.

"News editor Cecil Williams told me once: 'I used to think people became doctors and lawyers and millionaires only because they couldn't make the big leagues.'

"I used to feel the same way when I was a kid. But I can remember that I also did other things during summer vacation, like going swimming or playing cowboys and Indians. I don't believe I would have continued to enjoy baseball as much if our programs had been as organized as they are today.

"Any boy of school age who doesn't play in a league now and own a uniform just doesn't rate with the gang in the neighborhood. And I don't believe that's good.

"I have always thought of a uniform in any sport as something to be cherished, but earned. When a youngster is given one before he actually earns it, he is apt to be spoiled and eventually disillusioned.

"The one bit of criticism offered in blasts against youth programs I do agree with is interference by the parents. The parents mean well, I'm sure, but many have a tendency to interfere too much.

"Every now and then a parent will call to complain about his or her boy not getting enough publicity in The Town Talk. I don't have much patience with them.

"It is our policy not to go overboard. There are a lot of leagues here in Alexandria, Pineville and Tioga. We try to give equal coverage, according to age, without building up the hopes of a boy who might be inclined to believe his future as a professional player is brighter than it actually is.

"A mother might be interested only in her youngster. I am interested in all of them. It isn't always easy to please everybody. If you please one mother by heaping praise on her son, you more than likely make mad all the mothers whose sons weren't mentioned.

"It's a losing battle.

"If the little ones can be left alone, I'm sure they will be all right. They aren't nearly as interested in publicity as mom and dad might be.

"He has plenty of time for publicity. If it starts in the subteens, it won't mean as much when he gets in high school and college, not to mention the possibility of being burned out. And he will appreciate recognition more in high school and college, if it isn't already old hat to him."

Rayville Serves Warning

Rayville High School, which recently lured Embry Pickett away from Newellton as head football coach, serves warning to Class A district two rivals that the Hornets are continuing plans to make a bigger noise in conference athletics.

A new and bigger staff of assistants has been selected for Pickett.

They are Bob Burnley, assistant varsity coach; Ralph McKinstry, coach of the "B" football team and basketball coach; and Harry Sikes, junior high coach.

To better acquaint Rayville followers with their new coaches we furnish these statistics:

BURNLEY—1951 graduate of Delhi High School where he played four years of football as an end, two years of basketball, and one of baseball; 1957 graduate of Louisiana Tech with two years varsity experience as end for Joe Aillet's Bulldogs; 1957-58 assistant coach for Woody Boyles at Hallsville (Tex.) High; 1958-59 assistant to Boyles after latter's move to Oak Grove High; married to the former Miss Glenda Canady; has two-year-old son, Kevin Dale.

McKINSTRY — Graduate of Bastrop High School where he was a football quarterback, played basketball, baseball, and was a member of the track team; two years of varsity basketball and track at Louisiana Tech; no previous coaching experience; married to the former Judy Green of Rayville.

SIKES — Native of Winnsboro, La., but a high school graduate from Coronado, Calif., where he was a football halfback and participated in basketball, track, and baseball; attended Stanford University and spent two years at the United States Naval Academy where he played football and baseball (his Navy grid career was ended by a rib fracture that punctured a lung); a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State; no previous coaching experience) 28 years old and single.

Palmer Gets Ahead; Nicklaus Wins

Makes Most Of Putting To Get A 67

By CHARLES C. CAIN

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Arnold Palmer made the most of a red-hot putter for a 4-under - par 67 Saturday and a two-storke lead at the three-quarter mark in the 72-hole Western Open Golf tournament.

Palmer, co-leader at 135 with Don January of Dallas when the day's play began at Blythefield Country Club, picked up five birdies as he posted a 202 total.

He fought off the determined challenge of Doug Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., who also shot a 67 for a 204 total and second place. Sanders practically burned the course up on his outgoing nine as he carded 31—5-under-par—but he settled for a bogey and eight pars on the back nine as his short putts cooled off.

Palmer sank birdie putts on the four 5-par holes and added another on a 4-par. That one was a 45-footer.

January skyrocketed to a 76, nine strokes off the pace, as he had trouble hitting the greens.

Butch Baird, of Galveston, Tex., wound up in third place at 205 firing a 69 for his third sub-par round in a row.

Gene Littler, of Singing Hills, Calif., the National Open champion, shot a 3-under-par 68 for a 211 total, nine strokes off the pace.

Gary Player, the Master's champion, had a nightmarish seventh hole as he carded a nine—the highest single hole score in the first three days of the tournament. He settled for a 74 and a 214 mark.

Player's drive landed blow a tree and snuggled under a branch 4 inches off the ground. He elected to play it out and got down on his hands and knees to try to punch the ball.

He fanned on his first two sings, hit a divot on his third, and finally nudged the ball out on his fourth try. Still in the rough, he tried a three-wood to the green but was short.

Adds Trophy By Beating Podolski

By DALE BURGESS

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus added the National Collegiate golf trophy to his roomful of cups Saturday in an all-Ohio State final of the 64th NCAA championship.

He led from the first green and beat back a late rally by Mike Podolski, 5 and 3.

Nicklaus, 21, who hits both long and straight, was 6-under-par for the 33 holes. Podolski finished exactly even over the hilly par 71 Purdue South course.

The new NCAA champion was high amateur in the U. S. Open last week for the second straight year and he dominated the college affair from the time he won the qualifying medal with a pair of 70s.

Nicklaus shot 8 birdies, 23 pars and 2 bogies in the final and won 10 holes. Podolski had 6 birds, 21 pars and 6 bogies, winning three of the last six holes but capturing only five all together.

Five-down after 27 holes, Podolski rapped in a 40-foot birdie putt on the 28th, lost No. 29 on a bad chip and took the 30th when Nicklaus three-putted. Podolski birdied the short 31st hole with a 10-foot putt but that ended his challenge.

Nicklaus won the 32nd with a 2-foot birdie putt. Podolski missed the green on the 32nd, chipped too hard and conceded Nicklaus a 6-foot birdie putt.

Budd Buries Century Mark With 9.2 AAU Standard

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Rocket Budd of Villanova smashed another "impossible barrier when he ran a world record 9.2 second 100-yard dash and Bobby Avant of the Southern California Striders shocked John Thomas in the high jump Saturday as the National AAU Track and Field Championships started a two-day run.

A crowd of 9,456 turned out in Downing Stadium on Randalls Island to watch the 73rd edition of the event. A heavy rain had fallen most of the morning, but by the time Budd got on the track, it had dried out.

Budd, a 20-year-old junior who never had done much before this year, warmed up to his task by winning his two heats in :09.4, tying the meet record.

Then, in the final, he edged teammate Paul Drayton by about a yard going away.

Avant and Thomas each hit 7 feet on the third and final try in the high jump. But Avant won by clearing 6-10 on his first shot at the height. Thomas missed once at 6-10 and in the case of ties, the fewest number of misses down the line decides the title.

Eight finals were held on the first day and the first two finshers in each were rewarded with spots on the team that will take on Russia, West Germany, England and Poland in Olympic-style meets next month.

Ralph Boston of Tennessee A&I, who has a world record of 27 feet ½ inch pending, won the broad jump easily with a 26-11¼ effort, tying his recognized world record.

Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., captured the 120-yard high hurdles title for the second year in a row in :13.6, barely beating out Fran Washington of the Santa Clara, Calif. Youth Village, who also was clocked in :13.6.

Dallas Long of the Southern California Striders downed old master Parry O'Brien in the shot-put with a heave of 62 feet 2 inches. The best O'Brien could do was 61-3¼ for second place.

John Fromm of Seattle won the javelin throw with a flip of 249 feet 11½ inches. Defending champion Al Cantelo of Philadelphia scratched at the last minute. Bill Alley of Lawrence, Kan., the favorite in Cantello's absence, was second with a 239-½ effort.

Coach Cites Grambling Ace As Best

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — The following prediction will surprise a lot of folks and produce some anguished howls, but Coach Eddie Robinson of Grambling declares that the best lineman on the 1961 college All-Star squad will be his own Earnest Ladd.

Without the slightest hesitation, Robinson says three won't be an All-Star tackle even close to him in all-round proficiency and ability.

The same could be said for size as the 6-9 290-pound giant will be the biggest man on Coach Otto Graham's talented squad. He wears a size 18 EEE shoe.

However, size is not Ladd's only asset. On the field his forte is ruggedness and he is duddlesome as a man-eating tiger.

Whenever there is a collision that produces an unusual number of decibels, Robinson avers that the odds are twenty-to-one that "Little Samson" will have something to do with it.

Ladd has a murderous defensive charge and a rare ability to diagnose plays.

His fame has been confined mostly to southern small-college circles where belabored coaches and players avow that if he isn't All-American, then neither was Abe Lincoln.

"Little Samson" was largely credited with the tight defensive scheme that enabled Grambling to post a 9-1 record last season.

"He made so many solo tackles, it became monotonous," the coach said.

Robinson extols his offensive work as equally stunning.

"Ladd is an excellent blocker along the line of scrimmage, on trap plays and straight - ahead thrusts. He is highly competitive and has a lot of football savvy."

The Orange, Texas native has explosive speed for a big man, pursues the ball tenaciously, requires blockers on plays which don't come his way and is able to veer his angle without the loss of speed or power.

Ladd is the only small - college player on the All-Star quad.

He will play with the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League this fall.

Charger Coach Sid Gillman said "Everybody who has seen Ladd tells me he is the finest football player ever to come out of that area. Based on what I've seen of him in game movies. I'd have to agree.

"Grambling is the Louisiana college that produced Paul "Tank" Younger for the Los Angeles Rams and Willie Davis of the Green Bay Packers."

Ladd's huge frame is going to look mighty impressive to the Philadelphia Eagles in Chicago on August 4. They might find it an invitation to disaster not to give him special double-teaming attention.

Braves Bomb Chicago To Tune Of 13-4

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves unloaded their heaviest barrage of the season in crushing the Chicago Cubs 13-4 Saturday as former bonus prize Tony Cloninger picked up his first major league victory with relief help after a heavy thunderstorm.

The Braves broke loose for 16 hits, including homers by Joe Adcock and Joe Torre and three doubles, in providing the 20-year-old Cloninger his first victory in his second start since being called from the minors two weeks ago.

Cloninger surrendered only two hits in the first six innings but the Cubs combined them with walks for a pair of runs in the fourth and one in the sixth.

The rookie right-hander was tagged for another run on two hits and then gave up a walk before rain caused a 47-minute delay. When play was resumed relief specialist Claude Raymond took over and preserved the victory.

Last Yankee Eliminated In FA Golf

DEAUVILLE, France (AP) — Billy Pierce of Britain and Jacques Moerman of Belgium battled into the finals of the French Amateur Golf Championship Saturday after Moerman eliminated the lone American left in the tourney.

Morton Olman, Cincinnati, Real estate broker, defeated E. Carbonnelle of Belgium, 1-up, in a tough quarter-final match that went 19 holes. However, in the afternoon, Olman — noticeably tired — lost to Moerman 3-7.

"I was just tired out," said Olman, making his first bid in a big international event. "I came over here to rest and I end up almost working myself to death on a golf course."

Olman had a par 35-37—72 over the 6,500 yard course for the first 18-holes in his battle with Carbonnelle. He was 1-up going into the 18th hole, but the Belgian birdied the hole to level the match.

Olman shot a par on the 19th, following his tee shot with an 8-iron drive that carried to the green and two-putts. Carbonnelle's second shot went over the green. He chipped back on and then two-putted for a bogey 5.

"I didn't even keep score in the second round—I was that much off my game," said Olman with a tired sigh.

In the quarter-finals, Moerman defeated Britain's Lorne Williamson, 3-1. Pierce's quarter-final victory was 1-up over Charles Dugan Chapman of Britain. Pierce then defeated J. P. Hirigoyen of France, 4-3, to gain the finals.

Hirigoyen gained the semifinals by defeating France's Jean-Louis Dupont, 1-up.

Mrs. Vanderbilt Adams' Swift Sands was third, 2½ lengths back in the 1 1-16-mile test completed in 1:44 4-5.

The entry paid $3 to win $3.20 to place and $2.20 to show. Wfift Sands paid $3.40 to show.

Adios Butler

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Adios Butler, world's fastest standardbred, won his third straight race Saturday night by taking the $25,000 Dr. Stanton free-for-all pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

When Stephan Smith challenged in the final quarter, Adios Butler was more than equal to the task, blazing a :28 2-5 final quarter.

Apmat, driven by Billy Haughton, finished strongly to gain the place spot over Stephan Smith by a half length. A neck back in fourt place was Mr. Budlong. Tar Boy wound up fifth, followed by Royal Rick and False Step.

Adios Butler, the 3-5 favorite with a crowd of 37,371, returned $3.20, $2.70 and $2.30.

McAuliffe Homer Sneaks Detroit By Indians, 5-4

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shortstop Dick McAuliffe smashed a 300-foot home run over the center field fence with two out in the ninth inning Saturday to bring the Detroit Tigers from behind to a 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

McAuliffe's homer came off reliever Frank Funk after a single by Charlie Maxwell. It was the 21-year-old rookie's second of the season. He hit his other Friday night in his second major league game.

The defeat ran Cleveland's losing string to six games—longest in two seasons. It was the ninth victory in 11 games for the first-place Tigers, with reliever Paul Foytack getting credit. Foytack had to be rescued by Phil Regan who came in with two out and the bases loaded on walks and got pinch hitter Bob Hale on a grounder.

Rain held up the game for an hour and a quarter in the seventh inning when Detroit scored on a force play after singles by Jake Wood, Mike Roarke and pinch hitter Maxwell had filled the bases.

Cleveland led from the third inning when Tito Francona hit his fourth homer of the year off starter Frank Lary after Jim Piersall had beaten out a bunt with two away.

Norm Cash scored the first two Tiger runs. He opened the fourth inning with his 21st home run and scored in the second, walking ahead of Roarke's triple off starter Jim Grant.

Arroyo Survives To Down Solons

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Yankees and reliever Luis Arroyo survived a two-run Minnesota uprising in the eighth inning Saturday and went on to defeat the Twins 10-7.

After Jim Coates hit a batter and walked another to lead off the inning, the stocky left-hander came on. He gave up a run-scoring double to Earl Battey and a run-producing single to pinch hitter Billy Martin before retiring the next three men.

The Yankees took a 9-5 lead into the inning, mainly on the strength of home runs by Bill Skowron and John Blanchard and four Minnesota errors. Skowron and Blanchard smashed their circuit clouts back-to-back to lead off the second inning.

Elston Howard added a pinch homer in the ninth.

A Minnesota Twins-Washington Senators record crowd of 35,199 watched the Yankees jump off to an early 5-0 lead before the Twins rebounded.

Harmon Killebrew, Jim Lemon and Battey contributed the early power to the Twins' attack. Lemon smashed two home runs and Killebrew his 21st round-tripper for the first three runs and Battey followed with a two-run triple in the sixth.

Homers Stop Pittsburgh For Phillie

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pancho Herrera's two home runs and big Frank Sullivan's clutch relief pitching led Philadelphia Saturday to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

Herrera's blasts, his seventh and eighth, came in the first and fifth innings and accounted for five of the Phillies' runs.

The 6-7 Sullivan relieved starter Chris Short with two Pirates on base and none out in the seventh inning. He proceeded to strike out Bill Mazeroski and pinch hitter Walt Moryn and got Bill Virdon to hit a weak grounder to the mound. He then went on and blanked the Pirates in the final two frames.

Herrera hit both of his home runs off Pittsburgh starter Wilmer Mizell. The first came after Ken Walters singled in the first. Bobby Del Greco had led off the game with his second home run. The second blast by the Phils' first baseman came with Tony Taylor and Walters aboard.

Short, making only his second start of the season, allowed only three hits and never was in trouble until the seventh. But he walked Don Hoak and gave singles to Joe Christopher and rookie catcher Don Leppert for a run. That's when Sullivan came in and qulled the Pirates.

Dick Groat accounted for the Pirates' other run with his fourth home run in the first inning.

The victory for Short was his second against three defeats. Mizell, who went five innings, now is 4-6. The game was interrupted by rain for 21 minutes after seven innings.

Delta League officials are having their final meeting June 27, at P.K.'s Cafe at 8 p.m. to make final preparations for their annual All-Star Game which is scheduled for July 2. The game will be held on the field of the team leading the league at that time. Team managers or representatives should be present with names of four ball players who are their choice to be participants in the All-Star contest.

Louisiana Power and Light defeated Bancroft Paper 12 to 2 in a Northside Little Boys Baseball game last night.

The winning battery was Gene Gates and Terry Kincaid, while the losing battery was Gary Rankin, Tommy Mitchell and Rickey Gates. In one inning, Bancroft made a triple play — believed to be the first in Little Boys Baseball here.

Leading hitters for the winners were Randall Walker and Rickey Gates, both with two for three, and Gene Gates, who homered. For the losers, Rickey Gates collected two for three.

Bancroft got five hits and Louisiana Power and Light eight.

CUT LEADERS LEAD

Dodgers Edge Cincinnati 9-7 With Late Homer Bid

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers put on a power display—five home runs capped by a pair in the ninth inning by Frank Howard and Jim Gilliam—to whip Cincinnati 9-7 Saturday and cut the Reds' National League lead to two games.

With two out in the ninth, Howard pinch-hit his seventh season homer off reliever Bill Henry. Maury Wills followed with his fifth single of the game and Jim Gilliam powered a game-winning shot into the left field screen.

In all, the Dodgers combed four Cincinnati pitchers for 15 hits with Tommy Davis, Duke Snider and Charley Neal also producing home runs.

Twice the Reds fought from behind, wiping out Dodger leads on the slugging of big Frank Robinson but Cincinnati's pitchers simply couldn't hold on.

Robinson belted three doubles and drove in three runs, giving him nine hits in his last 11 at bats, and 11 runs-batted-in. His three-run double, preceding Gene Freese's homer, erased a 2-0 Los Angeles lead and helped Cincinnati bounce in front 5-2 in the third.

The Dodgers kept pecking away and finally went ahead with a pair in the seventh. But the Reds came right back to score two runs and move in front 7-6 with Robinson's double, a bases - loaded walk and Gordy Coleman's run-scoring single featuring the rally.

LeMay 6-Hitter Tops Cards, 10-6

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie Dick LeMay, making his first major league start after three sparkling relief jobs for the San Francisco Giants, beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-1 Saturday with a steady six-hitter.

The 22-year-old southpaw, up from Harlingen, Tex., gat a helping hand from Orlando Cepeda, who belted a thre-run homer, his 19th; and Willie McCovey, who had four hits, including his 11th homer.

LeMay struck out four and walked only one in staking the Giants to their first victory after four straight losses. He had a four-hit shutout going into the ninth when the Redbirds put together their only run on Ken Boyer's double and Carl Warwick's two-out single.

LeMay now is 1-0. Bob Gibson, first of three Card pitchers was tagged with his fourth loss against five victories.

Chuck Hiller's lead-off double, a walk to Jim Davenport and Harvey Kuenn's single gave the Giants a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

Cepeda homered behind a walk and McCovey's single for three more in the third and Tom Haller singled in another run in the fifth for a 5-0 bulge. McCovey's round tripper off reliever Al Cicotte in the seventh closed out the Giants' scoring.

LeMay had worked seven scoreless innings in relief before getting the starting assignment, which saw him retire 14 Cards in a row before Boyer's lead-off double in the ninth.

Bosox Errors Help Kansas City Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jim Archer pitched steadily Saturday and stowed away his sixth victory for Kansas City as the Athletics downed the Boston Red Sox 9-3.

The Athletics' southpaw hurler was in trouble only in the fourth and eighth innings. Three hits in the fourth by Carroll Hardy, Jackie Jensen and Jim Pagliaroni gave the Red Sox a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning.

But the Athletics, who had managed only one hit off starter Ike Delock in the first four innings, scored six times in the fifth with the aid of only two hits. Delock walked three batters in the inning and Don Buddin made a wild throw on a potential double play that let three runners score.

The A's laced three hits with another Buddin error in the seventh that produced three more runs. Tracy Stallard relieved Delock in this inning and cut off further Kansas City scoring.

Archer, who has become the ace of the A's hurling corps, has lost only one game this year and with Saturday's performance, kept his earned run average at approximately three per game. Showing near perfect control, he walked only one batter and struck out three.

Delock dropped his third decision against four victories this season.

Pollution Again Topic At Meeting

Twin City area citizens are invited to attend the regular monthly meeting of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit here Tuesday night to hear a report from the club's pollution committee.

In addition, a special film on pollution entitled "How Our Town Saved the River" will be shown.

"This is an extremely important subject for the people of Ouachita Parish," commented club president Lloyd Voorhees.

Pollution committee chairman A. S. Tidwell will give a report on the committee's work. The committee was appointed to study pollution in the Ouachita River.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel.

In addition to pollution, the program will include the awarding of prizes to the winners of the annual fishing contest.

A report will be made also on the public hearings conducted by the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission recently on the upcoming hunting seasons.

Not only that, plans will be drafted for the club's annual fish-fry, which will be held July 28 at Cheniere Lake.

AMERICAN OAKS WIN

Bowl Of Flowers Wins At Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowl of Flowers, champion 2-year-old filly of 1960, lodged a powerful claim for the 3-year-old title Saturday when she took the lead at the head of the Belmont Park stretch and drew away for a convincing 5½ lengths victory in the $116,625 Coaching Club American Oaks.

It was the 45th running of this 1¼ mile classic for 3-year-old fillies and Bowl of Flowers certainly atoned for her stunning upset two weeks ago when Ogden Phillips' Funloving beat her by a head margin in the Mother Goose Stakes at Belmont.

Funloving took the lead Saturday right at the start and held it for the first mile, then gave way as Jockey Eddie Arcaro turned Bowl of Flowers loose at the head of the stretch. The chestnut daughter of Sailor-Flower Bowl took it from there and won with authority.

Funloving, ridden by Bobby Ussery and the second choice at 7 to 2, finished five lengths ahead of the third horse, Andy Crevolin's Mighty Fair.

The winner, owned by the Brookmeade Stable of Mrs. Dodge Sloane, stepped the distance in 2:03 1-5 on a fast track and returned $2.90, $2.10 and $2.10. The track record is two minutes flat set in 1913 by Whisk Broom II.

SIXTH IN ROW FOR TRIBE

McAuliffe Homer Sneaks Detroit By Indians, 5-4

CLEVELAND (AP) — Shortstop Dick McAuliffe smashed a 300-foot home run over the center field fence with two out in the ninth inning Saturday to bring the Detroit Tigers from behind to a 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

McAuliffe's homer came off reliever Frank Funk after a single by Charlie Maxwell. It was the 21-year-old rookie's second of the season. He hit his other Friday night in his second major league game.

The defeat ran Cleveland's losing string to six games—longest in two seasons. It was the ninth victory in 11 games for the first-place Tigers, with reliever Paul Foytack getting credit. Foytack had to be rescued by Phil Regan who came in with two out and the bases loaded on walks and got pinch hitter Bob Hale on a grounder.

Rain held up the game for an hour and a quarter in the seventh inning when Detroit scored on a force play after singles by Jake Wood, Mike Roarke and pinch hitter Maxwell had filled the bases.

Cleveland led from the third inning when Tito Francona hit his fourth homer of the year off starter Frank Lary after Jim Piersall had beaten out a bunt with two away.

Norm Cash scored the first two Tiger runs. He opened the fourth inning with his 21st home run and scored in the second, walking ahead of Roarke's triple off starter Jim Grant.

Arroyo Survives To Down Solons

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Yankees and reliever Luis Arroyo survived a two-run Minnesota uprising in the eighth inning Saturday and went on to defeat the Twins 10-7.

After Jim Coates hit a batter and walked another to lead off the inning, the stocky left-hander came on. He gave up a run-scoring double to Earl Battey and a run-producing single to pinch hitter Billy Martin before retiring the next three men.

The Yankees took a 9-5 lead into the inning, mainly on the strength of home runs by Bill Skowron and John Blanchard and four Minnesota errors. Skowron and Blanchard smashed their circuit clouts back-to-back to lead off the second inning.

Elston Howard added a pinch homer in the ninth.

A Minnesota Twins-Washington Senators record crowd of 35,199 watched the Yankees jump off to an early 5-0 lead before the Twins rebounded.

Harmon Killebrew, Jim Lemon and Battey contributed the early power to the Twins' attack. Lemon smashed two home runs and Killebrew his 21st round-tripper for the first three runs and Battey followed with a two-run triple in the sixth.

Homers Stop Pittsburgh For Phillie

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pancho Herrera's two home runs and big Frank Sullivan's clutch relief pitching led Philadelphia Saturday to a 6-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

Herrera's blasts, his seventh and eighth, came in the first and fifth innings and accounted for five of the Phillies' runs.

The 6-7 Sullivan relieved starter Chris Short with two Pirates on base and none out in the seventh inning. He proceeded to strike out Bill Mazeroski and pinch hitter Walt Moryn and got Bill Virdon to hit a weak grounder to the mound. He then went on and blanked the Pirates in the final two frames.

Herrera hit both of his home runs off Pittsburgh starter Wilmer Mizell. The first came after Ken Walters singled in the first. Bobby Del Greco had led off the game with his second home run. The second blast by the Phils' first baseman came with Tony Taylor and Walters aboard.

Short, making only his second start of the season, allowed only three hits and never was in trouble until the seventh. But he walked Don Hoak and gave singles to Joe Christopher and rookie catcher Don Leppert for a run. That's when Sullivan came in and qulled the Pirates.

Dick Groat accounted for the Pirates' other run with his fourth home run in the first inning.

The victory for Short was his second against three defeats. Mizell, who went five innings, now is 4-6. The game was interrupted by rain for 21 minutes after seven innings.

CUT LEADERS LEAD

Dodgers Edge Cincinnati 9-7 With Late Homer Bid

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers put on a power display—five home runs capped by a pair in the ninth inning by Frank Howard and Jim Gilliam—to whip Cincinnati 9-7 Saturday and cut the Reds' National League lead to two games.

With two out in the ninth, Howard pinch-hit his seventh season homer off reliever Bill Henry. Maury Wills followed with his fifth single of the game and Jim Gilliam powered a game-winning shot into the left field screen.

In all, the Dodgers combed four Cincinnati pitchers for 15 hits with Tommy Davis, Duke Snider and Charley Neal also producing home runs.

Twice the Reds fought from behind, wiping out Dodger leads on the slugging of big Frank Robinson but Cincinnati's pitchers simply couldn't hold on.

Robinson belted three doubles and drove in three runs, giving him nine hits in his last 11 at bats, and 11 runs-batted-in. His three-run double, preceding Gene Freese's homer, erased a 2-0 Los Angeles lead and helped Cincinnati bounce in front 5-2 in the third.

The Dodgers kept pecking away and finally went ahead with a pair in the seventh. But the Reds came right back to score two runs and move in front 7-6 with Robinson's double, a bases - loaded walk and Gordy Coleman's run-scoring single featuring the rally.

FIRST AS STARTER

LeMay 6-Hitter Tops Cards, 10-6

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie Dick LeMay, making his first major league start after three sparkling relief jobs for the San Francisco Giants, beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-1 Saturday with a steady six-hitter.

The 22-year-old southpaw, up from Harlingen, Tex., gat a helping hand from Orlando Cepeda, who belted a thre-run homer, his 19th; and Willie McCovey, who had four hits, including his 11th homer.

LeMay struck out four and walked only one in staking the Giants to their first victory after four straight losses. He had a four-hit shutout going into the ninth when the Redbirds put together their only run on Ken Boyer's double and Carl Warwick's two-out single.

LeMay now is 1-0. Bob Gibson, first of three Card pitchers was tagged with his fourth loss against five victories.

Chuck Hiller's lead-off double, a walk to Jim Davenport and Harvey Kuenn's single gave the Giants a 1-0 lead in the first inning.

Cepeda homered behind a walk and McCovey's single for three more in the third and Tom Haller singled in another run in the fifth for a 5-0 bulge. McCovey's round tripper off reliever Al Cicotte in the seventh closed out the Giants' scoring.

LeMay had worked seven scoreless innings in relief before getting the starting assignment, which saw him retire 14 Cards in a row before Boyer's lead-off double in the ninth.

Bosox Errors Help Kansas City Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jim Archer pitched steadily Saturday and stowed away his sixth victory for Kansas City as the Athletics downed the Boston Red Sox 9-3.

The Athletics' southpaw hurler was in trouble only in the fourth and eighth innings. Three hits in the fourth by Carroll Hardy, Jackie Jensen and Jim Pagliaroni gave the Red Sox a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning.

But the Athletics, who had managed only one hit off starter Ike Delock in the first four innings, scored six times in the fifth with the aid of only two hits. Delock walked three batters in the inning and Don Buddin made a wild throw on a potential double play that let three runners score.

The A's laced three hits with another Buddin error in the seventh that produced three more runs. Tracy Stallard relieved Delock in this inning and cut off further Kansas City scoring.

Archer, who has become the ace of the A's hurling corps, has lost only one game this year and with Saturday's performance, kept his earned run average at approximately three per game. Showing near perfect control, he walked only one batter and struck out three.

Delock dropped his third decision against four victories this season.

Pollution Again Topic At Meeting

Twin City area citizens are invited to attend the regular monthly meeting of the Ouachita Wildlife Unit here Tuesday night to hear a report from the club's pollution committee.

In addition, a special film on pollution entitled "How Our Town Saved the River" will be shown.

"This is an extremely important subject for the people of Ouachita Parish," commented club president Lloyd Voorhees.

Pollution committee chairman A. S. Tidwell will give a report on the committee's work. The committee was appointed to study pollution in the Ouachita River.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel.

In addition to pollution, the program will include the awarding of prizes to the winners of the annual fishing contest.

A report will be made also on the public hearings conducted by the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission recently on the upcoming hunting seasons.

Not only that, plans will be drafted for the club's annual fish-fry, which will be held July 28 at Cheniere Lake.

Louisiana Power and Light defeated Bancroft Paper 12 to 2 in a Northside Little Boys Baseball game last night.

The winning battery was Gene Gates and Terry Kincaid, while the losing battery was Gary Rankin, Tommy Mitchell and Rickey Gates. In one inning, Bancroft made a triple play — believed to be the first in Little Boys Baseball here.

Leading hitters for the winners were Randall Walker and Rickey Gates, both with two for three, and Gene Gates, who homered. For the losers, Rickey Gates collected two for three.

Bancroft got five hits and Louisiana Power and Light eight.

AMERICAN OAKS WIN

Bowl Of Flowers Wins At Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Bowl of Flowers, champion 2-year-old filly of 1960, lodged a powerful claim for the 3-year-old title Saturday when she took the lead at the head of the Belmont Park stretch and drew away for a convincing 5½ lengths victory in the $116,625 Coaching Club American Oaks.

It was the 45th running of this 1¼ mile classic for 3-year-old fillies and Bowl of Flowers certainly atoned for her stunning upset two weeks ago when Ogden Phillips' Funloving beat her by a head margin in the Mother Goose Stakes at Belmont.

Funloving took the lead Saturday right at the start and held it for the first mile, then gave way as Jockey Eddie Arcaro turned Bowl of Flowers loose at the head of the stretch. The chestnut daughter of Sailor-Flower Bowl took it from there and won with authority.

Funloving, ridden by Bobby Ussery and the second choice at 7 to 2, finished five lengths ahead of the third horse, Andy Crevolin's Mighty Fair.

The winner, owned by the Brookmeade Stable of Mrs. Dodge Sloane, stepped the distance in 2:03 1-5 on a fast track and returned $2.90, $2.10 and $2.10. The track record is two minutes flat set in 1913 by Whisk Broom II.

Yama Pounds Gonzales To Win Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—Yama Bahama, a veteran from Bimini, B.W.I., won an unanimous 10-round decision over Jose Gonzalez, of Puerto Rico, in their national televised fight at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Gonzalez, appearing in his first Garden main event, weighed 157½, Bahama 159.

Bahama used every punch in his repertory but was unable to floor Gonzalez.

Referee Art Mercante voted 6 rounds for Bahama, 3 for Gonzalez and called 1 even. Judge Frank Forbes had Bahama ahead 8-2 and Judge Joe Armstrong saw it for Bahama 8-1-1. The Associated Press card matched Armstrong's.

In the early rounds Bahama, whose real name is William Butler, outfought Gonzalez when he outslugged him from inside and made the 21-year-old Puerto Rican back down.

After proving his point, Bahama proceeded to give his young opponent a boxing lesson as he beat a tattoo on Gonzalez' head lith a stiff left jab.

The easy to hit Gonzalez was caught with a series of combinations throughout the bout and toward the end Bhama's onslaught began to tell.

Twice he had Gonzalez reeling in the eighth and at the finish the game Puerto Rican warrior looked as though he was ready to go down.

The loss was Gonzalez' fifth in 24 bouts. He has won 18 and drawn once.

For the 28-year-old Bahama, a nine-year veteran, it was his 65th victory against 11 losses.

Yama Pounds Gonzales To Win Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—Yama Bahama, a veteran from Bimini, B.W.I., won an unanimous 10-round decision over Jose Gonzalez, of Puerto Rico, in their national televised fight at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Gonzalez, appearing in his first Garden main event, weighed 157½, Bahama 159.

Bahama used every punch in his repertory but was unable to floor Gonzalez.

Referee Art Mercante voted 6 rounds for Bahama, 3 for Gonzalez and called 1 even. Judge Frank Forbes had Bahama ahead 8-2 and Judge Joe Armstrong saw it for Bahama 8-1-1. The Associated Press card matched Armstrong's.

In the early rounds Bahama, whose real name is William Butler, outfought Gonzalez when he outslugged him from inside and made the 21-year-old Puerto Rican back down.

After proving his point, Bahama proceeded to give his young opponent a boxing lesson as he beat a tattoo on Gonzalez' head lith a stiff left jab.

The easy to hit Gonzalez was caught with a series of combinations throughout the bout and toward the end Bhama's onslaught began to tell.

Twice he had Gonzalez reeling in the eighth and at the finish the game Puerto Rican warrior looked as though he was ready to go down.

The loss was Gonzalez' fifth in 24 bouts. He has won 18 and drawn once.

For the 28-year-old Bahama, a nine-year veteran, it was his 65th victory against 11 losses.

Texaco downed Monroe Police 8-3 behind the battery of Keith and Lagrange in Northside play. Whitlow went the route for the losers. Polk garnered two hits for the losers.

Twin City Printing defeated A & C Music 9-3 Southside play to remain undefeated in first half of play. Wright, Peters, and Takeel backed the winning slants of Kokinos with two hits to pace the attack.

Monroe Brick defeated Monroe Police Department 7-1 in Northside play behind the strong hurling of Joseph. Lyles and Warner homered for the winners with White adding two hits for the victors. The losing battery was Sercy and Polk.

North Monroe Lions defeated Sun Lighting 8-3 behind the winning combination of Ernst and Sampagnaro in northside play. Sampagnaro led the winning attack with three hits. The losing battery was Jones and Dent.

Louisiana Machinery edged Three-Way Finance in eastside play in a high scoring game 12-9 behind the hitting of Galligan who went three for three at the plate. Ezell led the losing cause with three hits. Jeters was the winning hurdler and Tucker was the loser.

The North Monroe Lions were edged 7-6 by Friendly Finance in Southside play. The winning battery was McElroy and Murry. Murry led the winning attack with two hits. The losing batery was Simpson and Stewart. The victory left Friendly Finance tied for 2nd place in first half of play.

The Lions Club downed Monroe's Fire Department 18-1 in Southside play behind the strong pitching of Jones. Varnado and Jones collected two hits for the victors and Trichell garnered two hits for the losers. The losing battery was Bonne and Copper.

Summer visitors love Monroe — and vice versa. There is no better reason for a party at any time of year . . . and at this time of year, there are a great number of good reasons. Houseguests of the JIMMY MOORES last weekend were JOYCE and DREXEL MARTIN, and GLORIA and ED VOLKERT, all of New Orleans. Friday evening, Betty and Jimmy honored their guests at an open house.

Betty had planned a patio party, with hurricane lamps and luau torches in the flower beds outlining her brick-walled garden, but the weatherman ruled otherwise, and everything moved indoors. An arrangement of daisies decorated the living room, while pink roses and daisies in a silver bowl centered the dining table. In the den was a pyramid of gardenias.

Dancing to a Dixieland combo was transferred from the patio to the carport without lessening the gaiety of the gathering. Approximately one hundred guests called during the evening hours.

Here from Laredo, Texas, for a week's visit were CORA and GUY HOLLOWAY, guests of the TOM SCOTTS. Friday night they attended the Moores' party, and Sunday the IVY JORDANS invited the Scotts, their visitors, and two other couples for dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Monday evening, Mamye invited sixteen friends of the Holloways for dinner at home. Purple and orchid gladioli centered the table where barbecued steak with grits au gratin were served.

Tuesday's compliment to the Holloways was dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club with DOROTHY and PAUL OZMONT as hosts. The party was held in the private dining room at the club, where the pink-covered table held pink hydrangeas in a silver bowl. Floral cards marked places for ten guests.

Mamye entertained Wednesday evening at a "country dinner" serving fried chicken, fresh corn, beans, and tomatoes. Gardenias decorated the buffet table. There were twenty guests.

College roommates got together for the first visit in several years when DOT HARRIS was here as the guest of the ROBERT WOODS. Camille and Dot attended Ward-Belmont together. Dot arrived Wednesday evening. On Thursday at noon, JUNE M'HENRY invited an intimate group for lunch. That evening, the BURCHALL LILES were hosts at a small dinner honoring Dot. A footed black antiqued compote, held a centerpiece of fruit, flanked with green candles in pewter candlesticks. Green placemats completed the appointments. Smoked quail was highlight of the menu. Dot left on Friday, returning home to Atlanta.

On Friday, CAROLYN OLIVER BROWN was the inspiration for two parties. Carolyn, who makes her home in Galstonbury, Connecticut, is visiting her parents, the COURTNEY OLIVERS.

A conversational hour at the home of CHE CHE LILES preceded a noon luncheon given by MABEL RATLIFF at Bayou DeSiard country club. The party was held on the glazed porch, where the table was covered with a pink cloth and centered with pink roses in a silver bowl. Ceramic roses held the tiny white placecards. Fourteen guests attended these two parties.

Another special guest at these affairs was former Monroyan BEVERLY PEEVY GOODLETT. Bev and her husband, MAJOR JOHN R. GOODLETT of Scott Air Force Base, Illinois; and children, JOHNNY, BARBARA, and RONNIE are visiting the WEBB GOODLETTS in West Monroe.

Former residents who have been lavishly entertained this week are JONNIE GREENWOOD of Orlando, Florida, and SYBIL SMITH of Memphis, who have been guests of the W. E. M'GOUGHS. The three sisters and their families met at Destin, Florida, for a week's stay and then returned here.

HERNDON SMITH was hostess last Friday for lunch and bridge honoring these visitors. . . . Monday at noon, ALICE RAY BURFORD invited them for lunch. . . . A barbecue supper Monday night was held at the home of the CARTER ACKELS. . . On Tuesday, Grecian Bend plantation was scene of a bridge luncheon given by CLARA MONTGOMERY.

Wednesday, VIRGINIA CROW complimented Sybil and Jonnie with a dessert-bridge at home. Hydrangeas decorated the reception area where three tables were set up for the games. BETH ANN VINCENT was winner of the high score prize, with Herndon Smith second and Hazel Johnson low. . . . Later Wednesday noon, swimming and water skiing were the order of the day when the HEWITT JOHNSONS invited the visitors for an afternoon on the river, with a barbecue supper cooked out at dusk. . . . Sybil and Jonnie returned to their respective homes Thursday.

The JIM WATTLEYS, who are leaving tomorrow for England for two years, have been honored at several parties prior to their departure. Friday night their dancing class entertained with an infomal shrimp boil at the home of the FLOYD STONES, JR. 'Twas a gala affair, with guests wearing Bermudas and pedal pushers. The Wattleys received an engraved julep cup as a momento from the group. Others present, all co-hosts, included the BOB HANNAS, the ED HAYWARDS, AVA and MAC M'CARTY, the HENRY COLES, MARY and R. G. HART, JR., the HARRY STONES, and the FRED CULPEPPERS, JR.

Intended as an outdoor party before the weatherman changed all that, a family barbecue turned into a buffet supper at the home of the LON HEUERS last Friday night. The JIM WILLIAMS were co-hosts at this party honoring the Wattleys. Twelve children ate on the veranda, and nine adults were served in the dining room, and the rain dampened no spirits.

DOT WILLIAMS was hostess again Saturday night, this time at a surprise fortieth birthday party for Jim. Games from childhood were the order of the evening, with KAY SHELTON winning Stop-the-Music. Favors were little combs and brushes and miniature tea sets for the "girls"; toy alligators and squirt rings for the "boys". Barbeque shrimp supper was served to six couples.

Crawfish bisque was the elegant dish served when the DARRELL BRISBINS entertained at dinner Friday night. Centerpiece on the dining table was a horizontal arrangement of daisies, flanked with burning tapers. With the bisque, salad and French bread; for dessert, princess cup.

Honoring VIRGINIA REDDING, bride-elect of GILBERT MARX, BUNNY LINER was hostess at luncheon Friday noon in the private dining room of Bayou DeSiard country club. A pink theme was carried out in decorations, with pink asters in a silver bowl centering the pink-covered table. Ruby goblets completed the arrangements. There were twelve guests.

High point of the week for the college-bound set was a dance given in the young people's lounge of Bayou DeSiard country club Tuesday night. Hosts for the affair were COURTLAND GRAY and ARTHUR ENSMINGER, who are entering Annapolis; JACK BURTON, who will go to Tulane; and CECIL HILL, whose fall plans are to attend L. S. U.

During the evening, MIKE WILSON, BUNZIE BRYANT and JIMMIE HOWARD, three members of the mile relay team, presented Courtland with a placque enscribed "To the Best First Man the State." The Abstracts played for dancing from nine until one. . . . Courtland and Arthur left on Thursday for a week in New York and Washington before reporting to Annapolis this coming Thursday morning.

In answer to those alluring advertisements which read "Recapture romance at Mt. Panorama Lodge, by beautiful Bridal Wreath Falls . . .," Georgie Starbuck Galbraith has this to say:

They scramble the trail to Lookout Point
And watch as the dawn unfurls,
Alone, these two, with the fabulous view.
And the first words are the girl's:
"George, I don't see why you keep saying we can't afford color TV. My goodness, if we can afford a trip like this—"
The falls are majestic and old as time.
There are rainbows in the spray.
And she stands at his side like a pensive bride.
And what does the darling say?
"George, I have the most horrible feeling I went off and left the water running in the washbowl. The phone rang and—"
But now it's night, and the mountaintops
Finger the stars above.
And she turns her eyes from the glittering skies
And speaks to her legal love:
"George, do you think I ought to take those rhinestones off of my blue chiffon? They look sort of outr'e."

Miss Birdsong, Mr. Smith Exchange Wedding Vows

Solemnized Saturday, June 17 in the First Baptist church at Haynesville, was the wedding of Miss Nancy Lee Birdsong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Judson Birdsong of Haynesville and Frank Phipps Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phipps Smith Sr., o Monroe

Baskets of pink gladioli with specimen shasta daisies and branched candelabra holding pink tapers formed a setting for the double ring ceremony at 5:30 p.m. performed by Rev. E. V. Appling.

Nuptial selections were played by the organist, Mrs. H. P. Camp Jr., who also accompanied Mrs. Conway Rucks as she sang "Because," and "At Dawning."

Wearing a gown of white Italian silk with chapel length train the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Alencon lace embroidered with sequins and seed pearls defined the neckline and extended down the front of the skirt, and a fringed bustle bow, trimmed with the lace medalions marked the back waistline. A crown of Italian silk embroidered with sequins and pearls held her veil of imported illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis with satin ribbons and maline puffs, centered with purple and white orchids.

Miss Joan Rucks, Haynesville, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Weltha Collins of Haynesville and Miss Dot Watt of Ruston. Their dresses of pink peau de soie were fashioned with basque waists, elbow sleeves and bell skirts and their headdresses were of matching peau de soie with tulle veils. Pink satin slippers completed their costumes and they carried bouquets of pink asters with maline puffs.

Candlelighters were Miss Barbara Smith, Monroe, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Linda Parham, Minden, cousin of the bride. They wore identical dresses of pink cotton satin with silk organza cummerbunds and matching satin slippers. Their wrist corsages were of pink carnations.

Mr. Smith attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Ramon W. Birdsong, Haynesville, and John P. Birdsong, Longview, Tex., brothers of the bride. Ushers included Tom Causey of Monroe, Richard Barron, Plain Dealing; Larry Stephens, Bill Ledoux, Mack Hunt, all of Monroe and John Holstead of Ruston.

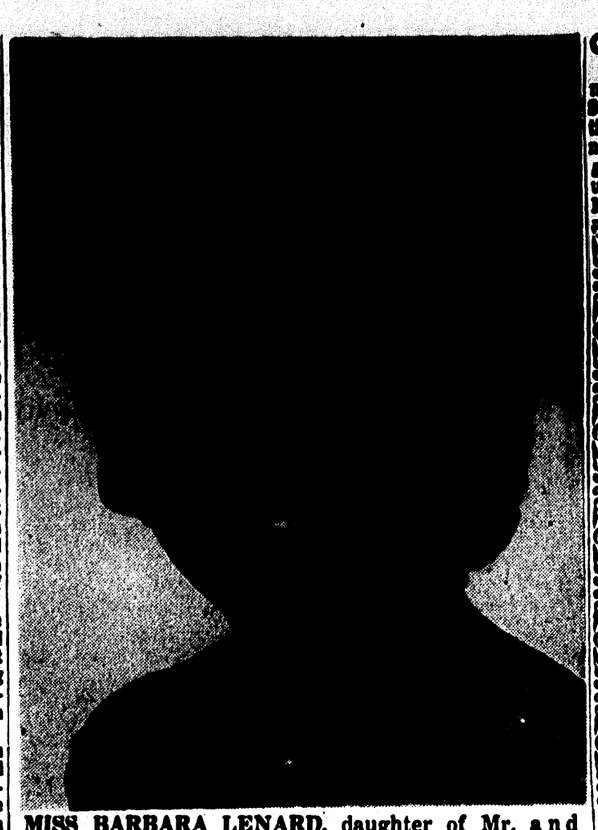
For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Birdsong chose a champagne linen lace sheath with a green cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Smith, wore a dress of slate blue embroidered silk and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the Fellowship room of the church. Pink asters formed the centerpiece for the bride's table which held the tiered cake and punch bowl at opposite ends, flanked by silver candelabra, holding pink tapers. Baskets of pink gladioli and greenery were used as a background and the guest book table, covered with an antique lace cloth, also held pink asters. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Ramon W. Birdsong, Haynesville; Mrs. John P. Birdsong, Longview, Tex., Mrs. Wilburn Evans, Ruston; Mrs. Alfred H. Gillespie, Haynesville, at the bride's table; Miss Martha Campbell, at the guest book and tea girls were Misses Sandra Reeder and Cecelia Reeder of Monroe.

For a wedding trip the bride changed to a black silk and wool suit with white silk organza hat and gloves, patent shoes and bag and the orchids from her bouquet. The couple will establish a home in Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Haynesville high school and will receive her degree from Louisiana Tech in January, 1962. She is a member of Phi Mu, Alpha Tau Delta and Who's Who. A graduate of Neville high school in Monroe, Mr. Smith received his degree in chemical engineering from Louisiana Tech. He is a past president of his fraternity Pi Kappa Alpha.

Monroe residents among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ledoux, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Causey, Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Stephens Jr., J. S. Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weir, Vevia and Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dupuy Jr., Miss Penny Meredith, Robert R. Rainer, Mrs. Malcolm J. Keith, Mrs. P. E. Reeder, Sandra and Cecelia.



MISS BARBARA LENARD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Lenard of West Monroe, will become the bride of Reginald Russell on July 7. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Russell, also of West Monroe.

Summer visitors love Monroe — and vice versa. There is no better reason for a party at any time of year . . . and at this time of year, there are a great number of good reasons. Houseguests of the JIMMY MOORES last weekend were JOYCE and DREXEL MARTIN, and GLORIA and ED VOLKERT, all of New Orleans. Friday evening, Betty and Jimmy honored their guests at an open house.

Betty had planned a patio party, with hurricane lamps and luau torches in the flower beds outlining her brick-walled garden, but the weatherman ruled otherwise, and everything moved indoors. An arrangement of daisies decorated the living room, while pink roses and daisies in a silver bowl centered the dining table. In the den was a pyramid of gardenias.

Dancing to a Dixieland combo was transferred from the patio to the carport without lessening the gaiety of the gathering. Approximately one hundred guests called during the evening hours.

Here from Laredo, Texas, for a week's visit were CORA and GUY HOLLOWAY, guests of the TOM SCOTTS. Friday night they attended the Moores' party, and Sunday the IVY JORDANS invited the Scotts, their visitors, and two other couples for dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club.

Monday evening, Mamye invited sixteen friends of the Holloways for dinner at home. Purple and orchid gladioli centered the table where barbecued steak with grits au gratin were served.

Tuesday's compliment to the Holloways was dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club with DOROTHY and PAUL OZMONT as hosts. The party was held in the private dining room at the club, where the pink-covered table held pink hydrangeas in a silver bowl. Floral cards marked places for ten guests.

Mamye entertained Wednesday evening at a "country dinner" serving fried chicken, fresh corn, beans, and tomatoes. Gardenias decorated the buffet table. There were twenty guests.

College roommates got together for the first visit in several years when DOT HARRIS was here as the guest of the ROBERT WOODS. Camille and Dot attended Ward-Belmont together. Dot arrived Wednesday evening. On Thursday at noon, JUNE M'HENRY invited an intimate group for lunch. That evening, the BURCHALL LILES were hosts at a small dinner honoring Dot. A footed black antiqued compote, held a centerpiece of fruit, flanked with green candles in pewter candlesticks. Green placemats completed the appointments. Smoked quail was highlight of the menu. Dot left on Friday, returning home to Atlanta.

On Friday, CAROLYN OLIVER BROWN was the inspiration for two parties. Carolyn, who makes her home in Galstonbury, Connecticut, is visiting her parents, the COURTNEY OLIVERS.

A conversational hour at the home of CHE CHE LILES preceeded a noon luncheon given by MABEL RATLIFF at Bayou DeSiard country club. The party was held on the glazed porch, where the table was covered with a pink cloth and centered with pink roses in a silver bowl. Ceramic roses held the tiny white placecards. Fourteen guests attended these two parties.

Another special guest at these affairs was former Monroyan BEVERLY PEEVY GOODLETT. Bev and her husband, MAJOR JOHN R. GOODLETT of Scott Air Force Base, Illinois; and children, JOHNNY, BARBARA, and RONNIE are visiting the WEBB GOODLETTS in West Monroe.

Former residents who have been lavishly entertained this week are JONNIE GREENWOOD of Orlando, Florida, and SYBIL SMITH of Memphis, who have been guests of the W. E. M'GOUGHS. The three sisters and their families met at Destin, Florida, for a week's stay and then returned here.

HERNDON SMITH was hostess last Friday for lunch and bridge honoring these visitors. . . . Monday at noon, ALICE RAY BURFORD invited them for lunch. . . . A barbecue supper Monday night was held at the home of the CARTER ACKELS. . . . On Tuesday, Grecian Bend plantation was scene of a bridge luncheon given by CLARA MONTGOMERY.

Wednesday, VIRGINIA CROW complimented Sybil and Jonnie with a dessert-bridge at home. Hydrangeas decorated the reception area where three tables were set up for the games. BETH ANN VINCENT was winner of the high score prize, with Herndon Smith second and Hazel Johnson low. . . . Later Wednesday noon, swimming and water skiing were the order of the day when the HEWITT JOHNSONS invited the visitors for an afternoon on the river, with a barbecue supper cooked out at dusk. . . . Sybil and Jonnie returned to their respective homes Thursday.

The JIM WATTLEYS, who are leaving tomorrow for England for two years, have been honored at several parties prior to their departure. Friday night their dancing class entertained with an infomal shrimp boil at the home of the FLOYD STONES, JR. 'Twas a gala affair, with guests wearing Bermudas and pedal pushers. The Wattleys received an engraved julep cup as a momento from the group. Others present, all co-hosts, included the BOB HANNAS, the ED HAYWARDS, AVA and MAC M'CARTY, the HENRY COLES, MARY and R. G. HART, JR., the HARRY STONES, and the FRED CULPEPPERS, JR.

Intended as an outdoor party before the weatherman changed all that, a family barbecue turned into a buffet supper at the home of the LON HEUERS last Friday night. The JIM WILLIAMS were co-hosts at this party honoring the Wattleys. Twelve children ate on the veranda, and nine adults were served in the dining room, and the rain dampened no spirits.

DOT WILLIAMS was hostess again Saturday night, this time at a surprise fortieth birthday party for Jim. Games from childhood were the order of the evening, with KAY SHELTON winning Stop-the-Music. Favors were little combs and brushes and miniature tea sets for the "girls"; toy alligators and squirt rings for the "boys". Barbeque shrimp supper was served to six couples.

Crawfish bisque was the elegant dish served when the DARRELL BRISBINS entertained at dinner Friday night. Centerpiece on the dining table was a horizontal arrangement of daisies, flanked with burning tapers. With the bisque, salad and French bread; for dessert, princess cup.

Honoring VIRGINIA REDDING, bride-elect of GILBERT MARX, BUNNY LINER was hostess at luncheon Friday noon in the private dining room of Bayou DeSiard country club. A pink theme was carried out in decorations, with pink asters in a silver bowl centering the pink-covered table. Ruby goblets completed the arrangements. There were twelve guests.

High point of the week for the college-bound set was a dance given in the young people's lounge of Bayou DeSiard country club Tuesday night. Hosts for the affair were COURTLAND GRAY and ARTHUR ENSMINGER, who are entering Annapolis; JACK BURTON, who will go to Tulane; and CECIL HILL, whose fall plans are to attend L. S. U.

During the evening, MIKE WILSON, BUNZIE BRYANT and JIMMIE HOWARD, three members of the mile relay team, presented Courtland with a placque enscribed "To the Best First Man the State." The Abstracts played for dancing from nine until one. . . . Courtland and Arthur left on Thursday for a week in New York and Washington before reporting to Annapolis this coming Thursday morning.

In answer to those alluring advertisements which read "Recapture romance at Mt. Panorama Lodge, by beautiful Bridal Wreath Falls . . ." Georgie Starbuck Galbraith has this to say:

They scramble the trail to Lookout Point
And watch as the dawn unfurls,
Alone, these two, with the fabulous view.
And the first words are the girl's:
"George, I don't see why you keep saying we can't afford color TV. My goodness, if we can afford a trip like this—"
The falls are majestic and old as time.
There are rainbows in the spray.
And she stands at his side like a pensive bride.
And what does the darling say?
"George, I have the most horrible feeling I went off and left the water running in the washbowl. The phone rang and—"
But now it's night, and the mountaintops
Finger the stars above.
And she turns her eyes from the glittering skies
And speaks to her legal love:
"George, do you think I ought to take those rhinestones off of my blue chiffon? They look sort of outr'e."

Miss Birdsong, Mr. Smith Exchange Wedding Vows

Solemnized Saturday, June 17 in the First Baptist church at Haynesville, was the wedding of Miss Nancy Lee Birdsong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Judson Birdsong of Haynesville and Frank Phipps Smith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phipps Smith Sr., o Monroe

Baskets of pink gladioli with specimen shasta daisies and branched candelabra holding pink tapers formed a setting for the double ring ceremony at 5:30 p.m. performed by Rev. E. V. Appling.

Nuptial selections were played by the organist, Mrs. H. P. Camp Jr., who also accompanied Mrs. Conway Rucks as she sang "Because," and "At Dawning."

Wearing a gown of white Italian silk with chapel length train the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Alencon lace embroidered with sequins and seed pearls defined the neckline and extended down the front of the skirt, and a fringed bustle bow, trimmed with the lace medalions marked the back waistline. A crown of Italian silk embroidered with sequins and pearls held her veil of imported illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis with satin ribbons and maline puffs, centered with purple and white orchids.

Miss Joan Rucks, Haynesville, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Weltha Collins of Haynesville and Miss Dot Watt of Ruston. Their dresses of pink peau de soie were fashioned with basque waists, elbow sleeves and bell skirts and their headdresses were of matching peau de soie with tulle veils. Pink satin slippers completed their costumes and they carried bouquets of pink asters with maline puffs.

Candlelighters were Miss Barbara Smith, Monroe, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Linda Parham, Minden, cousin of the bride. They wore identical dresses of pink cotton satin with silk organza cummerbunds and matching satin slippers. Their wrist corsages were of pink carnations.

Mr. Smith attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Ramon W. Birdsong, Haynesville, and John P. Birdsong, Longview, Tex., brothers of the bride. Ushers included Tom Causey of Monroe, Richard Barron, Plain Dealing; Larry Stephens, Bill Ledoux, Mack Hunt, all of Monroe and John Holstead of Ruston.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Birdsong chose a champagne linen lace sheath with a green cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Smith, wore a dress of slate blue embroidered silk and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the exchange of vows a reception was held in the Fellowship room of the church. Pink asters formed the centerpiece for the bride's table which held the tiered cake and punch bowl at opposite ends, flanked by silver candelabra, holding pink tapers. Baskets of pink gladioli and greenery were used as a background and the guest book table, covered with an antique lace cloth, also held pink asters. Assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Ramon W. Birdsong, Haynesville; Mrs. John P. Birdsong, Longview, Tex., Mrs. Wilburn Evans, Ruston; Mrs. Alfred H. Gillespie, Haynesville, at the bride's table; Miss Martha Campbell, at the guest book and tea girls were Misses Sandra Reeder and Cecelia Reeder of Monroe.

For a wedding trip the bride changed to a black silk and wool suit with white silk organza hat and gloves, patent shoes and bag and the orchids from her bouquet. The couple will establish a home in Memphis, Tenn.

Mrs. Smith graduated from Haynesville high school and will receive her degree from Louisiana Tech in January, 1962. She is a member of Phi Mu, Alpha Tau Delta and Who's Who. A graduate of Neville high school in Monroe, Mr. Smith received his degree in chemical engineering from Louisiana Tech. He is a past president of his fraternity Pi Kappa Alpha.

Monroe residents among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ledoux, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Causey, Mr. and Mrs. G.L. Stephens Jr., J. S. Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weir, Vevia and Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dupuy Jr., Miss Penny Meredith, Robert R. Rainer, Mrs. Malcolm J. Keith, Mrs. P. E. Reeder, Sandra and Cecelia.

MISS BARBARA LENARD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Lenard of West Monroe, will become the bride of Reginald Russell on July 7. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Russell, also of West Monroe.

MRS. GEORGE WOODROW JACKSON

Shreveport Church Scene Of Jackson-Stanley Vows

Pedestal baskets of white gladioli, jade commodore fern and tall white tapers in branched candelabra banked the altar of the First Methodist church in Shreveport for the wedding of Miss Barbara Sue Stanley and George Woodrow Jackson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. L. Dykes Jr., on Friday, June 16 at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark G. Stanley of Calhoun and Mr. Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Jackson of Jackson, Miss.

Mrs. Harold Booth, organist and John Hall, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music which included "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza, styled with a wide sweeping skirt and full cathedral train. A draped cummer bund accented the waist and appliques of Alencon lace, re-embroidered with crystals and seed pearls embellished the bodice and were repeated on the skirt. Her veil of illusion fell from a jewel-encrusted shell hat and she carried a white prayer book, on which rested her bouquet of a white cattleya orchid, encircled with nylon illusion, seed pearls, stephanotis and frenched carnations.

Miss Betty Jane McCartney of Monroe, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Herman C. Meadows Jr., Shreveport and Mrs. Thomas Smith of Monroe. They wore identical gowns of Romance Blue in waltz length, styled with very full skirts, round necklines and brief sleeves. Nose veils were attached to their close-fitting half hats which matched their blue gloves and shoes. They carried semi-cascades of large petal pink asters, accented with clipped foliage and satin streamers.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Groomsmen were Jerry Dean Warren of Mooringsport; and Austin A. Sartin of Shreveport, and ushers were Warren D. Caileff and Francis Kelker of Shreveport.

Mrs. Stanley wore for her daughter's wedding a blue lace sheath with matching accessories and a lavender orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a dusty rose lace sheath with matching accessories and a lavender orchid. The grandmother of the bride also wore a lavender orchid.

A ceremony was held in the church parlor following the cermony, where the bride's table, covered with a white satin cloth was centered with the bride's bouquet, with the silver punch bowl and tiered cake at opposite ends. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Foster Gullatt, Mrs. W. B. Yerger, Mrs. Ewell Camp Jr., Mrs. Frank Golson Jr., Mrs. Gene Simmons, Mrs. Jerry Warren and Mrs. Austin Sartin.

Miss Evelyn Palmer presided at the bride's book at a table graced with a memory candle encircled with tiny white flowers, lace and pearls.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a navy dotted silk ensemble with white pillbox and other accessories in navy. She wore the white orchid from her bouquet. The couple will be at home in Shreveport.

Mrs. Jackson received her degree from Northeast Louisiana State College and is now on the faculty of South Highland school in Shreveport. Mr. Jackson attended the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. He served two years with the navy and is presently employed in Shreveport.

Area Couple Wed In Hodge

On Saturday, June 17 in the Fellowship Baptist Church near Hodge, Miss Frances Irene Newsom became the bride of Byron D. Simpson. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Newsom of Minden and he is the son of Mrs. Gertrude Simpson of Minden and Wallace Simpson of Galveston, Texas.

The 7 p.m. ceremony was performed by Rev. D. B. Tullos in a setting of white gladioli and fern and white tapers in branched candelabra. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Claude Welch, pianist and candles were lighted by Miss Billie Jean Stewart and Eddie Maxwell.

Given in marriage by her uncle, J. Edd Cox, the bride wore a gown of white Alencon lace over taffeta, fashioned with full skirt and lace jacket. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of white carnations centered by a purple throated orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Ben Daniels of Jonesboro served as matron of honor and wore a gown of pink chiffon with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage. Misses Bettye Newsom and Marion Rasbury, dressed in white and orchid chiffon, respectively, were bridesmaids. Their corsages were of white carnations.

Bobby King of Minden served as best man and ushers were Jimmy McDaniels and John D. Moore, also of Minden.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. J. Edd Cox, uncle and aunt of the bride, were hosts at a reception in the church parlor. Mrs. Dick Davis, Shreveport, sister of the bride, had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Floyd Miles and Mrs. Carl Donaldson served the wedding cake and Mrs. Lester Morgan and Mrs. Grover Malone alternated at the punch bowl. After a short wedding trip to Galveston, Tex. the couple will reside in Minden.

Bearded Iris In Profusion

By MILDRED SWIFT

When driving through Kentucky and Tennessee, I enjoyed the beared iris that were blooming so profusely.

In many areas they were used as a ground cover. Some clumps were as large as a big tub. They just will not do that for us here in Ouachita.

By the time the clumps begin to get thick enough to make a showing, the rhizomes get so interlocked they quit blooming. Do you suppose we fertilize too heavily trying to get specimen blossoms? Or is it the soil or weather thy like best there? Some of these bearded iris were growing on the side of red clay hills with every clump full of blooms.

HYDRANGEAS

I don't know why we worry about the hydrangeas being blue or pink. They're gorgeous either color or variegated. They're lovely in the garden or cut for the house. The only disadvantage to having these in the garden is that they are so dead and unattractive in the winter.

The most familiar variety around here is the hortensia. The flowers of the oak leaf hydrangea are very beautiful but lesser known. It is so named because its large lobed leaves resemble an oak leaf in shape. This plant grows as high as six feet or more and bears long panicles of creamy white flowers which are slightly fragrant.

The blooming period lasts three to four weeks, beginning in May. As the flowers age they change color. Thus the reason for many arguments about the color of the blooms of the oak leaf hydrangea.

This variety grows wild in Louisiana, but is among the 20 scarce plants on the conservation list. Searcity forbids such flowers to be used at flower shows except in educational exhibits. There are several gardens growing this type and nurserymen sometimes carry them. There's a climbing hydrangea, too that is quite showy.

Most varieties of hydrangeas are propogated by cuttings. Some gardeners prefer to make these when they prune the shrubs, right after blooming. Some wait until August to take advantage of the summer rains. Others prefer to wait until October when the wood is more mature.

The limbs of our common Hortensia take root where they touch the ground. Just bend a branch, put a brick on it and by next January you'll have a plant ready to move.

Hydrangeas like a rich, moist soil and partial shade. Sun fades the blossoms. They do well on the north side of the garden.

GARDEN JOBS

Now is a good time to root such plants as boxwood, susanqua, camellia, azalea, ligustrum. You'll get better results by using one of the root inducing substances, following instructions on the package. This may be purchased in the feed and seed stores.

Remember that camellias are setting buds, so keep them well watered.

Keep plants mulched, especially azaleas and camellias.

Some seed you can still plant are: bolsam, calleopsis, celosia, portulaca, zinnia, salvia, marigold.

There's a new type Easter lily known as the Georgia. It is a later bloomer than the one we usually grow which is the Creole. I don't know where you can buy these bulbs but, in the fall you may like to extend the period of Easter lilies by planting some of both.

Any garden debris such as weeds, grass clippings, dead annuals and perennials are all valuable in your compost pile. Pea and bean hulls, vegetable peelings and trimmings can all go in this pile to make valuable humus for next year.

If you are yearning for hibiscus blooms and regret not buying plants earlier, it is not too late if you buy bucket plants. Ask the nurseryman to cut the bucket in several places. Slide the plant down into a well watered hole. Fill in with good soil. Trim off the tips of hibiscuss branches promptly after blooming to promote the growth of new wood and more flower buds.

PEDILANTHUS

Pedilanthus with its green angular stems, attractive foliage and small bird - like red flowers which appear in late spring, is a popular pot plant in north Louisiana. This is a tropical succulent plant which exudes a milky white juice when cut. It is a member of the spurge family, to which the poinsettia belongs.

Pedilanthus is easy to grow and easy to propagate from cuttings. They seem to be free from insects and disease, though I have seen some few affected with white scale.

The plants, including at least three varieties grow to about five feet in height. They all have the same general appearance as to erect growth habit, stem size and flowers. Their difference is in the leaf size and coloring. Two varieties have oval shaped leaves in plain green and in variegated white and green colors. The leaves are about an inch and a half long. The variegated leaves which tend toward a cup shape are banded white along the edges and get a pink blush on them at times.

A third variety has leaves four inches long and almost three inches wide at the widest portion. The leaf color is light green with a reddish tint. Flowers of all three varieties are about three fourths of an inch long and the same red color.

The leaves fall in winter. Flowers appear in the spring over about a three week period, when the plants are almost bare of foliage. After the flowers fall, new leaves appear.

Flower arrangers love the branches of the pedilanthus and they are long lasting. The stems are used as line material. Stems should be conditioned in advance by immersing them fully in water for five to six hours.

When leaves must be stripped from stems for arrangements, the stems should be dipped in hot water to control the bleeding. The top leaves are usually left on the stems for "line" arrangements.

Propagation by cuttings is best in spring and summer. Break a branch at a joint so it has a little "heel" which makes rooting enough to include some of the older wood. This does not bleed as much as the new wood. The cuttings will root in water or in soil. Our garden encyclopedia recommends letting the cuttings dry at the base before planting. This plant can also be propagated by division.

Mrs. Pohl says that gardenias will stay fresh for days if you'll add one fourth teaspoon of clorox in each pint of water and make the water a little cooler than that coming from the tap.

Mrs. Eula Gregory has made some attractive hanging baskets for her patio. What do you suppose she used? Mule muzzles bought from a feed and seed store for 50 cents a piece. She attached dog chains for hanging, lined the muzzles with moss, filled them with soil and planted them. Drive by and see how resourcefulness pays off.

MEN'S FASHIONS

The fashion spotlight does not shine exclusively on women's fashions this spring. In fact, a leading New York tailor predicts some outstanding changes. Men's apparel has rapidly become more casual, comfortable and colorful.

He says, "We are returning to an era of the gay '70's with brighter colors, shorter length jackets, rounded fronts, but in a revised form. Lapels will be narrower, if any. Suits will be looser. Of course the high starched collars will never come back".

While every season hails exciting collections of varied styles for women, men's fashions have had comparatively few changes through the years. Today a man's garb weighs less, his collars are narrower and not so stiffly starched.

This well known designer of men's fashions is all for getting away from such old fashioned touches as: Watch pockets in a wrist watch age; buttons on sleeves when men no longer use them; trouser cuffs which were designed to catch dropping coins. He is really all out for doing away with these old fashioned touches and the generally drab look of men's apparel.

Home Garden Yields Good Crop Of Beans

Pole beans of a variety handed down in her family for many years are thriving in the garden of Mrs. Estelle Powell, 805 Cole Ave.

The variety, which she calls the "Six Weeks Bean," since the original name was forgotten long ago, is highly productive.

In her garden are four rows 35 feet in length. The beans were planted around the first of May, but by early last week she had harvested 42 pints for the deep freezer and given away about a bushel.

Mrs. Powell said she counted 55 bean pods taken off a single plant.

LENGTHY

"A lot of the bean pods are about 10 inches long and as big around as a thumb," she said. "The string bean is about the shape of a Kentucky Wonder. The pod has a purplish uneven stripe on it. The bean is similar in color to the pod. When it is dry it is brown with a darker brown stripe. It is real mild, sweet, and has a delicious flavor."

Leaves on the vines are about six inches across and are in groups of three.

Mrs. Powell said that in the past she had been raising a row or two at various times and that supplied a sufficient amount for the family's needs.

FIRST HERE

This is the first crop she has raised here, however. She and her family have lived in Monroe since 1956 when they came from Birmingham, Ala.

Foliage growth is abundant. The vines range up and down the six-foot high poles and are still growing and blooming.

One row has been left alone during the past three weeks so beans can be harvested for seed.

Mrs. Powell explained that she has sent samples of the beans off to a seed company to see if she can find out the name of the species.

"We call them the Six Weeks Bean, because six weeks after the vines come up you're eating beans, she said. "There hasn't been any insect damage and the seed were never treated."

A section of lawn was converted into a garden plot. "And I used rotten cotton burs, barnyard fertilizer and then fertilized with 8-8-8," she explained.

SINGLE RAINBOW asters add charm and beauty to gardens where the larger double varieties are present.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Lily Show Milestone

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

A refrigerated national lily show on the 30th of June will be another milestone in Southern horticulture.

On that day at noon, the lily show will open in the ball room of the Carolina Inn on the campus of the University of North Carolian at Chapel Hill. Flowers will have been shipped to Chapel Hill under refrigeration from all over the United States, and Canada, and the gardening public will be priviledged to see them in an air - conditioned hall.

ANNUAL MEET

This lily show will accompany the annual meeting of The North American Lily Society. Members of the society from the West Coast to the East have registered at the Carolina Inn. and many horticultural notables will be there.

Professor A. M. Showalter will lecture at 3:45 on "Eastern Native Species and their Hybrids." At 8:30, P. M., Professor George Slate will lecture on "Lily Diseases." At 2:00 P. M., July 1st. Jan de Graff will speak on "Storing, Packing and Judging Lilies," and at 2:45, Dr. George Doak, President of the Society, will speak on "Lilies in the South."

There will be several visitors from England, and they have agreed to speak informally. At all of these national meetings of horticultural societies, a round table discussion takes place. George Holland will be the moderator at 3:30. Then, at 4:30. Earl Hornbeck, manager of Oregon Bulb Farms will lecture on "Genetis Factors in Auratum - Speciosum Hybrids." At 6:30, the annual Banquet will take place in the Carolina Inn, and then Dr. S. L. Emsweller of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will speak at 8:00 P. M. on "Recent Developments in Research on Lilies."

NO CHARGE

All of these lecturers and the lily show are open to the public, free of charge, but any contributions the public wishes to make to help defray the great expense of staging this national show will be gratefully received at the door.

Besides the lily show in the Carolina Inn ball room, there will be an exhibition of books and engravings on lilies in Peabody Hall across the street where the lectures will take place. This exhibition will be on loan from your columnist's research library, and already, I have been sitting up late at night preparing it. The books, periodicals and engravings extend over a period from the year 1629 until the present.

Perhaps it is in order here to say that the North American Lily Society has to do only with the true, scale - bulb lilies like the Easter lily, the tiger lily and the Madonna lily. Many lily - shaped flowers are not true lilies in the Genus Lilium at all, but belong, botanically, to other plant groups and families.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Fleur-De-Lis Club Display Beautiful

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR
Guest Writer

The Fleur-de-Lis Garden Club of Monroe had a beautiful show at the Garden Center last week, featuring all church arrangements.

Mrs. John Lewis used the lovely Louisiana magnolia to create a massed vertical design—one so suitable for the high church interior. Her container was a brass compote-type made from the base of an old lamp.

It was very suitable for the church and the type material she chose for her arrangement. Tall and fully leafed branches of the magnolia formed the massed vertical line. The tight bud of the magnolia was placed at the highest point of the design. More buds graduating larger in size down into the design to the fully opened flower at the base of the design created transition and formed the focal point.

ACCENTED

This large blossom was accented by the leaves and two partially opened buds of the magnolia. Several of the leaves placed low covered the edge of the container. It was very beautiful in its design and expressed hope and aspiration.

Mrs. J. W. Golson use a tall white compote for her container. She created a cheerful all-yellow symetrical triangle design by using the light green and yellow stripped cane grass cut to form the over-all triangle. Within this line she placed the yellow glads for her main flower. For filler she used the yellow summer chrysanthemums and light yellow and creamy-white roses. Larger glad blossoms placed low in the design formed the focal area. These were accented by the Golden Honeysuckle foliage.

LOVELY GLADS

For her second arrangement Mrs. Golson used lovely lavender glads to form the line of the mass triangle. These she placed in a gray urn-type container. For filler she used the horse mint high in the design, and, nearer the focal point she placed the lovely dainty lavender cleome.

The focal was achieved by using a cluster of the purple into light green coleus which was placed low and partially hanging over the edge of the container. Three aspidistra leaves were placed to the back of the design to form a background for the glads and to create depth.

Mrs. Ruth Neeley created an all white assymetrical design—using the pure white glads in a tall white compote container.

Safeguard Ornamentals

By AUDREY DAWSON

Watch for insects on your ornamentals during the warm humid months. Use malathion to control aphids, mealybugs and white fly.

The summer months is the ideal time to take cuttings of your favorite shrubs. These might include photenia, sasanqua and pittosporum. A root inducing substance such as bormodin 1, 2 or 3 will often hasten rooting. Be sure to keep the cutting bed moist at all times.

Four roeses have won the 1962 All American Award. They are Golden Slippers, John S. Armstrong, Christian Dior and Kings Ransom. Golden Slipper is a brilliant orange florebunda, flowers bloom in large clusters — smlal to medium in size. John Armstrong is a red grandiflora. Charlotte Armstrong which we all know is one of its parents. It is a dark velvety red. Christian Dior is a crimson red. Kings Ransom is a yellow hybrid tea.

There have been 56 All American roses selected since 1940. It surely gives rose growers a wide variety of winners to select from.

DINING AREA

Mrs. Homemaker, if you are planning to build a new home there's a must if you are to be happy with your dining area, because we Americans use this area of the house pretty often. Plan carefully for space requirements in dining areas — not matter whether it is located in the family room or dining room. Measure your table size and allow not less than two feet on each side and at each end of the table. Three feet will really be more satisfactory. However, two feet allows minimum space for a straight-leg chair and for getting up. Three feet allows space for serving and is recommended for company meals. Remember this does not provide space for storing china or additional furniture.

The common cockroach is still the number one pest for the homemaker and it seems that they begin their migration during the summer months, so it is best to watch out for them and do something on their first arrival. Use a spray containing malathion or diazion.

Your tried and true friend for summer wear in 1961 is cotton. This year, more than ever before, you can take your pick of different types of cotton, different weaves of cotton, different treatments of cotton. You can sleep, play, work, date, dine and dance in cotton or cotton blends. Cottons have never been more beautiful. In buying, you will want to look for the sanforized label which assures you there will be no more than one per cent shrinkage and if you are buying in the wash-and-wear field, you will look for that fairly new label—sanforized plus. This label tells you that the wash and wear is not only shrinkage controlled and crease resistant, but needs nothing more than touch up ironing.

Today the homemaker who is also the food shopper, is faced with thousands of different food items in the modern super market, and these foods are packed in a multitude of different kinds and shapes of containers. To know what we are buying we must read the label on the container. Each label must include the following name of product, packer or processor, the ingredients and weight of contents. The label tells the shopper what she is buying.

DID YOU KNOW

Did you know that we have grown from a nation in which one of every four workers had to produce food to a nation in which one farmer is efficiently producing food for 24. One hour of farm labor today produces four times as much food and other crops as it did in 1921. Also, today we can choose from as many as 5,000 different foods when we go to market—fresh, canned, frozen, concentrated, ready mixed, ready to serve or in heat and serve form.

MOTHS BATTLE

Getting rid of moths depends on a combination of good housekeeping and use of insect-killing chemicals. Thorough cleaning of closets and drawers, using the radiator cleaning attachment of the vacuum sweeper over cracks and behind baseboards will remove the lint and hair on which insects depend for food. After cleaning, spray closet walls and floors and cracks behind baseboards with a household grade solution of 5 per cent DDT or two to three per cent chlordane or paint moldings and shelves with the solution.

The leaves fall in winter. Flowers appear in the spring over about a three week period, when the plants are almost bare of foliage. After the flowers fall, new leaves appear.

Flower arrangers love the branches of the pedilanthus and they are long lasting. The stems are used as line material. Stems should be conditioned in advance by immersing them fully in water for five to six hours.

When leaves must be stripped from stems for arrangements, the stems should be dipped in hot water to control the bleeding. The top leaves are usually left on the stems for "line" arrangements.

Propagation by cuttings is best in spring and summer. Break a branch at a joint so it has a little "heel" which makes rooting enough to include some of the older wood. This does not bleed as much as the new wood. The cuttings will root in water or in soil. Our garden encyclopedia recommends letting the cuttings dry at the base before planting. This plant can also be propagated by division.

READERS CONTRIBUTIONS

Mrs. Pohl says that gardenias will stay fresh for days if you'll add one fourth teaspoon of clorox in each pint of water and make the water a little cooler than that coming from the tap.

Mrs. Eula Gregory has made some attractive hanging baskets for her patio. What do you suppose she used? Mule muzzles bought from a feed and seed store for 50 cents a piece. She attached dog chains for hanging, lined the muzzles with moss, filled them with soil and planted them. Drive by and see how resourcefulness pays off.

MEN'S FASHIONS

The fashion spotlight does not shine exclusively on women's fashions this spring. In fact, a leading New York tailor predicts some outstanding changes. Men's apparel has rapidly become more casual, comfortable and colorful.

He says, "We are returning to an era of the gay '70's with brighter colors, shorter length jackets, rounded fronts, but in a revised form. Lapels will be narrower, if any. Suits will be looser. Of course the high starched collars will never come back".

While every season hails exciting collections of varied styles for women, men's fashions have had comparatively few changes through the years. Today a man's garb weighs less, his collars are narrower and not so stiffly starched.

This well known designer of men's fashions is all for getting away from such old fashioned touches as: Watch pockets in a wrist watch age; buttons on sleeves when men no longer use them; trouser cuffs which were designed to catch dropping coins. He is really all out for doing away with these old fashioned touches and the generally drab look of men's apparel.

Home Garden Yields Good Crop Of Beans

Pole beans of a variety handed down in her family for many years are thriving in the garden of Mrs. Estelle Powell, 805 Cole Ave.

The variety, which she calls the "Six Weeks Bean," since the original name was forgotten long ago, is highly productive.

In her garden are four rows 35 feet in length. The beans were planted around the first of May, but by early last week she had harvested 42 pints for the deep freezer and given away about a bushel.

Mrs. Powell said she counted 55 bean pods taken off a single plant.

LENGTHY

"A lot of the bean pods are about 10 inches long and as big around as a thumb," she said. "The string bean is about the shape of a Kentucky Wonder. The pod has a purplish uneven stripe on it. The bean is similar in color to the pod. When it is dry it is brown with a darker brown stripe. It is real mild, sweet, and has a delicious flavor."

Leaves on the vines are about six inches across and are in groups of three.

Mrs. Powell said that in the past she had been raising a row or two at various times and that supplied a sufficient amount for the family's needs.

FIRST HERE

This is the first crop she has raised here, however. She and her family have lived in Monroe since 1956 when they came from Birmingham, Ala.

Foliage growth is abundant. The vines range up and down the six-foot high poles and are still growing and blooming.

One row has been left alone during the past three weeks so beans can be harvested for seed.

Mrs. Powell explained that she has sent samples of the beans off to a seed company to see if she can find out the name of the species.

"We call them the Six Weeks Bean, because six weeks after the vines come up you're eating beans, she said. "There hasn't been any insect damage and the seed were never treated."

A section of lawn was converted into a garden plot, "And I used rotten cotton burs, barnyard fertilizer and then fertilized with 8-8-8," she explained.

SINGLE RAINBOW asters add charm and beauty to gardens where the larger double varieties are present.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Fleur-De-Lis Club Display Beautiful

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR
Guest Writer

The Fleur-de-Lis Garden Club of Monroe had a beautiful show at the Garden Center last week, featuring all church arrangements.

Mrs. John Lewis used the lovely Louisiana magnolia to create a massed vertical design—one so suitable for the high church interior. Her container was a brass compote-type made from the base of an old lamp.

It was very suitable for the church and the type material she chose for her arrangement. Tall and fully leafed branches of the magnolia formed the massed vertical line. The tight bud of the magnolia was placed at the highest point of the design. More buds graduating larger in size down into the design to the fully opened flower at the base of the design created transition and formed the focal point.

ACCENTED

This large blossom was accented by the leaves and two partially opened buds of the magnolia. Several of the leaves placed low covered the edge of the container. It was very beautiful in its design and expressed hope and aspiration.

Mrs. J. W. Golson use a tall white compote for her container. She created a cheerful all-yellow symetrical triangle design by using the light green and yellow stripped cane grass cut to form the over-all triangle. Within this line she placed the yellow glads for her main flower. For filler she used the yellow summer chrysanthemums and light yellow and creamy-white roses. Larger glad blossoms placed low in the design formed the focal area. These were accented by the Golden Honeysuckle foliage.

LOVELY GLADS

For her second arrangement Mrs. Golson used lovely lavender glads to form the line of the mass triangle. These she placed in a gray urn-type container. For filler she used the horse mint high in the design, and, nearer the focal point she placed the lovely dainty lavender cleome.

The focal was achieved by using a cluster of the purple into light green coleus which was placed low and partially hanging over the edge of the container. Three aspidistra leaves were placed to the back of the design to form a background for the glads and to create depth.

Mrs. Ruth Neeley created an all white assymetrical design—using the pure white glads in a tall white compote container.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Lily Show Milestone

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

A refrigerated national lily show on the 30th of June will be another milestone in Southern horticulture.

On that day at noon, the lily show will open in the ball room of the Carolina Inn on the campus of the University of North Carolian at Chapel Hill. Flowers will have been shipped to Chapel Hill under refrigeration from all over the United States, and Canada, and the gardening public will be priviledged to see them in an air - conditioned hall.

ANNUAL MEET

This lily show will accompany the annual meeting of The North American Lily Society. Members of the society from the West Coast to the East have registered at the Carolina Inn. and many horticultural notables will be there.

Professor A. M. Showalter will lecture at 3:45 on "Eastern Native Species and their Hybrids." At 8:30, P. M., Professor George Slate will lecture on "Lily Diseases." At 2:00 P. M., July 1st. Jan de Graff will speak on "Storing, Packing and Judging Lilies." and at 2:45, Dr. George Doak, President of the Society, will speak on "Lilies in the South."

There will be several visitors from England, and they have agreed to speak informally. At all of these national meetings of horticultural societies, a round table discussion takes place. George Holland will be the moderator at 3:30. Then, at 4:30, Earl Hornbeck, manager of Oregon Bulb Farms will lecture on "Genetis Factors in Auratum - Speciosum Hybrids." At 6:30, the annual Banquet will take place in the Carolina Inn, and then Dr. S. L. Emsweller of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will speak at 8:00 P. M. on "Recent Developments in Research on Lilies."

NO CHARGE

All of these lecturers and the lily show are open to the public, free of charge, but any contributions the public wishes to make to help defray the great expense of staging this national show will be gratefully received at the door.

Besides the lily show in the Carolina Inn ball room, there will be an exhibition of books and engravings on lilies in Peabody Hall across the street where the lectures will take place. This exhibition will be on loan from your columnist's research library, and already, I have been sitting up late at night preparing it. The books, periodicals and engravings extend over a period from the year 1629 until the present.

Perhaps it is in order here to say that the North American Lily Society has to do only with the true, scale - bulb lilies like the Easter lily, the tiger lily and the Madonna lily. Many lily - shaped flowers are not true lilies in the Genus Lilium at all, but belong, botanically, to other plant groups and families.

Safeguard Ornamentals

By AUDREY DAWSON

Watch for insects on your ornamentals during the warm humid months. Use malathion to control aphids, mealybugs and white fly.

The summer months is the ideal time to take cuttings of your favorite shrubs. These might include photenia, sasanqua and pittosporum. A root inducing substance such as bormodin 1, 2 or 3 will often hasten rooting. Be sure to keep the cutting bed moist at all times.

Four roeses have won the 1962 All American Award. They are Golden Slippers, John S. Armstrong, Christian Dior and Kings Ransom. Golden Slipper is a brilliant orange florebunda, flowers bloom in large clusters — smlal to medium in size. John Armstrong is a red grandiflora. Charlotte Armstrong which we all know is one of its parents. It is a dark velvety red. Christian Dior is a crimson red. Kings Ransom is a yellow hybrid tea.

There have been 56 All American roses selected since 1940. It surely gives rose growers a wide variety of winners to select from.

DINING AREA

Mrs. Homemaker, if you are planning to build a new home there's a must if you are to be happy with your dining area, because we Americans use this area of the house pretty often. Plan carefully for space requirements in dining areas — not matter whether it is located in the family room or dining room. Measure your table size and allow not less than two feet on each side and at each end of the table. Three feet will really be more satisfactory. However, two feet allows minimum space for a straight-leg chair and for getting up. Three feet allows space for serving and is recommended for company meals. Remember this does not provide space for storing china or additional furniture.

The common cockroach is still the number one pest for the homemaker and it seems that they begin their migration during the summer months, so it is best to watch out for them and do something on their first arrival. Use a spray containing malathion or diazion.

Your tried and true friend for summer wear in 1961 is cotton. This year, more than ever before, you can take your pick of different types of cotton, different weaves of cotton, different treatments of cotton. You can sleep, play, work, date, dine and dance in cotton or cotton blends. Cottons have never been more beautiful. In buying, you will want to look for the sanforized label which assures you there will be no more than one per cent shrinkage and if you are buying in the wash-and-wear field, you will look for that fairly new label—sanforized plus. This label tells you that the wash and wear is not only shrinkage controlled and crease resistant, but needs nothing more than touch up froning.

Today the homemaker who is also the food shopper, is faced with thousands of different food items in the modern super market, and these foods are packed in a multitude of different kinds and shapes of containers. To know what we are buying we must read the label on the container. Each label must include the following name of product, packer or processor, the ingredients and weight of contents. The label tells the shopper what she is buying.

DID YOU KNOW

Did you know that we have grown from a nation in which one of every four workers had to produce food to a nation in which one farmer is efficiently producing food for 24. One hour of farm labor today produces four times as much food and other crops as it did in 1921. Also, today we can choose from as many as 5,000 different foods when we go to market—fresh, canned, frozen, concentrated, ready mixed, ready to serve or in heat and serve form.

MOTHS BATTLE

Getting rid of moths depends on a combination of good housekeeping and use of insect-killing chemicals. Thorough cleaning of closets and drawers, using the radiator cleaning attachment of the vacuum sweeper over cracks and behind baseboards will remove the lint and hair on which insects depend for food. After cleaning, spray closet walls and floors and cracks behind baseboards with a household grade solution of 5 per cent DDT or two to three per cent chlordane or paint moldings and shelves with the solution.

Harry Truman To Speak At College

PINEVILLE (Special) — Ex-president Harry S. Truman will speak at Louisiana College in the fall.

The former chief executive will deliver his address, "The Presiency" at that time, according to announcement this week from Prof. Raymond D. Nichols, chairman of the school's lyceum committee and art department head.

"Truman's appearance will feature our 1961-62 lyceum course. His speech will be delivered at night in the Alexandria Hall auditorium. It will be the first of three lyceum numbers scheduled for the college next year," Prof. Nichols explained.

It will mark the first time in L.C. history that a former U. S. president has visited the Pineville campus.

No definite date for the Truman appearance has as yet been set, it was learned.

"Dr. A. Loyd Collins, director of student activities at Louisiana College and personal friend of Ex-President Truman, has handled correspondence on this. Dr. Collins' hometown in Missouri is close to that of Truman's," Prof Nichols added.

In a recent letter to Dr. Collins Truman stated, in part: "I am working out my fall schedule so I can have things in line and include your good college... I will let you hear from me a little later about a definite date." Dr. Collins is a native of Clinton, Mo., only 70 mies from Independence, Truman's hometown.

Two Negroes Found Guilty Of Murder

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — An all-white district court jury Friday night found two Lafayette Negroes guilty of the murder of Elier Duhon, an elderly grocer.

The two, Adam Mack, 22 and Shelden Williams, 26, face death in the electric chair.

Kenry Feast, 22-year-old Negro, was foind guilty without capital punishment, a verdict carrying a life sentence.

Two Negroes entered a grocery shortly after midnight June 25, 1960, beat Duhon to death with tire irons and took about $200 in cash. They fled in a car driven by Feast.

The jury deliberated six hours. The state had asked for the death penalty for all three.

ADVANCE PLANNING

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Have trouble planning your activities for next week?

The Association for Supervisors and Curriculum Development, a department of the National Education Association, already has booked its convention for 1962 in Atlantic City.

CHUCK MORGAN, as Ensign Pulver, sits on his rights in a harangue with fellow-gob Bob Smith, standing, as "Doc", as they rehearse for the production of "Mr. Roberts," the Broadway play to be presented by a local cast in the Strauss Broadway play to be presented by a local cast in the Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane from July 6-10 with nightly performances at 8:15 and one matinee at 2:30 on Sunday, July 9. But "Doc" is relating another of his many salty escapades in the play that was a Broadway hit comedy for more than three years and was a very successful movie. The production is co-sponsored by the Monroe Little Theatre and Northeast Louisiana State College. (Northast Louisiana State College News Bureau Photo)

Tension Grips Middle East In Wake Of Clash

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrian-Israeli frontier threatened to explode into a new Middle East crisis Saturday.

A series of gun clashes over the last five days has sent the strongest wave of tension this year sweeping along the 70-mile Syrian Israeli frontier.

A U. A. R. (Syrian) army spokesman said the fighting had begun June 19 when an Israeli tractor entered Arab lands in the demilitarized zone. Fighting continued through June 20 and 21 until the Israeli tractor was "forced to pull out," he said.

Another clash occurred Wednesday night near the Syrian outpost of Dardara. Both sides said there were no casualties.

Harry Truman To Speak At College

PINEVILLE (Special) — Ex-president Harry S. Truman will speak at Louisiana College in the fall.

The former chief executive will deliver his address, "The Presidency" at that time, according to announcement this week from Prof. Raymond D. Nichols, chairman of the school's lyceum committee and art department head.

"Truman's appearance will feature our 1961-62 lyceum course. His speech will be delivered at night in the Alexandria Hall auditorium. It will be the first of three lyceum numbers scheduled for the college next year," Prof. Nichols explained.

It will mark the first time in L.C. history that a former U. S. president has visited the Pineville campus.

No definite date for the Truman appearance has as yet been set, it was learned.

"Dr. A. Loyd Collins, director of student activities at Louisiana College and personal friend of Ex-President Truman, has handled correspondence on this. Dr. Collins' hometown in Missouri is close to that of Truman's," Prof Nichols added.

In a recent letter to Dr. Collins Truman stated, in part: "I am working out my fall schedule so I can have things in line and include your good college... I will let you hear from me a little later about a definite date." Dr. Collins is a native of Clinton, Mo., only 70 mies from Independence, Truman's hometown.

Two Negroes Found Guilty Of Murder

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — An all-white district court jury Friday night found two Lafayette Negroes guilty of the murder of Elier Duhon, an elderly grocer.

The two, Adam Mack, 22 and Shelden Williams, 26, face death in the electric chair.

Kenry Feast, 22-year-old Negro, was foind guilty without capital punishment, a verdict carrying a life sentence.

Two Negroes entered a grocery shortly after midnight June 25, 1960, beat Duhon to death with tire irons and took about $200 in cash. They fled in a car driven by Feast.

The jury deliberated six hours. The state had asked for the death penalty for all three.

ADVANCE PLANNING

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Have trouble planning your activities for next week?

The Association for Supervisors and Curriculum Development, a department of the National Education Association, already has booked its convention for 1963 in Atlantic City.

CHUCK MORGAN, as Ensign Pulver, sits on his rights in a harangue with fellow-gob Bob Smith, standing, as "Doc", as they rehearse for the production of "Mr. Roberts," the Broadway play to be presented by a local cast in the Strauss Broadway play to be presented by a local cast in the Strauss Playhouse on Lamy Lane from July 6-10 with nightly performances at 8:15 and one matinee at 2:30 on Sunday, July 9. But "Doc" is relating another of his many salty escapades in the play that was a Broadway hit comedy for more than three years and was a very successful movie. The production is co-sponsored by the Monroe Little Theatre and Northeast Louisiana State College. (Northast Louisiana State College News Bureau Photo)

Tension Grips Middle East In Wake Of Clash

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrian-Israeli frontier threatened to explode into a new Middle East crisis Saturday.

A series of gun clashes over the last five days has sent the strongest wave of tension this year sweeping along the 70-mile Syrian Israeli frontier.

A U. A. R. (Syrian) army spokesman said the fighting had begun June 19 when an Israeli tractor entered Arab lands in the demilitarized zone. Fighting continued through June 20 and 21 until the Israeli tractor was "forced to pull out," he said.

Another clash occurred Wednesday night near the Syrian outpost of Dardara. Both sides said there were no casualties.

AT SAN FRANCISCO

Vanderbilt Heir Leaps To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George Vanderbilt, 47-year-old heir to millions, leaped to his death from a 10th floor window of a Nob Hill hotel Saturday night, apparently worried over business difficulties and his yacht, the Pioneer.

Vanderbilt and his bride of three months, the former Louise Mitchell Paine, 41, registered at the Mark Hopkins Hotel early Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Vanderbilt said when her husband returned from an afternoon business meeting she went to the bathroom to dress for dinner.

When she came out a few minutes later, she said, her husband was gone. The window of the 10th floor suite was open and the drapes tied back. Vanderbilt's body was found on the pavement below.

Mrs. Vanderbilt said her husband had never threatened suicide and left no notes. When he returned from his business meeting Saturday he showed no unusual signs of strain, she said. But "there were some apparent business difficulties — and he was worried also about his yacht, the Pioneer," she said.

Vanderbilt, ardent sportsman, listed his residence at Shadow Valley Ranch, Edgewood, Calif. He also has homes in New York City and Hawaii.

He married the former Mrs. Paine at Scottsdale, Ariz., last March 23. It was his fourth marriage.

The millionaire was born in Rhode Island, the son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and the late Mrs. Margaret Emerson.

Muslim Threat Outlined By College Teacher

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Black Muslims, a Negro nationalist group, is a fast growing movement that could offer a real threat of violence, a professor at Atlanta's Clark College said Saturday.

"If the Muslims are attacked, they will fight," Dr. Eric C. Lincoln, who authored "The Black Muslim in America," told the annual race relations institution at Fisk University.

He said the violence might erupt if any of the group's members were attacked while protesting racial segregation in the South.

Lincoln estimated the movement's membership at 100,000 and rising. He said Muslims now have 72 temples in the United States, including some in the South.

The group's main goal, he said, is to found a separate Negro state in an area now occupied by 12 western states.

Monroe Negro Is Accused Of Felony Theft

A 47-year-old Negro was booked for felony theft by Monroe city police early Saturday morning and admitted the theft during questioning.

Willie T. Holland, 47, of 710 South 18th St., Monroe, was transferred to the parish jail after telling police where the approximately $40 worth of stolen merchandise could be found.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said Holland confessed having taken a set of dishes and a lawnmower from the store where he was employed.

The articles were recovered. The theft took place sometime Friday.

Man Wages Battle On City Hall

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—In the private war of Patrick Henry Boyle and his allies, two flop-eared dogs named Shadow and Chub, the city of St. Louis wins the battles, but Boyle apparently is winning the war.

Boyle, 52, a loquacious, athletic former custodian of the city's Forest Park field house, has occupied a corner of the building for eleven years and successfully thwarted all efforts to dispossess him.

It looked as though the city really had Boyle backed into his corner last week when a deputy sheriff arrived at the field house with a writ.

Faced with the legal instrument which plainly stated he must removed himself from the northeast corner of the field house, Boyle decided to shift his residence. Exhibiting a flair for tactics his namesake would have appreciated, Boyle moved his dogs and a few meager possessions, including a television set and radio, into the southeast corner.

The deputy retired. Nothing in his writ said anything about evicting Boyle from the southeast corner of the field house, where Patrick Henry now sits, stolidly defending his castle.

Boyle is a popular figure around the field house. He often plays handball on the nearby courts and his daily constitutionals with Shadow and Chub and frequent bicycle spins have made him a familiar sight to park visitors.

IN KATANGA PROVINCE

Thousands Greet Returning Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, (AP) — Cheering thousands snatched up President Moise Tshombe Saturday night and carried him on their shoulders as he returned from two months detention by the central government.

Hundreds in the crowd, black and white, tried to kiss Tshombe or touch him as he stepped from the DC4 airliner. Tshombe appeared overcome with emotion. The usual smile was not on his face.

An estimated total of 8,000 persons and a United Nations honor guard greeted Tshombe at the airport. Some 50,000 other persons waited for him to drive into Elisabethville in an open convertible. A little white girl gave him a bouquet of flowers when he reached the center of the flag-decked city.

Some youths carried banners reading, "We have lost confidence in the Congo" and, "Welcome back to Katanga martyrs Tshombe and Kimba."

Tshombe and his foreign minister, Evariste Kimba, were arrested by the central government April 26 when they tried to leave a political unity conference in Coquilhatville.

Tshombe was released Thursday and pledged he would cooperate with the Leopoldville government. Before his arrest, Tshombe had been an outspoken foe of a strong centralized government in Leopoldville. His rich province seceded from the Congo last year when Belgium granted independence.

But when released he said he would send Katanga delegates to a reconvened session of the Congolese Parliament scheduled to begin Sunday in Leopoldville and would cooperate to make the Congo a strong nation.

Gen. Joseph Mobutu, Leopoldville's armed forces commander, said Tshombe had agreed to put his strong, well-disciplined army under the central government's command. Seven Leopoldville army officers accompanied Tshombe on his return Saturday.

Many observers in Leopoldville were skeptical that Tshombe has really ended his quarrel with Leopoldville.

Citizens Slate Group To Push For Foreign Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — A citizens group is being organized with White House encouragement to lobby for President Kennedy's $4.8-billion foreign aid program, the New York Herald Tribune said Saturday night.

A Washington dispatch by David Wise said the idea behind the new Citizens Committee for International Development is to provide a forum for those who support the need for foreign aid.

Another aim, wrote Wise, is to offset the highly organized and vocal pressure groups working against the program.

"Up to now, only the opponents of foreign aid have been organized," he said. "The White House has quietly encouraged formation of the new group because the President's foreign aid bill faces a tough battle, particularly his request for long-term borrowing authority of $7.3 billion over the next five years."

Warren Lee Pierson, chairman of the executive committee of Trans World Airlines, reportedly has accepted chairmanship of the new committee, which opened an office in Washington a week ago.

Pierson was unavailable for comment.

Among those listed as having already accepted membership as vice chairmen are Thomas J. Watson Jr., president of the International Business Machines Corp.; Eugenia Anderson, former ambassador to Denmark; William S. Paley, board chairman of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati attorney and civic leader, and Malcolm S. Forbes, editor of Forbes magazine.

The Herald Tribune said organizers of the new foreign aid committee met last Saturday at the White House with administration officials and were briefed on the foreign aid picture.

Negro Held In Robbery, Kidnapping

A 17-year-old Negro youth was arrested in Monroe last night after allegedly staging an armed robbery and a gun-point kidnapping.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said that Henry Williams, Negro, of 3211 Pearl St. will be charged with armed robbery and kidnapping and was placed in the parish jail shortly after giving a statement last night.

The youth is suspected of forcing Ted Mahr and his wife, of 1804 South Grand St., to drive him as far as Bosco at gunpoint shortly before 9 p.m.

Mahr told officers at 9:10 p.m. that the Negro accosted them as they were leaving their place of business, Mahr's Wholesale Poultry at 801 Thomas St.

The boy reportedly drew a .38 caliber pistol on them and told them he wanted all their money and their car. He then forced them into the car and told Mahr to drive him to New Orleans.

Along the way, Mahr made a deal with the teenager to accept $50 and let them go.

The lad agreed to the deal, and Mahr turned around at Bosco, brought the Negro back to the Trailways bus station, leaving him there with the $50. The boy left the gun in Mahr's car.

Investigating officers arrested the boy around 11 p.m., and he was taken to headquarters where he gave them a statement.

The youth told officers that he had planned to take the next bus out headed for Los Angeles, Calif. The $50 was recovered.

Officer Kills Negro Prowler In West Monroe

An unidentified Negro prowler died at Conway Memorial Hospital after having been shot by a West Monroe police officer.

The Negro was caught prowling at 406 Coleman Ave. by Capt. Ray Wyles of the West Monroe force while he was on patrol. The shooting occurred at approximately 10:10 p.m.

Seeing the Negro with an object in his hand Capt. Wyles called for him to stop. He called twice, he said. When he failed to stop the officer shot.

The Negro was carried to Conway where he died later.

16-Year-Old Can Thank Girl For Saving His Life

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, hospitalized with a broken back, Saturday could thank his 14-year-old girl friend for saving his life.

Only quick action by Diane Nealy of Natchotoches saved the life of David Heard of Wichita, Kan.

The two were part of a party swimming in the shallow Bayou Teche tidal waters near Centerville Friday.

Heard dived from a pier into water only six or seven inches deep. He had dived at that spot earlier but didn't notice that the tide had gone out.

He remained motionless, face down in the water. Diane ran to him, turned him over and held his face out of the water. Billy Vaughn, 29, also of Wichita, carried Heard out of the water.

Doctors at Charity Hospital here said he may be permanently paralyzed from the arms down. Doctors said his spinal cord may have been damaged.

Search Mounted For Lost Child

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) —The third young child missing from his home within two months was the object of a house-to-house search Saturday.

Three-year-old Andrew T. Ashley was reported missing by his parents Friday night.

Police said the last person to report having seen the boy said he was walking with a woman toward the Buffalo Zoo at Delaware Park near the boy's home.

On Thursday, Richard Edgington, 5, told police a woman took him for a walk to the zoo and left him bound and gagged, only partly clad. April 23, Susan Benedict, 5, told police a woman took her for a walk and left her bound and gagged.

All three children live within a few blocks of each other. They were all apparently playing alone at the time, police said.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Ashley said their son had gone out to play with a neighbor in the afternoon. They later learned the neighbors had been away all day.

Police said the house-to-house search would cover several thousand homes. More than 100 police and volunteers combed the area. Skindivers were searching a lake in Delaware Park.

Edward J. Ehrne told police he saw the boy walking with a woman about 4 p.m. He said he knew the boy well but the woman was unfamiliar to him. He remembered later the boy went along reluctantly.

Police said the woman fit the general description of that given by the two other children.

Erne and the boy's father spent the night searching the neighborhood, zoo and the park.

"I can't think of any other place to look," Ashley said wearily. "All we can do is wait and hope."

Detectives checked garages, garbage cans and deserted buildings.

"We're keeping our youngest children in the backyard," James McNamara said. "We've told them what was happening and warned them about strangers."

Mrs. Leon Stutzman said most of the children around her home have been playing together.

"We know each others children," she said, "and we're keeping a close eye on them."

College Head Quits Over Disorders

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, president of Bowling Green State University, resigned Saturday in the wake of recent disorders involving students and faculty members on the campus.

The resignation is effective Sept. 1.

McDonald, who has been president for the past 10 years, requested a one-year leave of absence from the university with permission to return in September 1962, with faculty status. The board agreed to this.

McDonald said he would do research in higher education when he returned to Bowling Green.

The trustees named Dr. Ralph Harshman, a present faculty member who formerly served as vice president, as acting president.

McDonald made no direct reference to the troubles that have plagued the campus in recent months. But he said the past 10 years "have been for me and my wife the most strenuous and grueling in our experience."

He added: "In terms of a 40-hour work week, we have spent about 25 years on this job."

McDonald said the quality of the university's educational program is being consistently demonstrated by the outstanding records of its graduates in all fields. "These are the results that really count," he said.

All five board members paid tribute to McDonald. They issued a statement which said, in part, "It will be a dark day if the resignation is taken as a victory for a minority faculty group whose members might be glad this happened."

McDonald has been under criticism by a faculty group in connection with the dismissal of Dr. Sherman Stanage, chairman of the Bowling Green philosophy department. They claimed the action stemmed from Stanage's part in student demonstrations against allegedly overstrict university rules.

Board member Alva W. Bachman, a Bowling Green attorney, said McDonald has been enforcing rules set by the board and not his—McDonald's—own.

Bachman added: "As long as I am on the board, I will demand that these policies will not be changed no matter who is president."

The board took a series of other actions in an effort to restore good campus relations.

It created the post of provost and named Dr. Paul F. Leedy, professor of English and head of libraries, to fill it. The board also relieved Vice President Kenneth H. McFall of all academic duties so he can work closely with the president.

WHAT IS A "DOLLAR'S WORTH"?

Nobody knows how small your dollar's buying power would be today if there were no advertising.

But everybody knows you can buy a lot more with a dollar today because of advertising.

Advertising reduces the cost of things you buy because it informs everyone at once of the benefits individual products offer.

Advertising's mass informing results in mass buying which enables mass production. When that happens, you pay less because production and distribution costs per item can be reduced.

This is the reason advertising is so often cited as "one of the strongest forces in maintaining our economy." Because it lowers the prices we pay for things we want and need, we all get more for our dollars and continue raising our standard of living.

It pays to advertise? Yes. It pays everybody.

AT SAN FRANCISCO

Vanderbilt Heir Leaps To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — George Vanderbilt, 47-year-old heir to millions, leaped to his death from a 10th floor window of a Nob Hill hotel Saturday night, apparently worried over business difficulties and his yacht, the Pioneer.

Vanderbilt and his bride of three months, the former Louise Mitchell Paine, 41, registered at the Mark Hopkins Hotel early Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Vanderbilt said when her husband returned from an afternoon business meeting she went to the bathroom to dress for dinner.

When she came out a few minutes later, she said, her husband was gone. The window of the 10th floor suite was open and the drapes tied back. Vanderbilt's body was found on the pavement below.

Mrs. Vanderbilt said her husband had never threatened suicide and left no notes. When he returned from his business meeting Saturday he showed no unusual signs of strain, she said. But "there were some apparent business difficulties — and he was worried also about his yacht, the Pioneer," she said.

Vanderbilt, ardent sportsman, listed his residence at Shadow Valley Ranch, Edgewood, Calif. He also has homes in New York City and Hawaii.

He married the former Mrs. Paine at Scottsdale, Ariz., last March 23. It was his fourth marriage.

The millionaire was born in Rhode Island, the son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and the late Mrs. Margaret Emerson.

Muslim Threat Outlined By College Teacher

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Black Muslims, a Negro nationalist group, is a fast growing movement that could offer a real threat of violence, a professor at Atlanta's Clark College said Saturday.

"If the Muslims are attacked, they will fight," Dr. Eric C. Lincoln, who authored "The Black Muslim in America," told the annual race relations institution at Fisk University.

He said the violence might erupt if any of the group's members were attacked while protesting racial segregation in the South.

Lincoln estimated the movement's membership at 100,000 and rising. He said Muslims now have 72 temples in the United States, including some in the South.

The group's main goal, he said, is to found a separate Negro state in an area now occupied by 12 western states.

Monroe Negro Is Accused Of Felony Theft

A 47-year-old Negro was booked for felony theft by Monroe city police early Saturday morning and admitted the theft during questioning.

Willie T. Holland, 47, of 710 South 18th St., Monroe, was transferred to the parish jail after telling police where the approximately $40 worth of stolen merchandise could be found.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said Holland confessed having taken a set of dishes and a lawnmower from the store where he was employed.

The articles were recovered. The theft took place sometime Friday.

Man Wages Battle On City Hall

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—In the private war of Patrick Henry Boyle and his allies, two flop-eared dogs named Shadow and Chub, the city of St. Louis wins the battles, but Boyle apparently is winning the war.

Boyle, 52, a loquacious, athletic former custodian of the city's Forest Park field house, has occupied a corner of the building for eleven years and successfully thwarted all efforts to dispossess him.

It looked as though the city really had Boyle backed into his corner last week when a deputy sheriff arrived at the field house with a writ.

Faced with the legal instrument which plainly stated he must remove himself from the northeast corner of the field house, Boyle decided to shift his residence. Exhibiting a flair for tactics his namesake would have appreciated, Boyle moved his dogs and a few meager possessions, including a television set and radio, into the southeast corner.

The deputy retired. Nothing in his writ said anything about evicting Boyle from the southeast corner of the field house, where Patrick Henry now sits, stolidly defending his castle.

Boyle is a popular figure around the field house. He often plays handball on the nearby courts and his daily constitutionals with Shadow and Chub and frequent bicycle spins have made him a familiar sight to park visitors.

FOOD BILLS

The average American consumed an estimated 1,488 pounds of food in 1960. Food processors and manufacturers provided news of their products via a $138 million expenditure in national newspaper advertising.

IN KATANGA PROVINCE

Thousands Greet Returning Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, (AP) — Cheering thousands snatched up President Moise Tshombe Saturday night and carried him on their shoulders as he returned from two months detention by the central government.

Hundreds in the crowd, black and white, tried to kiss Tshombe or touch him as he stepped from the DC4 airliner. Tshombe appeared overcome with emotion. The usual smile was not on his face.

An estimated total of 8,000 persons and a United Nations honor guard greeted Tshombe at the airport. Some 50,000 other persons waited for him to drive into Elisabethville in an open convertible. A little white girl gave him a bouquet of flowers when he reached the center of the flag-decked city.

Some youths carried banners reading, "We have lost confidence in the Congo" and, "Welcome back to Katanga martyrs Tshombe and Kimba."

Tshombe and his foreign minister, Evariste Kimba, were arrested by the central government April 26 when they tried to leave a political unity conference in Coquilhatville.

Tshombe was released Thursday and pledged he would cooperate with the Leopoldville government. Before his arrest, Tshombe had been an outspoken foe of a strong centralized government in Leopoldville. His rich province seceded from the Congo last year when Belgium granted independence.

But when released he said he would send Katanga delegates to a reconvened session of the Congolese Parliament scheduled to begin Sunday in Leopoldville and would cooperate to make the Congo a strong nation.

Gen. Joseph Mobutu, Leopoldville's armed forces commander, said Tshombe had agreed to put his strong, well-disciplined army under the central government's command. Seven Leopoldville army officers accompanied Tshombe on his return Saturday.

Many observers in Leopoldville were skeptical that Tshombe has really ended his quarrel with Leopoldville.

Citizens Slate Group To Push For Foreign Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — A citizens group is being organized with White House encouragement to lobby for President Kennedy's $4.8-billion foreign aid program, the New York Herald Tribune said Saturday night.

A Washington dispatch by David Wise said the idea behind the new Citizens Committee for International Development is to provide a forum for those who support the need for foreign aid.

Another aim, wrote Wise, is to offset the highly organized and vocal pressure groups working against the program.

"Up to now, only the opponents of foreign aid have been organized," he said. "The White House has quietly encouraged formation of the new group because the President's foreign aid bill faces a tough battle, particularly his request for long-term borrowing authority of $7.3 billion over the next five years."

Warren Lee Pierson, chairman of the executive committee of Trans World Airlines, reportedly has accepted chairmanship of the new committee, which opened an office in Washington a week ago. Pierson was unavailable for comment.

Among those listed as having already accepted membership as vice chairmen are Thomas J. Watson Jr., president of the International Business Machines Corp.; Eugenia Anderson, former ambassador to Denmark; William S. Paley, board chairman of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati attorney and civic leader, and Malcolm S. Forbes, editor of Forbes magazine.

The Herald Tribune said organizers of the new foreign aid committee met last Saturday at the White House with administration officials and were briefed on the foreign aid picture.

Negro Held In Robbery, Kidnapping

A 17-year-old Negro youth was arrested in Monroe last night after allegedly staging an armed robbery and a gun-point kidnapping.

Police Chief James C. Kelly Jr. said that Henry Williams, Negro, of 3211 Pearl St. will be charged with armed robbery and kidnapping and was placed in the parish jail shortly after giving a statement last night.

The youth is suspected of forcing Ted Mahr and his wife, of 1804 South Grand St., to drive him as far as Bosco at gunpoint shortly before 9 p.m.

Mahr told officers at 9:10 p.m. that the Negro accosted them as they were leaving their place of business, Mahr's Wholesale Poultry at 801 Thomas St.

The boy reportedly drew a .38 caliber pistol on them and told them he wanted all their money and their car. He then forced them into the car and told Mahr to drive him to New Orleans.

Along the way, Mahr made a deal with the teenager to accept $50 and let them go.

The lad agreed to the deal, and Mahr turned around at Bosco, brought the Negro back to the Trailways bus station, leaving him there with the $50. The boy left the gun in Mahr's car.

Investigating officers arrested the boy around 11 p.m., and he was taken to headquarters where he gave them a statement.

The youth told officers that he had planned to take the next bus out headed for Los Angeles, Calif. The $50 was recovered.

Officer Kills Negro Prowler In West Monroe

An unidentified Negro prowler died at Conway Memorial Hospital after having been shot by a West Monroe police officer.

The Negro was caught prowling at 406 Coleman Ave. by Capt. Ray Wyles of the West Monroe force while he was on patrol. The shooting occurred at approximately 10:10 p.m.

Seeing the Negro with an object in his hand Capt. Wyles called for him to stop. He called twice, he said. When he failed to stop the officer shot.

The Negro was carried to Conway where he died later.

16-Year-Old Can Thank Girl For Saving His Life

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 16-year-old boy, hospitalized with a broken back, Saturday could thank his 14-year-old girl friend for saving his life.

Only quick action by Diane Nealy of Natchotoches saved the life of David Heard of Wichita, Kan.

The two were part of a party swimming in the shallow Bayou Teche tidal waters near Centerville Friday.

Heard dived from a pier into water only six or seven inches deep. He had dived at that spot earlier but didn't notice that the tide had gone out.

He remained motionless, face down in the water. Diane ran to him, turned him over and held his face out of the water. Billy Vaughn, 29, also of Wichita, carried Heard out of the water.

Doctors at Charity Hospital here said he may be permanently paralyzed from the arms down. Doctors said his spinal cord may have been damaged.

Search Mounted For Lost Child

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) —The third young child missing from his home within two months was the object of a house-to-house search Saturday.

Three-year-old Andrew T. Ashley was reported missing by his parents Friday night.

Police said the last person to report having seen the boy said he was walking with a woman toward the Buffalo Zoo at Delaware Park near the boy's home.

On Thursday, Richard Edgington, 5, told police a woman took him for a walk to the zoo and left him bound and gagged, only partly clad. April 23, Susan Benedict, 5, told police a woman took her for a walk and left her bound and gagged.

All three children live within a few blocks of each other. They were all apparently playing alone at the time, police said.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Ashley said their son had gone out to play with a neighbor in the afternoon. They later learned the neighbors had been away all day.

Police said the house-to-house search would cover several thousand homes. More than 100 police and volunteers combed the area. Skindivers were searching a lake in Delaware Park.

Edward J. Ehrne told police he saw the boy walking with a woman about 4 p.m. He said he knew the boy well but the woman was unfamiliar to him. He remembered later the boy went along reluctantly.

Police said the woman fit the general description of that given by the two other children.

Erne and the boy's father spent the night searching the neighborhood, zoo and the park.

"I can't think of any other place to look," Ashley said wearily. "All we can do is wait and hope."

Detectives checked garages, garbage cans and deserted buildings.

"We're keeping our youngest children in the backyard," James McNamara said. "We've told them what was happening and warned them about strangers."

Mrs. Leon Stutzman said most of the children around her home have been playing together.

"We know each others children," she said, "and we're keeping a close eye on them."

College Head Quits Over Disorders

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, president of Bowling Green State University, resigned Saturday in the wake of recent disorders involving students and faculty members on the campus.

The resignation is effective Sept. 1.

McDonald, who has been president for the past 10 years, requested a one-year leave of absence from the university with permission to return in September 1962, with faculty status. The board agreed to this.

McDonald said he would do research in higher education when he returned to Bowling Green.

The trustees named Dr. Ralph Harshman, a present faculty member who formerly served as vice president, as acting president.

McDonald made no direct reference to the troubles that have plagued the campus in recent months. But he said the past 10 years "have been for me and my wife the most strenuous and grueling in our experience."

He added: "In terms of a 40-hour work week, we have spent about 25 years on this job."

McDonald said the quality of the university's educational program is being consistently demonstrated by the outstanding records of its graduates in all fields. "These are the results that really count," he said.

All five board members paid tribute to McDonald. They issued a statement which said, in part, "It will be a dark day if the resignation is taken as a victory for a minority faculty group whose members might be glad this happened."

McDonald has been under criticism by a faculty group in connection with the dismissal of Dr. Sherman Stanage, chairman of the Bowling Green philosophy department. They claimed the action stemmed from Stanage's part in student demonstrations against allegedly overstrict university rules.

Board member Alva W. Bachman, a Bowling Green attorney, said McDonald has been enforcing rules set by the board and not his—McDonald's—own.

Bachman added: "As long as I am on the board, I will demand that these policies will not be changed no matter who is president."

The board took a series of other actions in an effort to restore good campus relations.

It created the post of provost and named Dr. Paul F. Leedy, professor of English and head of libraries, to fill it. The board also relieved Vice President Kenneth H. McFall of all academic duties so he can work closely with the president.

GEN. MIDDLETON SAYS

Holdback Of Funds Will Restrict LSU

BATON ROUGE (AP)— President Troy H. Middleton of Louisiana State University has labeled the state's holdback of five per cent of appropriated funds as placing LSU in "its most serious financial bind since world war two."

Writing in the LSU Outlook, a bimonthly publication, Middleton protested that the five per cent holdback in operating funds, plus earlier budget slashes, has reduced LSU to fiscal operations for the coming fiscal year to the same level of operation in this fiscal year.

The five per cent cutback was contained in the new general appropriations bill for all state agencies, adopted in the recent fiscal legislature. It was designed to hold back some funds until a better picture of state revenues for the coming year could be obtained.

However, latest information from fiscal officers is that the holdback does not have to apply to salaries, although it does apply to the total agency budget.

Middleton wrote, "the reduction of the expansion budget "for LSU "is serious enough, it will restrict the development of LSUNO and LSU-Alexandria and will reduce or eliminate finds urgently needed by the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Agricultural Extension Division."

"But the reduction of the operating budget," he continued, "to an amount which is only $126,697 above the level of the 1960-61 fiscal year is far more damaging, because it is the operating budget which provides funds for pay raises and the maintenance of new buildings."

Middleton said LSU "cannot continue to receive blows of this kind without beging irreparably damaged as an effective instrument of higher learning."

"LSU is Louisiana's most precious possession." Middleton said. "It is the key to social, cultural and economic progress. To curb its advancement is to shortchange the taxpayers of Louisiana."

Ambassador To Cambodia Sees Prestige Loss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's Ambassador to Cambodia has warned the State Department that U.S. prestige in that Southeast Asian country will suffer "a severe blow" if something is not done to repair the Cambodian-American Friendship Highway.

The 130-mile road, connecting Cambodia's capital of Phnom Penh with the seaport of Sihanoukville on the Gulf of Siam, was built two years ago under the U.S. foreign aid program.

Ambassador William C. Trimble messaged home that the roadway is "rapidly deteriorating" and must be put back into "first-class shape" if the United States does not want to lose face.

Congressional investigators already are inquiring into charges that poor construction and engineering by two American firms was the cause of the trouble.

The road has been falling apart in heavy rains. Long stretches of its asphalt surface have as many cracks as a sun-baked mud flat.

The highway was built as a symbol of the friendship of the people of the United States and Cambodia. It also was supposed to represent the best in American road-building "know-how."

But today the Communists in Southeast Asia point to it with scorn. Even the Cambodian press has said the road is a prime example of "bad workmanship."

GEN. MIDDLETON SAYS

Holdback Of Funds Will Restrict LSU

BATON ROUGE (AP)— President Troy H. Middleton of Louisiana State University has labeled the state's holdback of five per cent of appropriated funds as placing LSU in "its most serious financial bind since world war two."

Writing in the LSU Outlook, a bimonthly publication, Middleton protested that the five per cent holdback in operating funds, plus earlier budget slashes, has reduced LSU to fiscal operations for the coming fiscal year to the same level of operation in this fiscal year.

The five per cent cutback was contained in the new general appropriations bill for all state agencies, adopted in the recent fiscal legislature. It was designed to hold back some funds until a better picture of state revenues for the coming year could be obtained.

However, latest information from fiscal officers is that the holdback does not have to apply to salaries, although it does apply to the total agency budget.

Middleton wrote, "the reduction of the expansion budget "for LSU "is serious enough, it will restrict the development of LSUNO and LSU-Alexandria and will reduce or eliminate finds urgently needed by the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Agricultural Extension Division."

"But the reduction of the operating budget," he continued, "to an amount which is only $126,697 above the level of the 1960-61 fiscal year is far more damaging, because it is the operating budget which provides funds for pay raises and the maintenance of new buildings."

Middleton said LSU "cannot continue to receive blows of this kind without beging irreparably damaged as an effective instrument of higher learning."

"LSU is Louisiana's most precious possession," Middleton said. "It is the key to social, cultural and economic progress. To curb its advancement is to shortchange the taxpayers of Louisiana."

Ambassador To Cambodia Sees Prestige Loss

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's Ambassador to Cambodia has warned the State Department that U.S. prestige in that Southeast Asian country will suffer "a severe blow" if something is not done to repair the Cambodian-American Friendship Highway.

The 130-mile road, connecting Cambodia's capital of Phnom Penh with the seaport of Sihanoukville on the Gulf of Siam, was built two years ago under the U.S. foreign aid program.

Ambassador William C. Trimble messaged home that the roadway is "rapidly deteriorating" and must be put back into "first-class shape" if the United States does not want to lose face.

Congressional investigators already are inquiring into charges that poor construction and engineering by two American firms was the cause of the trouble.

The road has been falling apart in heavy rains. Long stretches of its asphalt surface have as many cracks as a sun-baked mud flat.

The highway was built as a symbol of the friendship of the people of the United States and Cambodia. It also was supposed to represent the best in American road-building "know-how."

But today the Communists in Southeast Asia point to it with scorn. Even the Cambodian press has said the road is a prime example of "bad workmanship."

Driving Case

Cloma Welch DeFreese, 52 of Dubach, was booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages by Monroe police shortly after midnight Friday.

We, the Owners and Employees, of Coastal Motor Exchange wish to thank the Citizens of Monroe, West Monroe and surrounding Parishes for the business they have extended to us since our opening date, June 5 of this year.

The Motor Exchange business is one of America's fastest growing Concerns. One of the reasons why it is expanding so rapidly is due to the fact that whenever you, the Consumer, have a Dyrometer Tested Engine installed in your car you get a written guarantee; a guarantee that we stand behind all the way. This same word, guarantee, makes it unwise for you to have that worn-out engine overhauled for usually the work is not guaranteed and often low grade parts are used. So by all means, don't fix it, exchange it, and have power plus performance. In most cases, the money the Consumer spends for all for his old motor will more than make the payments on a Remanufactured Motor installed.

We invite everyone to come by Coastal Motor Exchange, located at 507 Washington Street, Monroe, La., and inspect our exclusive Gold Line Remanufactured Engines. Coastal Motor Exchange is one of the finest in the South, with factory trained mechanics always on duty. We will be looking for you.

Sincerely,

THE MANAGEMENT

We, the Owners and Employees, of Coastal Motor Exchange wish to thank the Citizens of Monroe, West Monroe and surrounding Parishes for the business they have extended to us since our opening date, June 5 of this year.

The Motor Exchange business is one of America's fastest growing Concerns. One of the reasons why it is expanding so rapidly is due to the fact that whenever you, the Consumer, have a Dyrometer Tested Engine installed in your car you get a written guarantee; a guarantee that we stand behind all the way. This same word, guarantee, makes it unwise for you to have that worn-out engine overhauled for usually the work is not guaranteed and often low grade parts are used. So by all means, don't fix it, exchange it, and have power plus performance. In most cases, the money the Consumer spends for oil for his old motor will more than make the payments on a Remanufactured Motor installed.

We invite everyone to come by Coastal Motor Exchange, located at 507 Washington Street, Monroe, La., and inspect our exclusive Gold Line Remanufactured Engines. Coastal Motor Exchange is one of the finest in the South, with factory trained mechanics always on duty. We will be looking for you.

Sincerely,
THE MANAGEMENT
Coastal Motor Exchange

YOU WOULDN'T BUY A PIG IN A POKE!
Then don't buy a home BEFORE READING ALL THE FINE PRINT!

In an effort to get sales, recent entries into the shell home field have made glowing promises, resorted to questionable "give-aways" and finally to so-called "balloon-notes". This type of note, while appearing to offer lower payments and a shorter contract, actually results in higher, longer term payments or even LOSS OF HOME when conditions are not met. Jim Walter urges every shell home buyer to read sales contracts carefully and DON'T BUY A PIG IN A POKE!

JIM WALTER CORPORATION IS THE WORLD'S LEADING SHELL HOME BUILDER!
The reason is simple — Jim Walter always deals "fair and square" . . . never misrepresents or attempts to short-cut the customer. We invite your comparison and careful inspection . . . See for yourself how Jim Walter got to be the World's Leading Builder of Shell Homes.

YOU WOULDN'T BUY A PIG IN A POKE!
Then don't buy a home BEFORE READING ALL THE FINE PRINT!

In an effort to get sales, recent entries into the shell home field have made glowing promises, resorted to questionable "give-aways" and finally to so-called "balloon-notes". This type of note, while appearing to offer lower payments and a shorter contract, actually results in higher, longer term payments or even LOSS OF HOME when conditions are not met. Jim Walter urges every shell home buyer to read sales contracts carefully and DON'T BUY A PIG IN A POKE!

JIM WALTER CORPORATION IS THE WORLD'S LEADING SHELL HOME BUILDER!
The reason is simple — Jim Walter always deals "fair and square" . . . never misrepresents or attempts to short-cut the customer. We invite your comparison and careful inspection . . . See for yourself how Jim Walter got to be the World's Leading Builder of Shell Homes.

TOMORROW IS MY SECRETARY'S BIRTHDAY--I WANT YOU TO PICK OUT A NICE PRESENT FOR ME TO GIVE TO HER

BUT WHAT IF YOUR WIFE HEARS ABOUT IT? YOU KNOW HOW JEALOUS WIVES ARE OF SECRETARIES

DON'T WORRY, THIS IS STRICTLY BUSINESS--SHE WON'T HEAR ABOUT IT

STOP WORRYING--MISS GEECH IS A FINE SECRETARY AND I WANT HER TO KNOW I APPRECIATE HER WORK

OKAY--I WARNED YOU

HOW ABOUT THIS BEAUTIFUL BRACELET?

AH--THAT'LL MAKE A PERFECT GIFT

IT'S A BEAUTIFUL BRACELET AND I HAD IT GIFT-WRAPPED

FINE--I'LL PRESENT IT TO MISS GEECH TOMORROW

WHERE IS THAT GOOD-FOR-NOTHING HUSBAND OF MINE? I WANT TO SEE HIM THIS MINUTE

MR. DITHERS--YOUR WIFE IS HERE AND SHE HAS MURDER IN HER EYES

SHE'S SORE AT ME BECAUSE I PLAYED CARDS SO LATE LAST NIGHT

I'LL GIVE MY WIFE THE BRACELET--- THAT'LL CALM HER DOWN AND MAKE HER FORGIVE ME

DARLING--FORGET THE PAST AND ACCEPT THIS TOKEN OF MY UNDYING LOVE

OH, JULIUS--HOW THOUGHTFUL! A PRESENT FOR ME?

EVERYTHING'S LOVELY--HE GAVE HER THE BRACELET AND THEY KISSED AND MADE UP

THAT WAS QUICK THINKING ON THE BOSS'S PART

OH, MY GOODNESS--I FORGOT TO TELL THE BOSS I HAD HIS SECRETARY'S INITIALS ENGRAVED ON THE BRACELET!

HERE THEY COME

FOLLOWING UP ON A CHANCE CONVERSATION BETWEEN 2 BOYS AT THE ZOO, LIZZ LOCATES THE BUILDING WHERE ONE OF THE LADS SAW A BIG "CAT".

HERE HE COMES NOW.

IT'S HUBBUB, ALL RIGHT, BUT I'LL BET HE'S NOT REGISTERED HERE UNDER HIS OWN NAME.

WELL, LADY, YOUR FRIEND NEVER DID SHOW UP, EH?

CLERK

NO, AND I DON'T THINK I'LL WAIT ANY LONGER. INCIDENTALLY, WASN'T THAT BILL BULLET, THE TV STAR?

HIM? OH, NO. THAT WAS TOMMY HOOSTON, ONE OF OUR LONG-TIME RESIDENTS—NICE FELLOW.

OH.

DELIBERATELY BREAKING THE STRAND OF BEADS AT HER NECK, LIZZ LETS THEM TRICKLE TO THE FLOOR.

DEAR ME--

YOU GIRLS AND YOUR BEADS! RELAX, I'LL GET THEM FOR YOU, MISS.

CLERK

AS THE CLERK BUSIES HIMSELF WITH THE BEADS, LIZZ CHECKS THE DESK.

HOOSTON, HOOSTON!! HOOSTON, TOMMY —AH, YES!--- APARTMENT 2B!

AND UPSTAIRS—

YOU'RE BACK.

YEAH. LUCKILY, THERE WAS A PET STORE ONLY A HALF BLOCK AWAY.

THERE'S YOUR CATNIP! AND IT HAD BETTER QUIET THOSE BEASTS DOWN. I CAN'T STAND MUCH MORE OF THIS.

IT'LL QUIET THEM. DON'T WORRY. THEY LOVE CATNIP.
